STRIKE VOTE 'FIRST'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America (CLC) will take "immediate steps" to conduct a strike vote in its dispute with coast lumber operators, regional chairman Jack Moore said today.

The decision followed an announcement by William Sands, deputy labor minister, that conciliation officer John Sherlock has recommended no conciliation board be appointed in the dispute.

"The gulf between the union and the operators is as wide as at the commencement of bargaining talks," said Mr. Moore.

"A solid strike vote is now the best and only way to secure worthwhile negotiations."

WANT 50 CENTS

The 26,000 coast lumber workers want a 50-cent-an-hour increase on the present basic rate of $2.36 an hour. The companies want protection against wildcat strikes written into the contract.

The present contract ends June 15.

A forest industry spokesman said the industry will not stand in the way of the strike vote by requesting government supervision.

"We don't want a strike," said John M. Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. "But if the union needs a strike vote before it will bargain for a new contract, let them take the vote so we can get down to business."

'VOTE FIRST'

"From the first day we opened negotiations on March 16 the IWA made it perfectly clear it was going to take a strike vote before it attempted any serious bargaining," Mr. Billings said.

He said that in view of this a resumption of meetings would be futile until the union takes its strike vote.

He said the industry has the right to demand a government-supervised strike vote, but will not. He said the industry will let the IWA run its own secret ballot in the interest of speeding up negotiations.

Mr. Billings noted that the union claimed that by voting overwhelmingly for strike, the members were not necessarily endorsing strike action.

"Many members of the union will legitimately wonder why they are voting.

"Usually, union members vote to strike when they reject a proposed settlement; but at this stage the union leaders have negotiated nothing.

"As far as we are concerned, this is a vote in a vacuum."

SMITH ADVISER

Rhodesia Names Team for Talks

SALISBURY (CP)—Rhodesia today named Sir Cornelius Greenfield, chief economic adviser to Prime Minister Ian Smith, to head a three-man team to Anglo-Rhodesian talks in London next week.

A statement from the prime minister's office said the three men would leave here by air for London Saturday.

The talks, expected to begin early next week, are exploratory — to see whether any basis for negotiations exists between London and Salisbury on the dispute over the independence seized by the white-ruled British colony Nov. 11, 1965.

Other members of the Rhodesian team are S. E. Morris, chairman of the Public Services Board, and Gerald Clarke, secretary to Smith.

The British negotiators, named in London, will be Oliver Wright, Prime Minister Wilson's private secretary and close adviser who has just been named ambassador to Denmark, and Duncan Watson, assistant secretary for Commonwealth relations.

Guatemala Gunmen Hunted

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—Police mounted a search today for two top Guatemalan officials kidnapped Wednesday by gunmen.

Government Information Secretary Baltazar Morales and Supreme Court President Romeo Augusto Deleon were snatched from their cars as they drove in the city.

Morales' car was riddled with bullets and his son Fernando and his chauffeur were both killed. Morales has not been seen since and it was believed the gunmen took him in their jeep, later found abandoned.

WIRE BRIEFS

Blast In Factory

MONTREAL (UPI) — An explosion, believed caused by a bomb, ripped through a strike-bound shoe factory today shortly before 1 p.m. Police reported that one unidentified woman was killed and four other persons were hospitalized.

Students Run Wild

MADRID (Reuters) — Some 3,000 students shouting "liberty" ran wild through the Madrid University campus today, halting traffic and throwing stones at mounted police. The demonstrators were demanding more power for the students' union.

Milan Hit By Strikers

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Reinforced riot squads guarded Milan's industrial section today as new strikes were called in the aftermath of street fighting in which more than 100 persons were injured.

JERUSALEM (AP)—At least 15 students were injured in clashes with police today during a demonstration against Konrad Adenauer, the third since the former West German chancellor arrived here Monday.

SPENCER LAWYER LOSES BID

'Security Most Important'

(See also Page 28.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells, one-man royal commission investigating the Victor Spencer affair, said today the security of the country is more important than the publicity surrounding the commission hearings.

Mr. Justice Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court made the statement in rejecting a request by the lawyer representing the Spencer estate that persons who had given information to the RCMP be brought before commission hearings for examination.

He repeated the statement as he debated with lawyer Harry Rankin about the value of evidence taken in Ottawa in earlier hearings, the transcript of which was released Wednesday night.

The debate took place shortly after the Wells commission started hearings here.

The released testimony included a statement by Mr. Spencer, former postal clerk who lost his job after allegations that he was a spy for the Russians and statements by W. H. Kelly, RCMP assistant commissioner and director of security and intelligence.

Used as Agent

In it Spencer admitted he performed a number of assignments for the Soviet embassy in Ottawa. He said he eventually suspected he was "maybe" being used as an agent.

Commissioner Kelly said he thought Spencer's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Rankin objected to Mr. Justice Wells that the Kelly evidence contains a great number of allegations against Spencer.

Mr. Justice Wells agreed there was hearsay evidence but added under his terms of reference he can consider it.

Security Vital

"The security of this country is of more importance than the publicity of this hearing."

Mr. Rankin said he would not be satisfied short of the production of witnesses who had supplied the RCMP with information which made up the commissioner's report.

Mr. Justice Wells said:

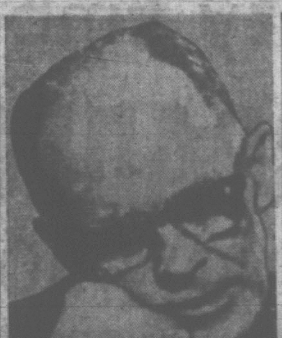
"That would involve disclosure of this country's intelligence methods."

He repeated his statement about publicity.

Mr. Rankin, after a clash with Mr. Justice Wells on the Kelly evidence, said he was sitting only as an observer.

He said he was as conscious as anyone of the need for national security, but that the RCMP official's evidence was the main testimony on which any decision would be made.

Mr. Rankin refused to cross-examine Sgt. M. G. Low of the RCMP who had taken the statement from Spencer.



SPENCER

Asked by Mr. Justice Wells whether he was sitting at the hearings in a "posture of pique," Mr. Rankin said he was not.

Dr. Stanley Sunshine testified to the health of Spencer, mentioning he had a cancerous lung removed in March, 1965. Asked about Spencer's mental condition, the doctor said the former postal clerk had gone through a "psychological crisis" after the removal of the lung.

'Story to Tell'

He said Spencer did not consider himself a spy and in March, 1966, he had given him a statement headed "A story I wish to tell" in which he said he was a true Canadian patriot. The statement was entered as an exhibit.

Cpl. David Turnbull of the Vancouver RCMP division said Spencer had voluntarily given him a statement denying newspaper accounts that he had been "grilled" by police.

Spencer had said the RCMP had been most co-operative.

Spencer, 62, was found dead of natural causes in his Vancouver home April 10.

In the 98-page document made public Wednesday night, RCMP security officials claimed Spencer supplied photos and information to the Soviet embassy in Ottawa that could have been used for industrial sabotage or a projected clandestine espionage centre near the U.S. border in B.C.

The document, a transcript of evidence taken at closed hearings in Ottawa last month and a signed statement by Spencer labelled "top secret," revealed that Spencer supplied Soviet agents with films and verbal and written reports on such things as:

- Farms for sale close to the U.S. border;
- Ethnic groups in Canada and their political views;
- U.S.-Canada border crossing procedures;
- Names and dates of deceased persons on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries;
- Photos of Vancouver slums and the Trans-Mountain pipeline.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified that the RCMP believed the significance of Spencer's activities "suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network" near the U.S. border.

Spencer's data and photos of the Trans-Mountain pipeline and other things in Alberta and B.C. would "fit into Russian intelli-

EX-MINISTER URGES:

'End U.S. Domination Of Economy'

TORONTO (CP)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon officially launched a new book today, saying he hopes it will serve as a basis for discussion of ways to overcome what he sees as the threat of United States domination of the Canadian economy.

At the same time, he denied it marks the start of new political aims for himself or that he has any thoughts about the Liberal party leadership — at least as long as Prime Minister Pearson is on the scene.

The book, entitled A Choice for Canada, is to be published this week by McClelland and Stewart.

In it, Mr. Gordon — who resigned as finance minister last November after the last federal election — discusses foreign affairs, federal - provincial relations and social security. But its major topic is the Canadian economy and the role of U.S. investment.

GORDON

REVIEWS U.S. INFLUENCE

The book reviews the extent of U.S. investment in Canada and the influence the U.S. already has over the economy and adds:

"We still have a choice. We can do the things that are necessary to regain control of our economy and thus maintain our independence.

"Or we can acquiesce in becoming a colonial dependency of the United States, with no future except the hope of eventual absorption."

Mr. Gordon told a press conference that despite some sections of the book he is not gloomy about the future of Canada or its independence.

In the book, he said, he suggests measures he considers mild which would ensure as much independence as any country could have in today's world.

SPARK DISCUSSION

He said he is anxious that Parliament take the necessary steps to guarantee Canada's independence. He hoped the book would help provoke discussion and debate on the best ways to achieve that aim.

The major economic proposals advanced in the book include:

—Reduced capital - cost allowances for foreign controlled subsidiaries;

—A withholding tax on professional fees paid to non-residents by such subsidiaries.

Challenge And Ambitions

Former finance minister Walter L. Gordon has hurled a direct challenge to the Liberal party to act now to save Canada from complete economic absorption by the United States in his new book, "A Choice for Canada: Independence or Colonial Status," which goes on sale Saturday.

Ottawa political commentator Peter C. Newman reviews the book today on page 5 and discusses its implications for the future of the Liberal party and Mr. Gordon's ambitions to head the party.

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker said today the "axe will fall" if senior management decides against giving a vote of confidence to supervisory personnel for its handling of the Seven Days affair.

Mr. Walker, also general manager of the English television network, was being questioned in the Commons broadcasting committee by Ron Basford (L — Vancouver-Burrard) about Reeves Haggan, supervisor of the corporation's public affairs department.

Mr. Haggan had testified earlier that management has been trying to undermine his position and has put out indirect suggestions that he resign.

NDP Brief Urges Safety Program

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A government auto insurance agency could provide a comprehensive traffic safety program as well as compensation for accident victims, the New Democratic Party today told the royal commission on auto insurance.

Its brief was presented at Victoria Law Courts by Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East).

Besides providing insurance, a government agency could:

- Have power to suspend licences of reckless drivers or those refusing to take safety training;
- Operate safety training courses, including a program for youthful drivers;
- Report on unsafe stretches of road, unsafe cars and even possibly such special problems as air pollution by auto exhaust fumes.

Mr. Macdonald said a government insurance plan would cover all British Columbians—whether pedestrians or motorists—involved in traffic accidents.

'FOR ALL VICTIMS'

"Inherent in the purpose of auto insurance should be the object of providing compensation for all victims of accidents where automobiles are involved, not just compensation for the drivers or owners of the vehicles concerned.

"This compensation should be available regardless of who is at fault."

He said private companies can only be interested in how accidents affect their shareholders, not the victims.

"It does not matter to the victim whether the vehicle that hit him was driven by a 16 or 60-year-old person, whether it was the fault of one individual or another or whether a driver was drunk or sober."

He said persons involved in traffic accidents should not have to spend time and money in litigation—quoting Ontario Chief Justice McRuer as saying:

NOT BEST METHOD

"When I see a judgment for $1,200 or $1,500 that carries with it costs amounting to nearly as much or more than the injured party receives, I cannot feel that we have devised the best method of dealing with these cases."

Mr. Macdonald said the present private auto insurance industry is costly and inefficient which spent 33 cents out of every premium dollar collected from customers on earnings and expenses during the five years "before the recent increase of 20 per and more in premium rates."

By comparison, he said, the Saskatchewan government auto insurance plan only takes 18 cents out of the premium dollar for costs.

"A 67-33 split is in itself evidence that this is not an effi-

ARGUMENT TOO MUCH FOR UMP

HALSE, England (Reuters) — Village cricket umpire Geoffrey Greenslade committed suicide following an argument with players over one of his decisions, a coroner's court was told Wednesday.

Greenslade, 35, called a batsman out in an inter-village match Saturday in this western England community. An argument ensued.

Later, the umpire was found hanging in his garage.

The local cricket club, meanwhile, has decided to sell its equipment and disband.

IN U.S.

Churches Agree On Union

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Representatives of eight major U.S. Protestant denominations overwhelmingly adopted today a set of principles as a basis for uniting into one church.

The action climaxed five years of work and displayed a dramatic consensus on issues which in the past have kept Protestants apart.

It also, for the first time, set concrete guideposts for the merger undertaking.

Voting in series on each portion of the 105-page document, the meeting approved opening chapters Wednesday night and swept through additional material Thursday.

Pledging their commitment to a unified church, the mixed company of Christians set forth the basic tenets for it and declared:

"What we shall find in this venture, we believe, is nothing less than the lost greatness in the church's life."

Eight denominations, with more than 24,000,000 members and a wide range of traditions, customs and systems, are involved.

The denominations:

Episcopalians (Anglicans), Methodists, United Presbyterians, Southern Presbyterians, Evangelical United Brethren, Christian (Disciples), Africa Methodist Episcopal Church and the United Church (including Congregationalists).

FARMER PULLS THE WOOL OVER SPEEDING DRIVERS

HUSBORNE CRAWLEY, England (AP) — Every two weeks 73-year-old Bill Francis drives his herd of 400 sheep down the main highway between his two farms during the morning rush hour.

The sheep take 90 minutes to cover 1¼ miles between the farms and traffic backs up while drivers honk and fume.

Francis says it's his contribution to slowing life down a bit. The rest of the time cars rush by his house at 70 miles an hour, making the highway a noisy menace.

To protesting motorists, the Bedfordshire police said a man has every right to drive sheep on the public highway. Bill's wife Mary commented:

"The public is a damned nuisance."

JUMPED 'ON IMPULSE'

Youth Survives Lions Gate Plunge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old boy, dazed, injured and wet was found on a trail in Vancouver's Stanley Park. He said he jumped on impulse from the deck of the Lions Gate bridge, 200 feet above Burrard Inlet.

Raymond Wiebe, a Grade 11 student, told police he walked out onto the bridge Wednesday night to a lookout platform and jumped.

"He said something came over him and he jumped," said Sgt. Bob Engler of the Vancouver city police.

"He said he doesn't remember anything until he was in the water, struggling to take his clothes off."

Weibe underwent emergency surgery early this morning, and is reported in fair condition in hospital. He suffered a ruptured spleen, ruptured liver, shock, exposure and abrasions in the fall.

Police were called to the scene by George Kappert, who said he ran down the trail from Stanley Park's Prospect Point after an unidentified man told him someone had jumped from the bridge.

"There was a young fellow lying on the trail — a small scrawny guy," Kapper said.

"He was dressed only in shorts and socks, and he kept muttering 'I'm cold, I'm cold.' He was conscious and coherent, but he wasn't really with it," Kapper said. "I asked what happened and he said he'd jumped from the bridge."

The youth's father, Andrew Wiebe, a parks board employee, said he was at a bingo game when told of his son's plunge.

"He was in a lot of pain when I saw him. He just said: 'I'm sorry, dad.'"

Friends said Wiebe is a good student and an avid chess player.

In the past, only two people have been known to survive the plunge from the Lions Gate bridge.

One was Oscar (the jumping Swede) Erickson, who jumped off the bridge in December, 1938, just for the heck of it, after a drinking spree.

The other was a 28-year-old Vancouver school teacher, Elaine Anna Almlie, who fell from the bridge in September, 1961, and was found clinging to a ladder on a bridge pier.

Pair Begin Duel For Leadership

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and former finance minister Walter Gordon have staked out their positions on economic policy in anticipation of the coming Liberal leadership race.

Each issued their economic manifestos for Canada Wednesday and their statements of policy were being examined by Liberal party members today. Their positions will come under study at the October policy meeting of the Liberal party.

Liberals at Ottawa regard it as significant that Mr. Sharp has also stressed economic nationalism. This was, and still is, one of Mr. Gordon's pet themes. However, Mr. Sharp's approach is regarded here by many Liberals as more moderate and more realistic than was that of Mr. Gordon when the latter was minister of finance.

STAKES OUT POSITION

Mr. Sharp hopes to attract the support of what, for a better label, are described as "left-wing Liberals." The present finance minister obviously hopes that those within the party who have been inclined to go along with Mr. Gordon's economic ideas will find that they can switch their support to him.

There is no vacancy in the Liberal leadership, but it is recognized that Prime Minster Pearson, after 1967, will seriously consider stepping down, if not before.

'MANIFESTO'

Being rivals, it must have been annoying for the former finance minister to discover that his successor had spoken in Toronto Wednesday setting out an "economic manifesto."

The timing of that declaration by Mr. Sharp was such that it stole the headlines from Mr. Gordon who made advance copies of his new book "A Choice for Canada" available to the press at 5:30 p.m. in Ottawa. The book, six months in the writing, sets out Mr. Gordon's detailed plan for reversing the trend toward foreign control of the Canadian economy. Many of the proposals set out by Mr. Gordon are discriminatory against foreign-owned subsidiaries.

Mr. Gordon, frankly, wants to stir up controversy on these issues within the Liberal party.

... EX-MINISTER

—A tax on foreign takeovers of Canadian companies, a proposal Mr. Gordon introduced in his controversial 1963 budget but pulled back in the face of strong opposition from financial circles;

—Interest charges on borrowings in Canada by foreign-owned subsidiaries should not be tax deductible;

—Intensified use of customs procedures to control imports by subsidiaries from foreign parents;

—Public disclosure of financial details by large companies, even those that are wholly-owned subsidiaries;

—A major educational drive by the government to show both the public and businessmen why Canada's economy should become more independent.

Mr. Gordon told the press conference that what Canada should do is put itselfinthe position where the actions of other countries would not be so likely to hurt it.

REFERS TO GUIDELINES

He said the U.S. economic guidelines introduced last December — and under attack by many Canadian economists for the effects they could have in Canada through U.S. subsidiaries—brought home the seriousness of the problem of foreign domination of the Canadian economy.

In the book Mr. Gordon says Canada has benefited greatly from the inflow of foreign capital, and more will be needed in the future.

"But the Canadian economy now is more mature than it used to be. . . .We should encourage a larger proportion of the foreign capital that we still need to come in future in the form of debt and less in the form of direct investment.

"At the same time, we should take steps to reverse the present trend toward ever greater foreign control of the day-to-day operation of our economy."

gence service sabotage requirements if and when they thought this was necessary," he said.

The Spencer case broke in May, 1965, when the government announced in Ottawa that two Soviet embassy officials had been ordered to leave Canada. Spencer was dismissed without pension at the end of 1965 after almost 20 years in his Vancouver post office job.

The affair caused a furore in Parliament and after Spencer requested an inquiry Prime Minister Pearson appointed Mr. Justice Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court to head one.

The ex-postal clerk was found dead just four days before Mr. Justice Wells was to open hearings here on whether he had been treated fairly. As a result, closed hearings were held in Ottawa April 13-15.

The hearings were shrouded in secrecy until Wednesday night's document was released by Mr. Justice Wells.

In the transcript, Assistant Commissioner Kelly dealt at length with Spencer's connection with 10 farms in the south Surrey district of B.C. near the border and information about the legal steps necessary to purchase a farm.

He said he thought this assignment by the Russians si nificant because it suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Soviet intelligence service "illegal network."

The location so close to the U.S. border suggested that an "illegal resident" agent virtually assigned to live there would be operating espionage agents based in the U.S.

"Illegal resident"—defined as a Russian intelligence agent operating under a cover—would make detection almost impossible, the assistant commissioner said.

"The hope is that this illegal resident will be able to undertake tasks without any assistance from any Russians living in the country and that he will become so independent he can operate networks of other agents and simply report and receive directions by radio from a centre outside of the country in which he operates."

Assistant Commissioner Kelly further testified at the Ottawa hearings:

1. Spencer reported on activities of ethnic groups so that other Russian agents could "neutralize" anti-Soviet activity by disruptive tactics, including character assassination.

2. He passed on a mass of general historical information to the Russians, including photographs of tombstones, names of schools that had closed, names of bankrupt businesses and names of logging camps and machinery repair shops operating in B.C. between 1943 and 1952. This would enable the Russians to send agents to Canada with perfect identities and knowledge of local customs, dress and other happenings.

3. He supplied driver's licences and other identification to the Russians so they would have a ready store of such material for their own ends.

cient, streamlined industry," said Mr. Macdonald. "Such costs in a medicare plan would be unthinkable."

He said accident coverage is essentially a public service and as such should be administered by a public agency at the lowest possible cost to the consumer.

The NDP MLA said many persons have agreed that auto insurance should be compulsory but left to private enterprise.

"As with health insurance, however, the New Democratic Party feels that it would be completely wrong to compel people to purchase insurance from private, profit-making companies."

Wednesday, the commission heard E. T. Cantell, B.C. superintendent of insurance, describe the reasons for a three-page directive he issued to the insurance industry last Nov. 8.

The directive was sent outlining the types of cases that could be put on the Assigned Risk Plan because for more than a year previously, there had been too many drivers forced by some companies to buy insurance through the plan rather than normal market procedures.

Mr. Cantell explained that the ARP was set up "to fulfill the auto insurance industry's pledge to the government that every person in B.C. who was a holder of a driver's licence would be able to obtain insurance up to the statutory limits."

(The limits now are $35,000 minimum for public liability and property damage but will be raised to $50,000 July 1 by a new law.)

He said he became aware too many people who were over 65 years of age, under 25 years of age or any age with one accident on their record were winding up in the ARP.

Mr. Cantell said the objection to this was not based on the cost of ARP policies, which were only slightly higher than regular rates, but on the fact that the persons were not able to obtain more than the minimum coverage for liability and were denied any collision damage coverage for their vehicles.

He said some companies became "too selective" in providing insurance and there was "a progressive build-up" of persons in the ARP category until by last November both he and industry representatives "realized this problem had become acute.

"It no longer could be ignored and something had to be done."

The situation achieved a more satisfactory balance after his directive was issued.

Minister From U.K. Dies at 80

Rev. Charles Smith, 80, who came out form England only six days ago to live with his daughter in North Saanich, died Monday.

Mr. Smith, formerly of Ferndown, England, was staying with his daughter, Mrs. Harold C. Bourne of 9745 West Saanich Road. He was a holder of the Military Cross.

Mr. Smith is survived by the widow, Doris, his daughter, Mrs. Bourne; a son, Capt. Peter Mains Smith in England, two sisters in England, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were to be held today in Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Patricia Bay, with Canon F. C. Vaughan-Birch officiating. Cremation will follow

Vietnamese Squabble Over Election

SAIGON (Reuters)—Members of a civilian committee, set up to help pave the way for a general election clashed today with the South Vietnamese military government over the legal definitions of the new body's role.

The first meeting of the 32-man committee, formed to draft a national electoral law, ended after 3½ hours following demands that the administration provide it with a firm legal basis for its work.

Some committee members were involved in what the official Viet Nam press agency called a "lively argument" with Interior Minister Tran Minh Tiet over its exact status and authority.

GENERALS MUST APPROVE

The agency said committee speakers disagreed with the government view that any draft election law they produced would still have to be approved by the "directory" of generals before being promulgated.

They called on the government to publish a formal decree confirming the committee's responsibilities.

Government sources earlier said Premier Nguyen Cao Ky signed such a decree last weekend, but some speakers at today's session complained it was not formally issued.

The interior minister said he would discuss the matter with Ky and called a temporary halt to the talks.

Ghanaians Held By East Germans

BERLIN (Reuters) — Ghana trade diplomats and their families, recalled by their government, were being kept here against their will today as an offshoot of an apparent dispute with East Germany.

James Mensa-Bonsu, chief of Ghana's trade mission since it opened here in 1963, said Wednesday night 371 Ghanaians could be involved. They included his five-man staff, their families and 350 students now in East Germany.

CAMBODIAN BORDER INCIDENT

Home Troops Fired On

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (Reuters)—U.S. troops Saturday fired across the South Vietnamese border into Cambodia at Cambodian — not Viet Cong — forces.

Official sources said here today the troops on the Cambodian side were elements of the Royal Khmer (Cambodian) armed forces, provincial guards and village militia defending the frontier.

It was their return fire which was answered by the American bombardment, they added.

The U.S. military command in South Viet Nam admitted Tuesday that American troops had fired into Cambodia.

It said U.S. infantrymen fired shells Saturday across the Cai Bac River, the natural frontier about 70 miles northwest of Saigon, to silence Viet Cong mortars and automatic weapons.

When you've got a gin this good the only thing you can improve is the package.

So we did.

We've added a bright new blue and silver label to Hiram Walker's Crystal Gin. But inside our distinctive new bottle we've kept the same superb dryness and subtle flavour. Crystal Gin is dry enough for martinis, yet flavourful enough to sit up beautifully in a tall collins or tonic.

Try Crystal Gin in this new crystal package. You can recognize it by its good taste.

STRIKE SEEN BY CARPENTERS

Talks between contractors and carpenters have broken down and a strike is imminent, the Victoria Labour Council was told Wednesday night.

"Unless something unforeseen comes up there will be a strike by the end of the month," said carpenters' delegate John Schibli.

And he warned that a strike by 7,500 carpenters throughout the province will paralyze the construction industry.

He said contractors "won't budge" in their opposition to a shorter work week.

A major proposal by the union is for a seven-hour day and a 35-hour week instead of the present eight hours a day and 40 hours a week.

He expected the conciliation officer to make a report within a few days recommending no conciliation board he appointed.

This would leave the union free to request a government strike vote after 18 days.

RATE CUT RULE

Cabinet Pleased BCT Profit Held

The B.C. government is pleased with Wednesday's decision that B.C. Telephone will have to cut its rates if it's financial return rises above present levels.

Attorney-general Robert Bonner said his department, which was one of the parties that appeared before the Board of Transport Commissioners to oppose higher return ceilings sought by the company, was "well pleased" with the decision.

He pointed out BCT last year reached the 6.6 per cent return level on its average captital investment that the board has ruled as the maximum permissible so that if its earnings rise it will have to reduce its customers' rates.

"This is the first time in years of submissions to the board that we've been able to get this definition of rate of return," he said.

Year In Jail For Killing 'Tiger Lady'

SAIGON (Reuters)—A South Vietnamese army major was sentenced to a year in jail today for killing his wife, Viet Nam's legendary pistol-packing Tiger Lady, when she threatened him with a knife.

Maj. Le Van Dan pleaded not guilty at a military court to a charge of murdering her in November after an argument over his attentions to another woman.

His wife was five months pregnant when she was killed. She was the mother of seven children.

The 38-year-old tiger lady held the rank of master sergeant in the South Vietnamese Army. She gained her nickname from the black tiger painted on her steel helmet, and from bravery in battle.

She first fought against the French during the Indochina war in the ranks of the Viet Minh guerrillas, where she met her husband.

In 1954, the couple joined the South Vietnamese Army. She gained wide fame by marching into battle with a pair of pistols strapped on her hips, and shouting encouragement to the troops.

Rates and Returns

THE REPORT OF THE BOARD of Transport Commissioners on the detailed hearings into the financial affairs of the British Columbia Telephone Company is a lengthy and complex document. But its salient point is clear: the board does not intend to allow the company to increase its earnings in relation to invested capital beyond the present 6.6 per cent level; and should such increase take place it would have to be followed by reductions in local exchange rates.

The board has stated that it believes the company should be allowed an overall rate of return on average invested capital in a range of from 6.2 to 6.6 per cent but that this does not constitute any guarantee of upward rate revisions to permit earnings within that range. The present rate structure, the report states, is considered fair and just.

There is going to be a certain amount of disappointment with the board's findings both on the part of the company—which wanted the permissive earnings level raised to a range of 6.5 to 7.25 per cent—and on the part of other interested parties to the hearings which had hoped for telephone rate cuts.

However, it is apparent that the commissioners have given the most careful attention to all the arguments presented at the hearings and have in particular given full weight to the fact that the company is an entity quite different from other public utilities, to which it is not strictly comparable because of the unique geography and economic conditions of this province. This is a point which is too seldom considered by some critics who cite rates and earnings of other companies and attempt to compare them with rates and earnings in British Columbia.

In one important respect the commissioners were forced to place themselves in the position of seers and gaze a number of years into the future in handing down their report. In some areas and with some utility companies it may be possible to predict with ease the future necessities of expansion to meet growth in population and service demand. This is not an easy thing to do in British Columbia at this stage in the province's history; it has not been easy for at least the past five or six years.

However, using the experience of the company in its needs for expansion capital since the last rate increase was granted in 1958 and projecting ahead on the basis of foreseeable need, the board arrived at its decision.

The company's reaction to the report was primarily one of disappointment based on the reasoning that a higher permissive earning rate was needed to attract capital. This is a point which must be tested in the market place, of course, but past experience does not entirely bear it out.

A rights issue of common shares of the company in 1959, for instance, was sold at $34 to yield 5.88 per cent at the prevailing dividend. At the current dividend rate those shares now yield seven per cent and at the current price have appreciated 100 per cent. In 1962 a further rights issue sold for $38 per share but the yield necessary to attract buyers had dropped to 5.79 per cent. The yield on those shares is now 6.3 per cent and they are worth $30 more per share than was paid for them.

By 1965 when another rights issue was offered, the price was up to $57 a share and the yield needed to attract buyers was down to 4.21 per cent. The current market price of the company's shares is between $68 and $69, yielding the investor only 3.5 per cent, which indicates a continued interest in the shares of a company which offers good growth prospects.

With this record of growth in both earnings and capital gains over the past seven years alone, the company's pessimism about raising its capital needs will seem unwarranted to many people.

Income and Outfall

NEW SEWER REQUIREMENTS in the Capital Region area will cost an estimated average of more than $1 million a year over the next two decades, according to the prediction of a special engineers' group. The estimate raises the old bogey which has plagued efforts to consolidate regional services and costs through the years: unequal municipal assets to start with; unequal shares of cost, and of tax burden, to carry on with.

Victoria has its basic sewerage facilities installed with a current capacity beyond its needs. Because of this, the adjacent municipalities are able to use parts of the Victoria sewerage system to carry off their own sewage. In addition, the city will construct additional outfalls and mains as part of its capital budget program within the next few years. And when its mains are nearing capacity use, it will be able to request the municipalities to seek other outlets for their sewage, thus restoring additional capacity for the city's needs.

Victoria thus feels no need to participate in the large program envisioned by the experts. The Saanich Peninsula and Colwood areas, for example, would have to be serviced by their own residents, without aid from the city—and none from the provincial government, which rightly views sewers as a local responsibility.

The cost will be a major expense for the municipalities which must bear it. But there will be twenty years in which to implement and pay for the program, and presumably the influx of many thousands of new residents who will make the expanded sewer system necessary will help to provide the funds for it.

The prospects of regional financing and control of the sewers in the capital region are thus rather remote, since there is such a disparity of existing and needed facilities among the component territories. But if an equitable arrangement can be worked out, even a partially co-operative system should be welcomed. This type of utility, serving all parts of the region, lends itself naturally to regional operation. In any case, provision of adequate sewage systems is something none of the territories can long postpone. The growth of population and the spread of built-up areas will see to that.

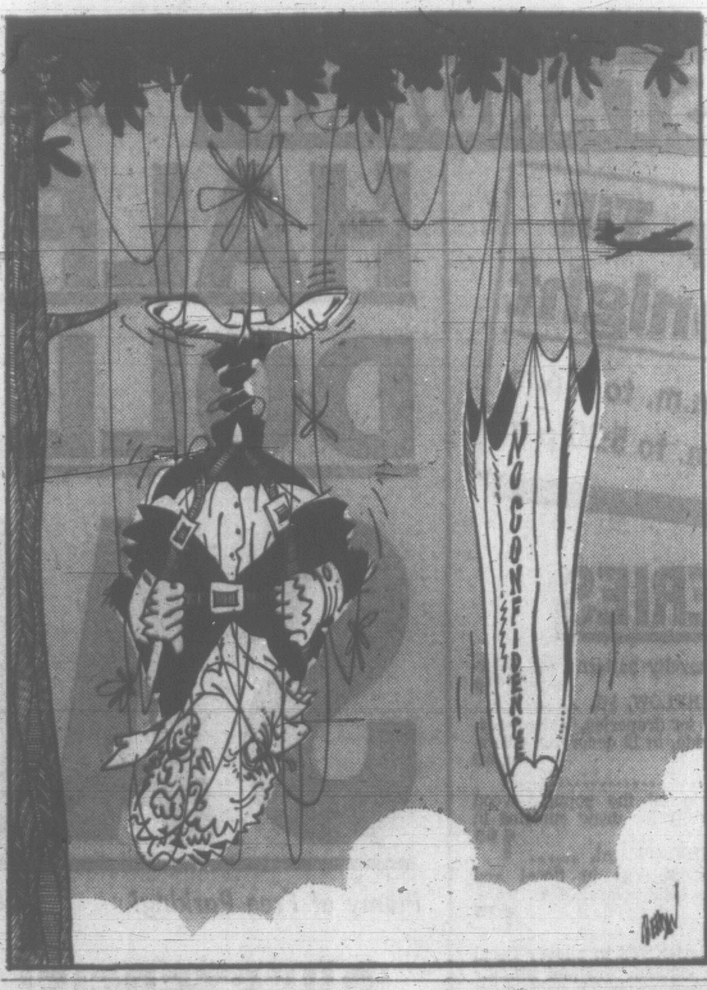
Call of the Wild

IT'S LITTLE MORE THAN A footnote to history, but the twentieth century has won a minor victory, despite all those detractors who say that our era is an impossible one. Thirteen families of Tristan da Cunha have returned to the England they left two years ago, pining for television, canned goods on store shelves and bus rides.

With several hundred other natives of the isolated island, they had spent two years in England while their former home was rehabilitated after a volcanic eruption. But they found that the rugged life of the south Atlantic island had lost its appeal. The fleshpots called, the gadgetry of the modern age lured them, the light and the warmth of the twentieth century were too attractive.

So now it will be commuting, the factory bench, the neighbor's radio, smoky skies and so many Joneses to keep up with that the race will never end. But of course there remains one escape.

Tristan da Cunha waits.



FROM LONDON

By MARTIN DEWEY

Rhodesia: A Tough Knot

MOST sections of British opinion have found something to applaud in last week's startling developments in the Rhodesian independence crisis. The only trouble is that the people who are applauding most vigorously are doing so for sharply conflicting reasons. Close government supporters are applauding because they take Prime Minister Harold Wilson's disclosures in the House of Commons last Wednesday to mean that the illegal Rhodesian regime is preparing to start talks on British terms. Conservatives are applauding because they take the same disclosures to mean that the government has followed their advice by starting talks without prior conditions on either side. Many left-wing Labor MPs are not applauding at all because they fear the Conservatives may be right.

Dewey

Peculiar Genius

It is, of course, a credit to Mr. Wilson's peculiar political genius that he left both friend and enemy to think that he is doing the right thing. We are reminded once again that no one in Britain surpasses the prime minister in the ability to appear to be saying something, or to say nothing while appearing to say something, or . . . but the mind boggles and one can only admire. Suffice it to say that the speech a week ago showed Mr. Wilson at his shattering best.

For example, parts of that speech seemed designed to indicate that Mr. Smith's regime, if it was not exactly on its knees, had at least gone down on one knee. Mr. Wilson pointedly reminded the Conservatives that both sides of the house were on record and recognizing that "this is an illegal government and that the government of this country can have no dealings with it." Then, "but I can say that what is being done, and the manner in which it is being done, reflect the positions that the government have taken on the question of legality."

Legal Question

This is rather a tough knot. The British government can have no dealings with an illegal regime. But the government is now dealing with the Rhodesian leader, Ian Smith, and these dealings satisfy Mr. Wilson on the question of legality. Taking these statements in isolation, the implication is startling. Mr. Wilson seemed to be saying that Mr. Smith is ready to abandon his crucial demand that recognition of Rhodesian independence must be a prior condition in any talks.

The implication was strengthened later in the speech when Mr. Wilson said "what has happened is in full accord with what everyone wanted to happen." What Mr. Wilson and his government wanted, as we have been told again and again, was that Mr. Smith should abandon all claim to being a head of government and that he should approach the governor of Rhodesia as a private citizen. Government supporters taking such statements seriously must indeed have concluded that we are witnessing the triumphant vindication of Mr. Wilson's sanctions-without-force policy.

But this is only one side of the coin that Mr. Wilson twirled before the House of Commons. The prime minister was also at great pains to make the point that so far the government had not been talking with the Rhodesian regime but rather talking about talking with it. It was the turn of the Conservatives to cheer when he said these were merely informal talks and they were without commitment on either side. By making a distinction between talks and negotiations, Mr. Wilson seemed to be trying to sidestep his promises that "negotiations" could not start unless the illegal regime first climbed down.

Shared Fears

It is this part of the speech which has led to mutterings about an imminent sell-out to Mr. Smith. With unaccustomed restraint, 40 Labor left-wingers contented themselves with a Commons' motion which merely reminded Mr. Wilson of the sanctity of the famous five principles in any dealings with the Rhodesians. But individually they were more outspoken and many appeared to share the fears of Paul Johnson, editor of the New Statesman, who wrote: "The prime minister's cryptic announcement to the house on Wednesday, fills me with foreboding. Is the moment of the dirty deal at hand?"

But talk of a sell-out was not confined to the Labor left-wing. The term was overheard Thursday as 20 Commonwealth high commissioners were being briefed by the British government. The representative of Trinidad, for one, made no secret of his deep suspicions. And according to John Grigg, an independent columnist writing in the Guardian, "The British government is on a slippery slope which could lead to a phoney victory masking—from us, but not from the outside world—a shameful defeat."

Restrained Optimism

Happily, however, not everyone in Britain is going around muttering about dirty deals or, conversely, preparing to dance in the streets. Choosing its words carefully, the quality press has struck a note of restrained optimism. "That a faint chance of progress has appeared now is good news," commented the Guardian, although the government "must not be so relieved by the prospect of ending the quarrel that it allows Mr. Smith to win what he rebelled for."

Noting that both the British government and the Rhodesian regime have left themselves precious little room for manoeuvre, the Financial Times concluded nevertheless that talks of any sort will generate their own momentum and that it will be diffficult for either side to back out once they have started. But it remained for the Times to hit the nail on the head: "Nobody ought to object to the informal talks . . . any who may do so will be declaring their preference for the use of force and bloodshed to deal with Mr. Smith and the Rhodesians."

UNCHANGED BY CHANGE

Until the Industrial Revolution the way in which people of any given culture lived changed so slowly that a man, thinking of his great-grandchildren, could imagine them as living more or less the same kind of life with the same kind of needs and satisfactions as himself. Today it is impossible for any of us to imagine what life will be like even 20 years from now. One thing the masterpieces of the past have to teach us is that change is not as fatal to a genuine work of art as we are inclined to fear. Our world is already utterly different from those in which they were created; yet we can still comprehend and enjoy them. They have permanence.

A Precedent for Parliaments

TWO decisions by Mr. Speaker Lamoureux on Monday are likely to become important precedents for future Parliaments. While the rulings leave an area of some uncertainty, they mean generally that the House is not precluded from discussing matters arising from evidence before royal commissions before reports have been published. The procedural battle developed when the Conservatives, with the backing of other opposition groups, sought to introduce a motion condemning the government for seeking information from the RCMP "as to the past conduct of all members of parliament generally."

Western

The reference was to evidence of Commissioner George McClellan given before Mr. Justice Spence on Thursday. Ministers made two attempts to have the Conservative motion ruled out of order.

In view of the number of matters which are entrusted to royal commissions in Canada, it seems surprising that clear rules on this subject were not formulated years ago. The fact appears to be that there is no sub judice rule in standing orders. There is a citation in Beauchesne calling attention to accepted custom in both Britain and Canada that a member, while speaking, must not "refer to any matter on which a judicial decision is pending." But this is not very helpful and Mr. Lamoureux faced the additional difficulty on Monday that past rulings by Speakers MacDonald and Michener seem to be in part conflicting.

British Rule

The position in Britain is much clearer because the subject was specifically dealt with at Westminster by a committee on procedure in 1962-63. As Mr. Fulton pointed out, the British rule forbids references to three types of matters; those awaiting or under adjudication in criminal courts or courts martial; those awaiting or under adjudication in a civil court; and those being dealt with by "any judicial body to which the House has expressly referred a specific matter for decision and report."

Obviously a royal commission is not a court, either criminal or civil. Mr. Fulton's further argument was that the Spence commission had been set up by the government, not by Parliament, and that there was, accordingly, nothing in the British rule which would bar Parliament from discussing this particular grievance.

Three points of view were expressed in Monday's discussion. For the government, Mr. McIlraith argued that the Conservatives were attempting to discuss a portion of the evidence before all the evidence was in and that this was improper before proceedings were concluded.

The opposition experts, although united against this government contention, were in some disagreement with each other. Mr. Nielsen, Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Knowles argued that nothing was barred from discussion except matters on which a judicial decision was pending. Mr. Brewin and Mr. Baldwin took a more moderate line arguing that collateral issues raised by the evidence, matters outside the commission's terms of reference — such as the alleged action of the prime minister, could probably be the subjects of parliamentary discussion. It was the latter view which prevailed with Mr. Lamoureux.

Two Points

In his summation, Mr. Speaker reviewed the precedents and made two points. Speaking generally, he noted that the creation of a royal commission is purely an administrative matter; that the commissioners are not called on to render decisions but to make recommendations and that Parliament remains the highest court in the land. Where a certain matter has been referred to a royal commission, which is not a court of record, it is not sub judice.

On the other hand, Mr. Speaker MacDonald in 1950 had ruled that reference should not be made to the proceedings or evidence or findings of a royal commission before it had made its report. It would be undesirable to have a parallel inquiry going on in the House at the same time that one was being carried out in another forum. Thus Parliament ought not to delve into the essence of matters before a commission but should not be precluded from dealing with collateral matters which might come out in the course of the hearings.

If Mr. Speaker Lamoureux had reached a different conclusion and ruled debate out of order, a very strange situation would have been created. Parliament is traditionally jealous of its privileges, which exceed those of ordinary citizens. (Thus a member has immunity in respect to words spoken in the House although the same words may be actionable if uttered outside it.)

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The Boom Is Fine, But . . .

CONSERVATIVES, who oppose the idea of a managed economy, have always based their case ultimately on the frailty of human nature. As against liberals, who generally take a rather more optimistic view of mankind, conservatives have argued that the Keynesian managers could not be trusted to manage when unpopular measures were required. The conservatives have insisted that the economy will be mismanaged if it is placed in the hands of politicians who depend on popular elections rather than subjected to the impersonal gold standard, guarded by central bankers who are taught from childhood to expect to be unpopular.

Lippmann

The politicians would expand the economy, because that is the popular thing to do, until the boom burst in a sharp depression. It is, the conservatives argue, against the nature of politicians and of the mass of their constituents to restrain a boom even though it has become inflationary.

We are now witnessing a practical test of the conservative argument. The United States is still enjoying the longest period of sustained prosperity in its history, but there are now unmistakable signs of an inflation — the demand for goods is pressing against the available supply.

Dreary Spiral

The inflation is still regarded as "mild" in that the rise of consumer prices has not yet reached three per cent per annum. But as Mr. Gardner Ackley, chairman of the U.S. Council of Economic Advisers, said this week, "If consumer prices—and industrial profits—should continue to rise at the recent rate, we would have to expect larger wage increases in 1967, and the dreary price-wage spiral could begin to turn."

Mr. Walter Heller, the architect of the Kennedy-Johnson prosperity, has just told us that while this year the U.S. gross national product may be expected to grow by fourteen to sixteen billion dollars each quarter, the economy cannot produce more than ten to eleven billions more without an inflation of prices.

Figures like these have convinced most of the leading economists, such as Dr. Heller and Professor Samuelson, that measures should be prepared immediately, to reduce the excess demand for goods and services. Their advice is being resisted by the administration, which is hoping that something will turn up to save it from asking Congress for higher taxes before the election in November. This resistance of the politicians to the advice of the experts is precisely what conservative critics of the new economics have always said would happen.

Earlier Errors

The administration has, to be sure, promised to ask for restraining taxes if clear signs of inflation appear. But the proof that their eyes are on the elections rather than on the health of the economy is that they are not preparing the new taxes, which takes a long time under our legislative process to prepare. Thus, unless the administration acts soon, just when those taxes may be most needed, perhaps by midsummer, they will not be ready.

The administration has been mistaken before in these matters. It was mistaken as recently as January when it offered the country a budget which seemed to promise to give us both guns to fight a successful war in Viet Nam and butter to carry on the Great Society, without a rise in taxes and without an inflationary deficit.

The administration argument in January has already proved to be based on a miscalculation. It promised an administrative budget deficit of only 1.8 billions. At the end of last week the budget bureau is reported to have advised the President that Congress has insisted on additional civilian expenditures which add at least another three billions to the deficit.

Guns - and - Butter

Furthermore, the guns-and-butter promise of January assumed that the major part of the Vietnamese buildup would be over by midsummer of this year. Secretary McNamara has just told us that the buildup must be bigger and must continue longer than was originally estimated, and he has refused to set a limit on numbers or in time.

Thus the inflationary forces are gaining strength. This accounts for the great effort made by the administration to persuade workers not to ask for higher wages, businessmen to cut investment and restrain profits, and consumers to refrain from making purchases. They are asked not to act as the inflationary situation demands or makes possible.

The attempt to do by propaganda what should be done by monetary and fiscal measures is unfair and it will not work. In the recent past when there was as yet no excess demand, the use of voluntary measures was well justified, especially when there were involved semi-monopolistic industries and very big unions which have much control of prices and wages.

Unreasonable Request

But today, when the inflationary condition exists and prices are rising, it is unreasonable to ask individuals not to defend their standard of living or not to take in the profits that inflation opens up to them, to act by the exhortations of the President rather than by their own estimates of their own economic interests.

When these exhortations work at all, they may well penalize the more public spirited and conscientious people of the nation. They are a poor substitute for laws which apply to everybody. What is more, they confirm the pessimism of the conservatives that political democracy cannot be trusted with the management of public affairs.

Looking Back

From The Times of May 5, 1906:

(By a Victoria physician.) The birth rate is falling not only in the Mother Country but in all civilized countries that afford the necessary statistics. This fact may or may not be due to moral decadence. It most assuredly is a symptom of physical decadence. The attitude of the average citizen, often a bachelor, is something like this: "My case is exceptional, but it is certainly scandalous that . . ." etc., etc. There will be some thinking done on this subject in the next hundred years.

Nigeria Trouble Not Likely Over

By DONALD LOUCHHEIM
In The Washington Post

(Second of Two Articles)

LAGOS — It is impossible to pinpoint any single cause for the first ripples of discontent with Nigeria's new military government.

Some Nigerians say it began when Maj.-Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi started riding around in a Rolls Royce and when senior army officers here began moving into the government houses vacated by ousted civilian politicians.

Others cite rising food prices throughout the country, which have pushed the cost of some staple items up as much as 400 per cent in the past two months.

The criticism itself often has a familiar ring, echoing deeply-rooted tribal and regional loyalties. It is surprising how many critics of the new government are voicing the same complaints and misgivings that they expressed about the old one.

One friend tells you the government is moving too slowly on unity; another says it is going too fast. Some complain the government is too arbitrary, using strong-arm methods to push ill-conceived social reforms; others, particularly workers who saw in the military regime a chance to get better housing, better wages, and more jobs, are calling Ironsi's government a "paper tiger."

Widespread

The "paper tiger" theme appears to be the most widespread form of criticism. There seems to be a growing feeling that the government is talking big but carrying a little stick.

The upsurge in criticism, which began about six weeks ago, is one reflection of this feeling, although it still has not surfaced in the country's newspapers. Another is what appears to be a series of direct but subtle challenges to the government.

One such challenge is the food price rise. It may be true that the substantial increases, which have affected every Nigerian, are entirely the result of supply and demand. Nevertheless, critics of the government seem to have successfully spread the notion that it is the government's fault or, alternatively, that the price boosts are a deliberate plot to discredit the government.

Either way, the situation has taken on political overtones and now poses a challenge to the government to do something about it. It is difficult to see how Ironsi can make an effective response. Price controls, which some critics advocate, would probably be unenforcible.

Organized labor also seems to be delicately challenging the government, probing for possible weak spots and favorable responses.

Small Strikes

In the past month, there have been a half dozen small strikes. The government reportedly is considering a compulsory arbitration law that would outlaw strikes. Even supporters of the proposal are aware that it could breed major unrest and spawn more problems than it would solve.

Other pressures are building in the western region, where supporters of jailed opposition leader Obafemi Awolowo are pushing quietly but persistently for his release.

Behind this rumbling and grumbling, which could have been expected to follow the first glow of military rule, there is a more serious challenge.

This challenge comes from within the army itself. It is rooted in the events that established the new regime, the mutiny and unsuccessful coup by young army officers and the subsequent assumption of power by Ironsi and other officers who survived or remained aloof from the uprising.

Held Prisoner

The half dozen key mutineers have been held in prison for the past three months and their fate has been the subject of a bitter intra-army debate.

One group of officers, backed by northern leaders, believes the mutineers should be punished, not for slaying politicians but for the murder of a dozen senior army officers, mostly northerners.

The other group sympathizes with the mutineers and insists that there be no reprisals.

According to some reports, Ironsi wanted to bring the mutineers to trial but counter-pressures forced him to back down, at least temporarily.

There are other problems within the army. One group of officers, presumably those who sympathize with the mutineers, are critical of what they call Ironsi's pale and passive leadership. In addition, there are reliable reports of continuing tribal rivalry within the army, leading to occasional discipline problems between officers and men and within the officers corps itself.

Beneath the surface, it is as if nothing has changed. Employing the same worn arguments, tribe is tugging with tribe, region with region, moderate with progressive, labor with management. Aside from a few key politicians, only some of the options for compromise seem to have disappeared.

Despite the relative calm of the past 100 days, it is hard to believe that the upheaval in Nigeria is finished.

A Drooping $ Dollar $

The Clip Sheet

One can imagine the great black headlines if Finance Minister Sharp had announced in his budget speech that prices would be going up by four per cent during the coming year because of a new retail sales tax.

The minister announced no such new tax, of course, but it seems to have almost escaped public notice that Mr. Sharp did say that he expects there will be a four per cent rise in price levels during the 1966-67 fiscal year. His forecast was that the Gross National Product would increase by nine per cent, but only five per cent of this would be real growth and four per cent would be for reflection of inflationary price increases.

What a drooping dollar! Last year its purchasing power declined by three per cent. The year before it declined by two per cent. This year its value will drop by three and one-half to four per cent. As noted, if such price hikes had been caused by new sales taxes, the public outcry would have been deafening.

Gordon Challenges Liberals To Ideological Showdown

By PETER C. NEWMAN

Despite his resignation as minister of finance following the last federal election, it has been clear that Walter Gordon still holds a considerable following in the Liberal caucus and that his advocacy of Canadian economic nationalism commands a measure of loyal support in the Liberal Party.

Walter L. Gordon

Ottawa commentator Peter C. Newman, who reviews here Mr. Gordon's new book — A Choice for Canada: Independence or Clonial Status—believes that the former minister has issued a direct challenge to the Liberal Party to get back on the road to active social reform and to indulge in broad measures of direct government intervention to turn back the wave of foreign control of the Canadian economy.

In addition to the challenge to present government leadership by his new book, Mr. Gordon intends also to promote his ideas more widely in a speaking tour over the next few months which can be seen as a prelude to the important Liberal Party rally in Ottawa in the fall at which he may be put forward as a candidate for leadership of the party.

OTTAWA — Publication this week of Walter Gordon's new book—A Choice for Canada: Independence or Colonial Status—is a significant attempt to challenge the complacency of the Pearson government, present it with policy alternatives, and pave the way for the former finance minister's own leadership candidacy.

Newman

Though is would be an exaggeration to call this the author's 30,000-word application form to become Lester Pearson's successor, there's no question that Walter Gordon hopes to impose his policies on the Liberal Party.

The book, published by McClelland & Stewart Ltd. of Toronto, no doubt will become the main topic of discussion at next fall's Liberal rally in Ottawa. If none of the other potential successors to the present prime minister are willing to champion Gordon's ideas, he will almost certainly make a run for the leadership himself.

The ultimate stretch of Gordon's ambitions will be determined by events. But even though "Choice for Canada" scarcely mentions the position which Walter Gordon has maintained in the top echelons of the Liberal Party, no group will feel the impact of his provocative prose more intensely than his own political colleagues.

The slim volume has the dry style of a manual on bee keeping, yet between its covers are some potent stings for those members of the Pearson government unimaginative or unimpassioned enough to advocate the status quo.

Exciting New Social Measures

Apart from his main theme of sounding an explicit clarion call urging Canadians to act now to save their economic (and thus political) independence, Gordon also advocates a series of exciting new social measures. Among other things, he wants unemployment insurance payments boosted; a system of income maintenance established to assist people whose work is interrupted by illness; and free post-secondary education to become a right rather than a special benefit.

Gordon devotes most of his book to delivering the sharpest warning yet published about the threat to this country of what he calls "the spell of United States economic imperialism." Broadly and at times precisely, he explains how we should meet it, overcome it, and set our country back on a truly independent economic course. "My premise," he writes, "is that Canadians wish their country to remain independent, both economically and politically. We want the benefits gained from developing our nation to be shared by Canadians — not handed over to enterprising people in other countries for a fraction of their potential value."

American Capital Threat Perceived

It is Gordon's contention, that American capital, if unchecked, will eventually threaten our collective freedom by turning us into a political as well as economic satellite of the United States. "Too much of Canadian industry is controlled abroad," he claims. "Because of this, foreigners, with the help of their Canadian friends and agents, wield far too great an influence on public policy in Canada. This control and this influence will not be changed by exhortation or by speeches. We have had our fill of both. What's required is not speeches, but action of a specific kind."

Gordon's specific remedies include the resurrection of the Canada Development Corporation and the "takeovers tax" which he introduced when he was minister of finance; a withholding tax on management services paid to non-residents; much wider corporate disclosures rules; the disallowance of interest charges on new borrowings by Canadian subsidiaries of foreign-owned concerns; and a revision of capital cost allowances to favor domestic corporations.

In setting out these and other measures, Gordon is rowing against the mainstream of current economic history. At a time when every industrialized nation in the world is becoming Americanized, and is competing for investment funds from Wall Street to accelerate the process, Gordon is standing against the tide of U.S. dollars bravely declaiming that the Americans should keep their money and their hands off Canada and allow us to settle our own destiny.

Accepted Beliefs Are Challenged

Boldly, if at times superficially, he challenges accepted beliefs about the place of the nation-state in an inter-dependent world as well as the relationship between the individual and his government in modern economic society. In sharp disagreement with the classical economists of the past, he refuses to recognize the forces of the market place as the most appropriate mechanism for allocating national assets. Instead, Gordon advocates greatly increased government intrusion: "It takes actions by government to change economic conditions; individuals can do little by themselves."

Gordon attempts to head off criticism of his central thesis by equating nationalism with patriotism. "In wanting to retain our independence," he writes, "we are no different from the British, the French, the Swiss, or the people of other countries, including the United States. Some may call this nationalism, and so it is. It amounts to a proper respect, loyalty, and enthusiasm for one's country, and a legitimate optimism and confidence about its future."

This is a point of view which Gordon has put forward ever since he first began to make speeches on the subject, a decade ago. What's different about his opinions now is that these warnings and proposals do not come from a man who not only has thought about the problems of nationhood, but who, as minister of finance for 31 turbulent months, was at the very centre of the struggle to maintain it.

U.S. Applied Political Pressure

Describing the pressures that are exerted in Canada on behalf of the interests of American investors, Gordon observes: "I had not fully appreciated the depth and strength of these pressures until I became minister of finance. On occasion, this influence was reinforced by representations from the state department and the American administration as a whole. It was pressed by those who direct American businesses in Canada, by Canadian financiers whose interests were identified with American investment in Canada, by influential members of the Canadian civil service, by some representatives of the university community, and by some sections of the press. The effects of these pressures on the leaders and spokesmen of all the political parites in Canada are immense — and too often they were effective."

Despite this unhappy experience, Gordon's book is dedicated to the proposition that Canada's absorption by the U.S. is not inevitable. "We still have a choice," he concludes. "We can do the things that are necessary to retain control of our economy, and thus maintain our independence. Or we can acquiesce in becoming a colonial dependency of the United States, with no future except the hope of eventual absorption."

All Resources Present In Canada

The most evocative passages in "Choice for Canada" are Gordon's optimistic musings about our economic potential. He counts Canada as one of only six countries in the world which possesses all, or practically all, of the natural resources required by an industrial society. "Already we have the second-highest standard of living," he enthuses. "If we play our cards right — and we hold extremely high ones — in the years to come we should be able to narrow the gap that now exists between our living standard and that of the United States."

In this latter belief, he is challenging the authority of Lester Pearson himself, who declared at the Canadian University Liberal Federation meeting in Ottawa last Feb. 11 that "nationalistic economic policies would reduce our standard of living by perhaps 25 to 30 per cent."

Financial Crisis Serious Risk

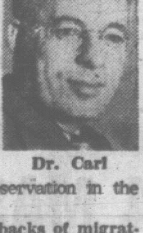
"I disagree," Gordon replies. "The greater production of goods and services in Canada which would result from my proposals for improving our balance of payments and the lower costs of servicing foreign capital would increase our living standards. If we do not do these things to reverse the present trends, we shall run serious risk of new financial crises. The measures that would be necessary to meet them could well result in a reduction in our living standards."

Whether this contradiction of the prime minister will eventually lead Gordon into a more open challenge of the Liberal Party's currently constituted authority will not become apparent until the policy rally this fall. Meanwhile, the former minister of finance had launched a dialogue which can end only with an ideological convulsion of the Liberal Party, or Walter Gordon's permanent disappearance from the Canadian political scene.

Myths and Fables Abound In Natural History Field

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Natural history has probably been permeated with myths and fables more than any other field with the possible exception of medicine. But most of these erroneous beliefs have been dispelled by more accurate observation and by the application of scientific methods. Nevertheless a number of them still persist and pop up from time to time in spite of modern knowledge.



Dr. Carl

Let's look at a few of these quaint ideas and suggest how they arose; most of them appear to have a logical explanation usually associated with inaccurate observation in the first place.

Hummingbirds ride on the backs of migrating geese: This is an old "chestnut" that is hard to bury. The idea seems to be that hummors, and possibly other small birds, hitch rides on larger birds flying to and from wintering grounds to the south. Hummingbirds have been found nestled down among the back feathers of geese according to some "reports," but none is capable of verification.

It seems likely that this belief is based on a combination of coincidence and faulty reasoning. Hummingbirds do arrive in their breeding areas about the time geese are winging north and since they seem too small to have travelled any great distance themselves it is natural to assume that they rode on the backs of the larger birds.

Actually, and despite their diminutive size, hummingbirds are quite capable of making long flights. Our common coastal species, the rufous hummingbird, flies south to California each fall and returns on its own regularly about the first week in April. Several species in eastern North America migrate even greater distances, all the way to Central America in some cases, on routes that take them across the Gulf of Mexico in one over-night hop.

How they store sufficient energy for such journeys is not known but they need no help from fellow travellers.

A horse-hair soaked in water for three days will turn into a snake: Up until a few decades ago this was a relatively common belief but nowadays, perhaps with the passing of the horse age, it seems to be quiescent. I recall being dubious about the soundness of the claim when I first heard it as a small boy but at the same time I was anxious to put it to the test. It took some courage to tweak a few hairs from the tail of the Chinese vegetable peddler's horse so I was doubly disappointed when they failed to show signs of life after being well-soaked for the prescribed time.

Without much doubt the origin of this fable is based on the "hair snake" which appears mysteriously in pools of water, usually after mid-summer. This creature is a round worm which passes part of its life as a parasite inside an insect, often a grasshopper or large beetle. When mature it emerges from its host and enters fresh water to breed. At this time it is indeed very hair-like and presumably could be mistaken for an animated horse hair. It probably took less imagination to think of it developing from a real hair than to believe it could hatch from an insect.

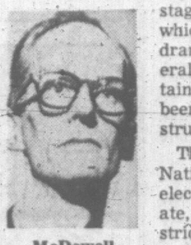
'NEW LOOK' TRIED BY UN IN QUEBEC

By STAN McDOWELL
Times Quebec Correspondent

QUEBEC CITY — When Quebec's Union Nationale party held one of the rare congresses in its history, in March, 1965, it won approval all round for its new democratic look.



McDowell

Such newspaper editors as Gerard Pelletier (not known for his friendliness toward the old party of Maurice Duplessis) found that the old "chiefism" had been replaced by a new rank-and-file participation in the shaping of policy.

Few would have predicted such a transformation in 1961 when Daniel Johnson won the party leadership in the first convention in UN history.

Jean-Jacques Bertrand of Missisquoi, generally regarded as the intellectual of the party, had been the favorite of those who wanted reform. Mr. Johnson had been one of Mr. Duplessis bright young aides and was thought to be steeped in the methods of the old chief.

Discredited

Perhaps the methods of the old chief would no longer have worked. The party was in opposition, defeated and discredited, and to be discredited more by the Salvas commission inquiry into corruption under the Duplessis regime. At a time when Mr. Duplessis was being spoken of as a dictator, Mr. Johnson could hardly refurbish the party image by fortifying his own position as leader. So he has instead presided over the evolution of the party toward the new democracy that won such approval on the editorial pages last year.

The problem, from the point of view of Mr. Johnson and of the party, is that in so doing he has presided also over the disintegration of the very basis of the party's old strength — the combination of a magnetic, impregnable leader and a disciplined, obedient machine. And so far the new party structure has provided no alternative source of strength.

The rank and file may well and truly have its voice in the shaping of policy. But there is no evidence yet that any very significant or dynamic policies have been shaped.

There is a party program. But so far its contents have not been disclosed. Plans now are for a grand announcement this week. That will be two full weeks after the calling of the election, and about 10 days after the impressively staged "press conference" at which Premier Jean Lesage dramatically unveiled the Liberal platform — which contained little new wood but had been shaped into an imposing structure.

The fact is that the Union Nationale intends to fight this election as a series of separate, riding by riding battles, strictly on local issues. It will seek to exploit local dissatisfaction, the many cracked eggs that have gone into the making of the Liberal "quiet revolution," instead of concentrating on offering a better omelet of its own.

Two Extremes

In effect, the party has gone from one extreme to the other. In the old days the UN candidates won on the coattails of their chief. If the UN were to win power on the basis of its present strategy, it would mean that the leader had ridden in on the coattails of his followers.

The question is whether the climate of Quebec today is a congenial one for a party that seems not so much an alternative government as an alliance of ombudsmen. No doubt there are a number of ridings where the people are, as the UN says, fed up with what they consider Liberal arrogance, higher taxes, upsets in education, and the rule of technocrats and planners.

But the province as a whole is in a state of ferment, and excitement, beginning to enjoy a new dynamism and self-confidence and asking for more of the same.

The UN's problem is that while breaking down the old supremacy of the leader within its ranks it has also seemed to weaken its capacity to exercise leadership in the province. By concentrating on criticism of Liberal methods, instead of offering its won alternatives to Liberal programs, it has run the risk of presenting itself in the pose of the ideal opposition.

Long-Time Businessman Dies at 86

A well-known Victoria businessman and long-time city resident, Walter Wilson Cross, 720 Selkirk, died Wednesday at the age of 86.

Born in Glasgow, Mr. Cross had been a resident of Victoria since 1910.

In 1920 he founded Cross Stores Ltd. which at one time numbered about half a dozen meat markets in the city. Only one store is in operation now at 1312 Douglas St.

He retained part ownership in the business until his death.

Mr. Cross was a member of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club.

He is survived by the widow Agnes; two daughters, Mrs. J. G. Saul and Mrs. W. F. Donaldson, and a son, R. W. Cross, all of Victoria; a sister, Mrs. F. Rowe of Courtenay; seven grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Friday in McCall's main chapel with Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiating. Cremation will follow.

The family has asked that any memorials be given to the Heart Fund, 1900 Fort St.

Services Held For Founder Of Boys' Club

Funeral services were to be held this afternoon for Mrs. Edna Weston Bull, 723 Ardmore Drive, Sidney, a co-founder of the Boys' Club of Victoria, who died Monday in Vancouver.

Mrs. Bull, 71, died in a Vancouver hotel on a visit to the city with her husband, Col. Roland Osborne Bull.

Col. and Mrs. Bull were co-founders of the Boys' Club on Yates Street in 1960.

They started the club in memory of their son, Flying Officer R. M. Bull, who was killed in the Second World War while serving overseas with the RCAF.

The Boys' Club remained closed today in memory of the founder.

Mrs. Bull was born in Winnipeg.

Surviving her, besides her husband, are a daughter, Mrs. N. P. T. Holman of Cornwall, England; five grandchildren, and a sister in California.

Man Convicted Of Dangerous Driving

Daniel Hilton, 21, of 1540 Charlton, was fined $300 in magistrate's court Wednesday on a charge of dangerous driving.

His licence was also suspended.

Court was told that Hilton, who had pleaded not guilty to the charge, was the driver of a late model car pursued by Saanich police on the Pat Bay Highway and in a Saanich residential area around 1 a.m. April 27.

Const. William Nixon testified he followed the car on the highway from the Royal Oak intersection past Beaver Lake at speeds up to 100 mph and at speeds up to 50 mph along Piedmont and Santa Clara before the car pulled into a driveway on Del Monte.

Magistrate Ostler found that in an area "of corners said to be blind, and very poor street lighting," Hilton was guilty of dangerous driving.

DOCTOR'S ADVICE FOR WOMEN

'Get Off the Floor ... Realize Your Potential'

Was Freud right when he said a woman's destiny is determined by her anatomy?

Is her fulfilment to be found in having children?

Or is it time "for women of the house to arise, get up off the floor they are washing and go out and realize their potential"?

Dr. David A. Clayman, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at UBC, examined the woman's role in society when he spoke to a scientific session of B.C. doctors at the Empress Hotel.

He started at the beginning. Eve beguiled Adam, brought about the fall of mankind and ever since women have been considered "the door to hell."

Until farily recent times, English common law looked on women as having much the same status as infants. They were denied the right to vote because men did not think they had the required intelligence or stability. They still have to fight for equal rights and pay when it comes to finding a job.

Now they are rebelling. They want to realize themselves as persons and not only vicariously through their husbands and children.

But are women the intellectual equals of men? asked Dr. Clayman.

He said a U.S. study of women with Ph.D. degrees shows they achieved much less in their fields than a comparable group of men. But there is good reason to think this was due not to some innate lack of intelligence but to "early formed traits and early established basic qualities of mind."

Dr. Clayman cited another study, this one on boys, that showed those who were greatly protected by their mothers were fluent at verbal tasks but poor on abstract skills. The opposite held true for boys who were not overly protected by their mothers.

In other words, said Dr. Clayman, assertive, competitive and independent children grow up to be independent thinkers.

And, he pointed out, these are the very qualities that are not considered to be feminine traits and are therefore discouraged by parents.

Dr. Clayman said it would appear that the best way to develop a gril intellectually is to let her be a tomboy. Significantly, a study of outstanding women mathematicians shows they all have one thing in common: a close relationship with their fathers.

Instead, some parents force dolls on a daughter even if she should prefer to play with trains: they worry if she is more interested in books than boys.

And if they do let her wear blue jeans and mix with boys, what happens? The boys don't want her. She is forced back in the company of girls and they disapprove of her attitude too.

Dr. Clayman said millions of women grow up and live happy and useful lives in the roles of wife and mother. "But probably among them are thousands who are not happy in these roles."

When a woman succeeds in following a career she has to pay a price, especially if she also marries and has a family. She can't spend the time to be smart, be sexy, soft-spoken, look after the children, learn new recipes, drive the car, help the community and also accomplish creative work.

Her time is split between her husband, her children and her work and she will often feel guilty about neglecting one when looking after the others.

Will she be happy? Answered Dr. Clayman, "No one is happy all the time. The conflict is the price she has to pay for the joy that she finds."

British Envoy Due Next Week

Sir Henry Lintott, British high commissioner in Canada, and Lady Lintott will visit Victoria next Tuesday and Wednesday during a tour of Western Canada.

They will arrive at Government House at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday and will be guests overnight of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs George Pearkes.

Wednesday at 11:30 a.m., Sir Henry will call on Mayor Alfred Toone. He and Lady Lintott will be hosts at a luncheon in the Union Club at 12:15 p.m. before returning to Vancouver.

BACKS MEET

Saanich will spend $500 sponsoring the opening banquet of the first large convention to be held in the municipality.

Victoria Jaycees will be hosting the B.C.-Yukon Junior Chamber of Commerce convention at the Red Lion Motor Inn next month.

Finance committee members who made the recommendation Tuesday night without dissent, said it was "a very small gesture" by Saanich.

Safe Driving Roadeo

Victoria Jaycee's choice in the annual Teen-age Safe Driving Roadeo this weekend, if successful in the provincial event at Prince George, will head for Torontoand a possible $2,500 in scholarships.

Local testing begins Friday at 7 p.m. with a written examination at the Motor Vehicles Branch office.

Driving test will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Entry forms are available at most high schools and at the Jaycee office, 1217 Douglas.

LICENCES COST MUCH

It costs about $7,000 to license one truck for commercial use in all 10 Canadian provinces.

Municipal Act Overhaul Aim of Proposed Study

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell Wednesday revealed he has arranged a conference here which will launch a study aimed at major overhaul of the Municipal Act.

He will meet the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities to set up guidelines for the study "under the theme title of Local Government Machinery for the Seventies," he said.

Mr. Campbell said the UBCM executive will do the research as a centennial year contribution while his department would pay the expenses.

He said he hoped the study would, rather than a mass of detail, produce a nucleus o principles on which legislation could be based to give municipalities the flexibility they would need to meet the challenges and rapid growth expected in the next decade.

The present statute, completely revised in 1957, in unwieldy and was designed to "cross the i's and dot the t's" as a basic primer for municipal councils because so many were new and inexperienced.

Mr. Campbell also revealed that, at his request, the UBCM would undertake a special study aimed at creating a Direct Sellers Act to put regulation of door-to-door selling on a province-wide basis.

He said at present each municipality sets its own regulations with the result that rules vary and licence fees range from $10 to $500.

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis and North Cowican Reeve Don Morton will carry out the UBCM study.

Dupuis Appeals

MONTREAL (CP)—Lawyers for Yvon Dupuis Tuesday filed notice of appeal against his conviction on charges of influence peddling. Mr. Dupuis, a former minister without portfolio in the federal cabinet was found guilty by a jury April 22 in Cherbrooke, Que. Judge Evender Veilleux sentenced him to a $5,000 fine or one-year of prison.

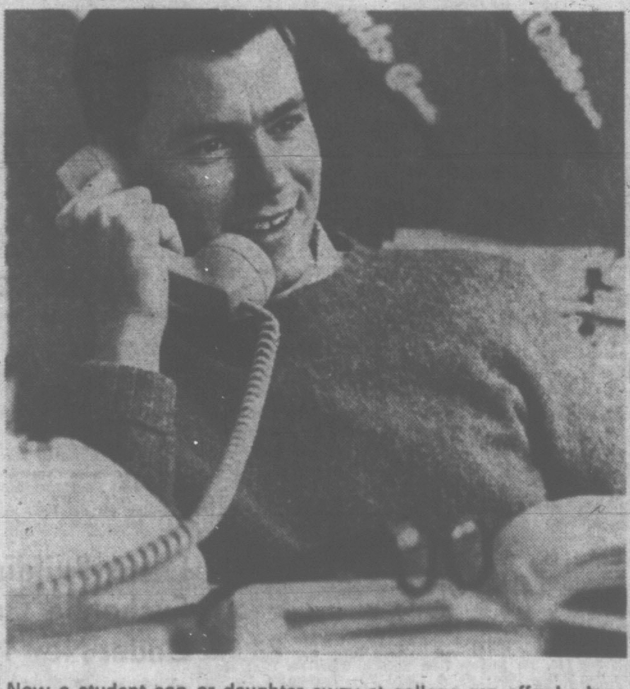
MAY 8 MOTHER'S DAY

A great day to discover how little long distance costs

On this special day the voices of loved ones, perhaps from hundreds of miles away, have a special place in our hearts. Memories are sharpened, experiences recaptured. It is a day when togetherness means so much and—as always with B.C. TEL—costs so little.



Now a student son or daughter away at college can afford a long distance call home (especially if they call "collect"!). Long distance rates are among the very few items of personal expenditures which, over the years, have lagged far behind the general rise in other living costs. In fact, many long distance calls actually cost less in dollars and cents today than 10 years ago. Moreover, after 6 pm and all day Sunday they are cheaper by about one-fifth.

Check the rates yourself in your telephone book or dial "O" and ask the operator. You'll be surprised how little it costs to enjoy "the next best thing to being there." Here, for example, are a few current charges:

VANCOUVER—PRINCE GEORGE.............. $1.35
NEW WESTMINSTER—CALGARY.............. $1.50
VICTORIA—TORONTO...................... $1.95
(Evening, station-to-station calls, first 3 minutes)

On this important day of the year there's more reason than ever to use Long Distance for all it's worth!

In Victoria Call 386-2211

If calling long distance, ask the operator for ZENITH 7000 (there is no charge).

Local Building Exchange Group Under New Name

Victoria Building Industries Exchange this week changed its name to Amalgamated Construction Association of B.C., Victoria branch.

The name change, being registered in mid-month, was necessary because the exchange joined two other major contractor organizations to create a nucleus of representative voice in the B.C. construction industry.

The other components are the Heavy Construction Association of B.C. and the Vancouver General Contractors' Association.

ACA Victoria branch will hold its annual meeting and election of officers at the Empress Hotel June 8.

Turn Down Offer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (Ind.) unanimously rejected terms offered Wednesday by Lenkurt Electric Co. of Canada to wildcate strikers wishing to return to work.

Union business manager Art O'Keefe described the terms offered as "vindictive [illegible] taliatory" and said the company is seeking to provoke a "most serious situation."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Widespread Losses Among Mines on VSE

Losses were widespread on the mining section of the Vancouver Stock Exchange shortly before noon.

Dynasty was off 50 cents to $13.75, Croydon dropped 10 to $1.30 and Anuk was off the same amount to $1.15.

Pyramid, up $1 to $12.25, was one of the few to gain. Hogan was up 7 to 80 cents and Magnum up 4 to 60 cents.

In the industrials, Madill rose 5 cents to a 1966 high of $5.50. Pacific Coast Terminals lost $1 to $29.

Both Toronto and New York experienced losses today.

A selling squall hit Wall Street and the industrial average plunged 15.09. The ticker tape ran 11 minutes late when the list was making its lows around midsession. Losses were cut in later dealings. The selling was triggered by news of production cutbacks by General Motors.

AT TORONTO Alcan Aluminium and Bank of Nova Scotia slid 1⅞ each to 41⅝ and 68⅝.

CPR was off 1¼ to 59¼ and General Motors 1 to 95.

Bell Telephone dropped ⅝ to 53 on 14,167 shares and B.C. Telephone 2¼ to 66¾.

Western oils barked off 2.15 on index to 107.58, Scurry Rainbow paced the group down, falling 1½ to 29⅝. Banff and Canadian Superior each lost ⅝ to 15¾ and 21, and Pacific Petroleum ¼ to 12⅞.

Pine Point declined 1¾ to 60 in base metal issues: Inco was off 1½ to 100½, Denison and Rio Algom ¾ each to 48 and 23½.

AT NEW YORK IBM, Braniff Airways and Admiral showed losses of about half a dozen points while Motorola was off more than seven.

General Motors, along with Ford and Chrysler, showed only fractional losses.

The major steelworkers had a string of fractional gains.

The glamor stocks in the electronics - color television - aerospace-airlines group were hardest hit.

AT MONTREAL banks were up, but most other sections moved fractionally lower in moderate trading.

AT LONDON the market was firmer today although some service companies' shares were still on the dull side.

Dollar stocks were mixed. In Canadians, Algoma, BA Oil, Canadian Husky, Consolidated Paper, Consolidated Mining and Massey-Ferguson firmed a little, Hollinger, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, International Nickel, Noranda and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines were slightly easier.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were mixed today in moderate trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. There was some export interest.

Flax prices resumed Wednesday's declines, depressed by lower European linseed oil prices. A revival in export interest halted declines in rapeseed prices.

Pulp Workers Dispute Goes to Conciliation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conciliation officer George Carmichael has been appointed to work out a settlement in a contract dispute involving 7,000 workers in the B.C. pulp industry.

Negotiations broke down last week and officials say it will be several days before new talks under Carmichael's direction can be arranged.

Capt. (Sunshine) Bill Exley Holds Enviable Reputation on Waterfront

This is the fourth in a series on the adventurous life of Victoria seamen by Times marine writer Terry Izzard.

By TERRY IZZARD

The official looking lettering on the frosted glass door pane proclaims: Superintendent of Lights.

A little to the right, in smaller print, is the simple title: "Sunshine."

The two appear to have no connection. But open the door and step inside

Sitting opposite, behind a desk piled high with official looking files, a menthol filter cigarette between his lips, is the man they've nicknamed "Sunshine."

Officially he's Capt. William Mills Exley.

A few hours in his company and it's easy to see how he came by the nickname.

* * *

For the affable department of transport lights superintendent is probably one of the most liked and respected characters on Victoria's waterfront.

At 46, he can hardly be described as an old veteran.

Yet his present job is a far cry from the one he took with the department as a youngster of 19.

The year was 1939 and the hungry 30s had seen young Bill Exley out of work since leaving Victoria High School at the age of 16.

It was, therefore, a proud young man who finally boarded the supply ship Estevan and reported for duty as cabin boy.

The tasks were menial but the Exley boy never complained. Which is probably one of the reasons he was promoted in the next three months to the position of deckhand.

* * *

If his new position sounded a little more grand, it certainly wasn't easier work.

As the ship sailed along Vancouver Island's east and west coasts taking supplies to isolated lighthouses, the raw recruit found himself humping 100-pound sacks of coal.

Today, Capt. Exley can sit back and smile at the episode as he places orders for fuel oil to be delivered to the lighthouses under his control.

But it was no fun at the time for the 140-pound strippling — especially for $35-a-month.

He recalls how the Estevan would deliver 40 - tons of coal at a time to Estevan Point; a delivery which entailed rowing the old longboat from ship to shore 10 times, loading and unloading coal 10 times and making the labored trip from shore to lighthouse 10 times.

However, that wasn't the reason the youthful seaman asked for an extended leave of absence after just two years.

CAPT. BILL EXLEY
. . . holds picture of first tender

The year was 1941, a war was being fought across in Europe and Bill Exley decided he'd like to be in on it — so he joined the navy.

For the next two years he served aboard the Canadian destroyer Kootenay, escorting convoys across the Great Circle route.

The sun certainly shone on him in his early life as witnessed by the 1,000 merchant ships he helped escort without the loss of one.

In the meantime, petty officer Exley had been spending his leave studying and at the age of 24, he held a mate's ticket.

Due to his keenness, he was recommended for commission to warrant officer and in 1944 he was posted to the minesweeper Brocksville as navigation officer.

From there he moved to the frigate Thetford until the war in Europe ended just two months later.

* * *

On returning to Victoria, he met a charming young girl by the name of Francis Berry and in April 1945 the two were married.

By this time, he had returned to the department of transport as mate aboard the small lighthouse tender Berens at $105-a-month.

In 1950 he was promoted to 2nd mate aboard the Estevan where he served until 1957 when he became first mate for three months and then mate aboard the Sir James Douglas.

Already the proud owner of a master's ticket (he passed the exam in 1953), it was only a couple of years before he was given command of the Estevan after a short spell as chief mate.

After that he was master of the Sir James Douglas, the Simon Fraser and the icebreaker Camsell before taking over his present post in January, 1964.

His younger days humping coal serve him well as supervisor of around 1,000 lights and 90 lighthouse keepers.

Many a time he can draw on his experiences to solve a tricky situation.

In addition to the demanding task he always has time to answer questions not strictly pertaining to his job and more than once he's gone out of his way to find out the time of high tide at Sooke for some telephone caller.

Father of two girls, one 17, the other nine, he loves his job.

"If I didn't get paid, I'd still come into the office," he says. "It's a way of life I wouldn't swap for any other."

His other hobbies are gardening and fiddling around with cars.

Net Profits Announced

QUEBEC (CP) — Donohue Brothers Ltd. announced Monday net earnings of $266,845 or 15 cents per share for the first quarter of 1966 against $290,850 or 16 cents per share for the same period in 1965.

The paper company said the decrase in earnings resulted from higher manufacturing costs.

Total operating profit amounted to $784,982 for the first quarter in 1966 compared with $857,037 in 1965.

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. directors voted Monday to omit a quarterly dividend payment, marking the third consecutive quarter in which they have done so.

Chairman Richard E. Cross and President Roy Abernethy reported the United States' fourth-largest auto firm lost $8,359,399, equal to 44 cents a share, in the second quarter of its fiscal year.

The firm made about $4,100,000 in the preceding quarter, Cross said.

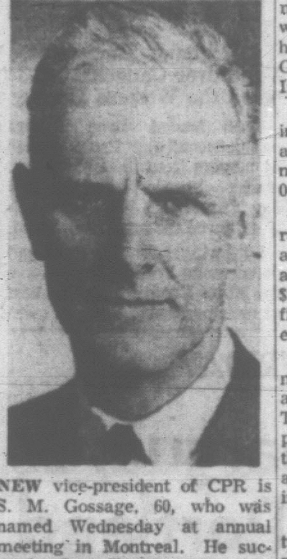
On a six-month basis, AMC's financial report showed a loss of $4,163,504, equal to 22 cents a share, on net sales of $479,000,000.

CNR President Back from Japan

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donald Gordon Wednesday returned from a trip of several weeks to Japan.

The president of the Canadian National Railways said in an interview he was investigating Japanese railways.

He said he was impressed with the Japanese railway system and had acquired "lots of ideas about modernizing railway lines."



NEW vice-president of CPR is S. M. Gossage, 60, who was named Wednesday at annual meeting in Montreal. He succeeds Ian Sinclair who was elected president to succeeed the late R. A. Emerson. (CP Wirephoto.)

SOVIET, ITALIAN AUTO DEAL COMPLETED

$300 Million for Factory

TURIN, Italy (UPI) — Russia's multi-million dollar agreement to buy a 2,000-car-a-day production plant from Fiat automobile company was described today as the biggest international automotive deal in history and welcomed news for the Soviet consumer.

The agreement, announced Wednesday after two weeks of negotiations between Soviet and Fiat officials, did not disclose the sum involved, but reliable sources said the Soviets would pay upwards of $300 million.

Not since the lat Henry Ford journeyed to post - revolutionary Russia to help set up the infant Soviet automotive industry has there been a deal of comparable size in Europe.

(France's giant Renault auto company said in Paris it still planned to sell an auto plant to Russia despite the Fiat deal. A spokesman said a team will leave for Moscow May 23 to discuss plans to sell a plant producing a modified version of the Renault 16 five-seater model).

The announcement Wednesday said financial arrangements were being worked out by officials of the Soviet Vneshtorgbank (foreign trade bank) and Italy's Instituto Mobiliare Italiano (IMI) Bank.

The deal was signed in Turin, with Soviet Amassador to Italy S. P. Kozirev making a special trip here for the occasion. Signatories were Vittorio Valletta, president of Fiat, Italy's biggest automobile maker, and A. M. Turasov, minister of the Soviet automobile industry.

The official announcement offered few details. It said, "the parties have worked out a specific program of co-operation, contemplating the selection of the car model to be produced as well as the joint engineering and manufacturing organization of a production plant with the capacity of 2,000 cars a day."

According to the source, the Soviet plant for assembling Fiat cars will be located at either Minsk, Gorki or Zapocohze. No construction date was mentioned.

The sources said the plant will build either the Fiat 1100 or the new Fiat 114, both five-seaters. Whichever model is chosen the Soviets are demanding major modifications to meet Soviet road and weather conditions.

Although no other details were available, industry sources here said the Fiat deal will benefit broad sectors of Italian business. They said Fiat was expected to pass on 75 per cent of the Soviet fees to subcontractors.

For the Russians, the Fiat deal was seen as being in line with the new Kremlin leadership's promises to quadruple passenger car production in the next five years.

Russia produced about 200,000 cars last year — the equivalent almost of one week's auto production in the U.S. Under the Soviet economic blueprint for the next five years, Kremlin leaders hope to jump the country's annual car production to 800,000 by 1970.

There was no indication how many of the Fiat-built cars would go to private owners, state officials, taxi drivers or for export.

But in Russia, where only one out of every 235 citizens owns his own car, Fiat and Soviet officials can count on a sellers market for years to come.

Lumber Exports Decline

VANCOUVER (CP) — Domestic lumber shipments were up sharply in March over last year but exports declined.

Domestic shipments totalled 126,600,000 board feet compared with 104,400,000 in March last year, Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau reports.

Exports slumped from 104,300,000 board feet in 1965 to 96,700,000 this March.

Total domestic shipments for the year are 303,500,000 board feet — up from last year's 285,100,000.

In the first three months exports, however, were off 275,200,000 board feet compared to 297,300,000 last year.

The bureau includes Alaska, the Atlantic Coast, California, Hawaiian Islands and Puerto Rico in its domestic category.

Shipments to the Atlantic Coast were 121,000,000 board feet compared with last March's 93,300,000.

Japan continued to take a big percentage of the exports with 30,900,000 board feet compared with 14,400,000 last March.

STANDARDS MUST BE HIGH

VSE President Supports Local Exchange Proposal

A move to re-form the Victoria Stock Exchange comes as no surprise to Vancouver Stock Exchange president Jack Van Luven.

And re-establishing the Victoria exchange after a hiatus of some 50 years would meet his personal approval — provided its standards are no lower than those of VSE.

Commenting on the suggestion made Wednesday by a group of Victoria-Vancouver-U.S. businessmen, Mr. Van Luven said he had heard "something" about the formation of a Victoria exchange.

It was the type of movement to be expected during a boom market, he said.

"Competition is good, but I wouldn't like to see a lowering of standards," the exchange president said.

A spokesman for the Victoria Stock Exchange — whose unlapsed charter was granted by the B.C. legislature in 1911 — said it was the directing group's intention to have requirements for listing "almost as high" as those for the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

NON-PROFIT

Like the VSE, it would be a non-profit organization, and not intended to compete but to supplement the service to investors provided by VSE, the spokesman said.

He also acknowledged that it might attract numbers of companies whose shares now trade on the so-called unlisted market at VSE.

The unlisted board will be closed June 6 as a VSE move to tighten up market control and encourage the unlisted companies to meet VSE requirements for full listing.

Mr. Van Luven suggested companies whose stocks trade on the unlisted market do so usually because their operations have not reached the stage of development to warrant listing, or perhaps they have insufficient shareholders.

VSE requirements include:

- Enough shareholders to create a trading market rather than trading among a small group of businessmen.
- Enough money in the treasury to carry out exploration and development programs.
- Such programs should be laid down so the public will know how the money is to be used.
- Full disclosure of material facts, such as names of principal company officers and shareholders and the amount of authorized capital.

The exchange also charges a $1,000 fee and checks into responsibility of persons running the companies in question.

"Certainly, if its standards were at least equal to the Vancouver Stock Exchange, we'd say all well and good," Mr. Van Luven said. "But I don't thind we'd like to see companies with lower standards."

HAVE PROBLEM

He said it was not a matter of offering improved service.

"We've been in business 59 years and we're still having difficulty in getting quotations to Victoria," he said.

When told the proposed exchange would have lower standards, according to its leaders, Mr. Van Luven said:

"It's our desire to upgrade the requirements of our listed companies and the members. Personally, I wouldn't like to see the requirements any more basic."

In any case, before a stock exchange may do business in B.C., the approval in writing of Attorney-General Robert Bonner must be obtained.

Pulp Companies Fight Pollution

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two major new B.C. pulp mill operations have earmarked almost $6,000,000 for control of pollution in air and water, long a sore spot between the timber industry, conservationists and government agencies.

The Tahsis Co. Ltd. will spend more than $3,500,000 to combat water and air pollution at the huge operation it is building at Gold River on Vancouver Island.

And at Prince George in the interior, the Prince George Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd., has announced plans to spend $2,500,000 on pollution abatement.

The Gold River program represents about six per cent of a total investment of $55,000,000 and the firm estimates that only $530,000 of the pollution control figure "can be justified by economic returns."

Patrick N. Bowle-Evans, manager of Pulp Mill Design and Construction, said the Tahsis plans have been approved by the technical staff of the federal fisheries department and are not under consideration in Ottawa.

He said Tahsis set out to do two things: Recover for sale or reuse as much of the mill refuse as possible, and to intercept each waste stream at its source before it mingles with pure air or water.

DISCHARGE INTO SEA

A 1,700-foot tunnel will take the mill effluent to a body of sea water far from the mouth of Gold River and release it through a diffuser pipe 80 feet below sea level.

Other installations will dispose of waste such as bark, and there will be a precipitator on the recovery furnace to reclaim salt cake which would otherwise be lost up the chimney.

Mr. Bowle-Evans said tests indicate cleaner — and better-smelling-air will result and the company will regain materials that would otherwise have been lost.

At Prince George, engineers have installed a number of special facilities to stop pollution.

The company is trying out a dry barker instead of a wet one, so that waste doesn't settle in a nearby river.

Flotation equipment will help recover fibrous material before it is discharged and all effluent will be treated with special chemicals before it is released.

Dr. George Charles, the Prince George Company's technical director, said his firm will try a number of different anti-pollution methods — including one plan to neutralize organic matter resulting from the pulp process with rich topsoil mixed with chicken manure.

Mill effluent is first neutralized, then it moves to a 14,000,000-gallon retention basin in one system now being tried. The effluent is aerated for 24 hours to provide maximum oxygen content and metered ingredients of nitrogen and phosphorous, vital for biological activity, are added.

Bacterial sludge settling and recirculation facilities have been added to provide seed material for the neutralized bleach plant effluent.

Some lessons we've learned about making small cars for Canadians.

Lesson 1. Build them in Canada. That's where the rugged weather is.

Lesson 2. Watch your paint. Use 5 separate coats of Canadian primer and paint, after rustproofing the bodies 6 times.

Lesson 3. Offer something unusual. Like a small car automatic for around $2,000.

Lesson 4. Make it good-looking. A small car doesn't have to be ugly to be well engineered.

Lesson 5. Give it a great independent suspension. Canadians have a knack for leaving the beaten path.

Lesson 6. Make the seats convertible to beds. A lot of Canadians are campers.

Lesson 7. Put in 4-wheel disc brakes, and offer a 4-speed synchromesh gearbox. Canadians are a sporty group.

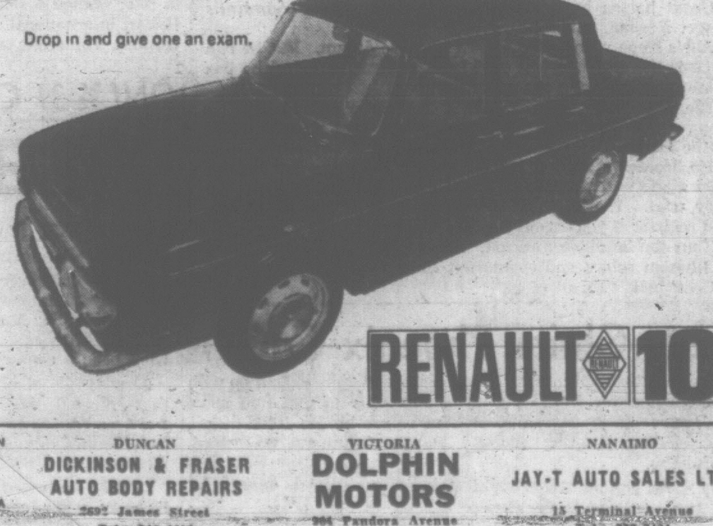
Lesson 8. Keep at least a million dollars worth of spare parts. And keep them available everywhere in Canada.

Lesson 9. Put in an engine that likes to be driven hard. Canadian roads are long and Canadians like to move along.

Lesson 10. Install a heater as large as most domestic big cars. Put in a booster fan and outlets for back seat passengers, Canada is a frosty country.

Lesson 11. Keep your prices down and your engineering quality up. There's a lot of competition.

These are lessons we've learned in Canada. This is the Renault 10 Major.



Drop in and give one an exam.

SPORTS

DOUG PEDEN, Sports Editor

Hal Malone LOOKS AT SPORTS

If it wasn't for tradition and a clamoring public, this would be the year you picked your own Kentucky Derby winner.

But some fools never know when to be cool. They are the kind who change a tire before turning the motor off, who ask the wife what's she done with the housekeeping money, who dive into the apple pie a la mode when they should be romancing Metrecal.

Two weeks ago it would have been manifestly simple to suggest that Graustark would smell the roses at Churchill Downs on Saturday afternoon.

Graustark is by Ribot out of Flower Bowl. If that isn't lineage that makes a horse player drool all over his vest, this innocent doesn't know top sirloin from aged wieners.

Besides breeding Graustark could run, which comes in handy when you're handicapping. He won seven in a row. Admittedly none of his victories were at more than seven furlongs. But his margins were such that he could walk the last 16th while reading the Racing Form and still win the Derby.

Then Graustark did a foolish thing. He forgot to tie his shoe laces one morning and a pebble slipped between his toes. Anyone with dentures and a passion for strawberry jam knows what this does to sweet dispositions. Goodbye, Graustark.

Moccasin Shunned Spinster Status

So many injuries beset other beasts which looked as if they could test Graustark's wind that they could have moved the entire graduating class of Western U's Veterinary School into the stable area.

Among the halt and lame who are doing great things for Sloan's Liniment are Buckpasser and Saber Mountain.

Great hopes were held at one time for the filly, Moccasin. She tore off six straight victories. When they asked her to run with the boys she reneged, having read in Emily Post that girls do not chase boys and certainly never beat them unless they want to remain spinsters.

Neither acute indigestion nor athlete's foot besets Boldnesian. But he isn't in the Derby either. At the time Derby nominations closed, his owner, William Haggin Perry, had doubts that Boldnesian could run fast enough to beat William Haggin Perry, so he saved his money.

Boldnesian led a slothful life as a two-year-old, eating and drinking and sleeping, but no serious running. Last February he knocked the clocks for a loop at Santa Anita, unravelling six furlongs in 1:09.1. Later under Walter Blum's masterful navigating he steamed home first in the Santa Anita Derby.

Somebody asked Perry how he felt after Boldnesian had enriched him by $106,000. Mindful of the Louisville pot ($121,500 for the winner) to be denied by his foresight, Mr. Perry said succinctly: "I feel sick."

Is Richard Bokum Peddling Hokum?

With Graustark and the other elite watching on television, everybody and his dog wants in Saturday. Some 16 owners have pressed $1,000 into the racing secretary's hands, ensuring the greatest cavalry and plasma charge since Andy Cottyn opened the gates to jalopies at Western Speedway.

Every year certain animals are entered on an owner's whim rather than their credentials.

Quinta will tour the course simply because his boss, Richard D. Bokum, wants to see his blue-and-white silks at Churchill Downs at least once in his lifetime.

Bokum is dealing in hokum if he expects Quinta to say "cheese" for the photographers. In the Governor's Gold Cup at Bowie, Quinta made it home before curfew, third, only beaten 12 lengths.

Advocator will stretch his legs to preserve Mrs. Ada Rice's conviction that a horse is a horse is a horse and the others might fall down. There doesn't appear to be any other valid reason for his presence. His batting average this year is straightforward—seven starts, no (zero) wins.

From the camps of Beau Sub, Clear Springs, Sean E., Indian, Sky Guy and Rehabilitate have come no press releases apart from the mundane "eats well and often, doesn't bite jockeys or grooms."

Times at Golden Gate Are Suspect

California will be represented by Fleet Shoe and Tragniew. The former was bet into the ground two weeks ago in the California Derby. He ran as if he had anchors on his ankles.

Tragniew took that race but at Santa Anita last winter he didn't have as much stuff as Sandy Koufax.

Tragniew's time of 1:147.2 was the fastest nine furlongs by any three-year-old this year. It may be misleading. The Derby was run at Golden Gate Fields in Albany where the track is so hard modest camels often get home quicker than some husbands after receiving a "friendly" phone call at their favorite bar.

Stupendous has often been around the money without quite getting his hands on the major part. He will be escorted by Braulio Baeza, left horseless with Graustark's withdrawal, and that shouldn't diminish his chances appreciably.

Baeza supposedly will do anything to win. In the Derby this could include getting off Stupendous and running ahead of him in the stretch.

New York turf authors are partial to Amberoid following his two-length victory in the Wood Memorial. Amberoid comes from 18 miles back and has a habit of pulling himself up when he gets on the lead. That problem may not confront him Saturday.

Take Your Pick . . . We'll Have Hope

If it turns juicy underfoot, Kauai King, a son of Native Dancer, could be difficult. In slop up to his armpits he pranced merrily home three lengths the best in the $100,000 Governor's at Bowie.

Great horses have memorable handles . . . Admiral's Voyage, Nashua, Citation.

Abe's Hope sounds like a card player's dream. But he can go—he is the only one who said "no" to Graustark and he has William Shoemaker in the upper berth.

The son of Better Bee, Abe's Hope was named after a groom, since deceased, who predicted the Thoroughbred would win the Derby.

He breezed a mile in 1:41.3 Tuesday, the same day Exhibitionist made an exhibition of himself by beating nothing in the Derby trial. That's better time than some Derby candidates could register if you set off firecrackers under their tails.

Thus the infallible forecast. Abe's Hope. Driving. Bet all the Russian rubles and counterfeit coins you can spare.

Good luck. To all of us.

Scots Claim Phoenix Cup

Canadian Scottish closed the final chapter on the Victoria and District Rifle Association's winter indoor shooting season with a bang.

The Scots, getting 98x100 out of Ron Morrison and Dave Fyvie, captured the 40-year-old Phoenix Cup at Work Point barracks. The six-man team wound up with an aggregate of 580, five more than runner-up 5th RCA.

Pacific Command was third.

Scottish — Ron Morrison 98-7x; Dave Fyvie 98-6x; Jack Roberts 97-6x; Smokey Green 96-6x; Fran Morse 96-3x; B. W. Wolmsley 95-4x. Total 580.

5th RCA—Bob Walker 98-7x; Norman Sharpe 96-5x; Eric Andrews 96-4x; Ernie Gullason 95-4x; Bill McCoubrey 95-4x; Brian Watt 95-4x. Total 575.

Willie Passes Ott; Osteen Knew it, too

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays can concentrate on his batting average again now that he's hammered a pitch out of Candlestick Park to bring him the National League career home run record of 512.

While pursuing the homer which eluded him for 10 days, Willie's average dropped to .284 from .348, and he admits feeling the pressure of going for a big record.

He got it Wednesday night as his San Francisco Giants defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 6-1. In the fifth inning, Mays connected on a high change-up from Claude Osteen and sent it 380 feet and over the right field fence.

"I knew it was gone when I hit it," Willie admitted. "It was a long time coming."

The former Say Hey Kid, who broke in with the Giants in New York in 1951, was swarmed by his teammates and there was a cake awaiting him in the clubhouse.

CAKE UNTOUCHED

"That thing must have been here a week," commented Willie, who didn't taste the confection. It went untouched.

Since hitting No. 511 in Houston April 24, Mays has suffered hand and knee injuries and been forced to sit out one day with the stomach flu.

A hassle developed over the ball Willie hit for the record. Henry Garron Jr., a 17-year-old high school student from Oakland, retrieved it. He and his father decided not to accept the $100 offered for the ball.

'BE MY GUEST'

A disappointed Mays put a stop to any bargaining when he autographed the ball, handed it back to the senior Garron and commented, "Be my guest and keep it."

Osteen, who had a 4-1 record coming into the game, hadn't thrown a home run pitch in his last 96 innings. He struck out Mays in both the first and second.

Of the fifth-inning blast, Osteen said:

"I threw him a change-up and I knew the instant I let it go that it was gone. I've never been in the record book for anything and I'm sorry it had to come like this. I threw it where he likes them. It was a great milestone for him and I'm glad he reached it.

WAS A BAD GAME

"And that wasn't what beat me. It was one of my worst games and we were losing 4-1 at the time."

Willie compared the thrill of No. 512 with that of No. 1, the homer he hit off Warren Spahn as a rookie. Mays had gone hitless in his first dozen times at bat after being called up to the major leagues in 1951.

"The home run off Spahn kept me in the majors and if I hadn't hit that one, I wouldn't have hit this one, so it's just about even," the smiling Mays explained.

ONLY THREE AHEAD

Mays said he'd like to concentrate now on his batting average, but added: "I'm not going to stop swinging. I have to be more relaxed now. If I ever catch up to some of those ahead of me, maybe it will be the same thing all over again."

Only three players in major league history now have hit more home runs than the 34-year-old Mays. Ted Williams had 521, Jimmy Foxx 534 and Babe Ruth 714.

Willie should eclipse the first two this season and become the leading right-handed home run hitter of all time.

Whether he'll ever catch the left-handed hitting Ruth's record remains problematical, but there are many who think he can.

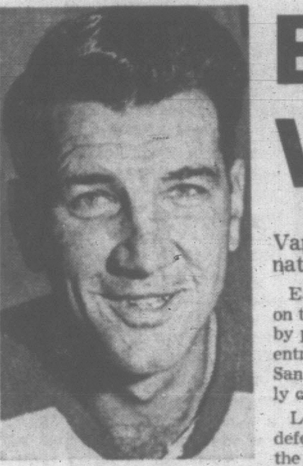
FALLEN INDIANS GET ATTENTION

Under intensive care in New York hospital today is Cleveland Indians' Larry Brown, No. 16. He suffered fractured skull, nose and right cheekbone after colliding with teammate Leon Wagner (at right) while chasing fly ball Wednesday. Wagner came out of it with broken nose and facial bruises, but is due to back in a day of two. Brown may be lost for months. (AP Wirephoto.)



FRED HUCUL

Barlow, Fred Hucul Gain WHL First-Team Berths

Portland Buckaroos, Victoria Maple Leafs and Vancouver Canucks, 1-2-3 in the final standings, dominated the Western Hockey League's all-star ballots.

Each landed three players on the two all-star teams chosen by players from the league's six entries. Seattle placed two and San Francisco's Wayne Connelly captured the remaining berth.

Left winger Bob Barlow and defenceman Freddie Hucul were the Maple Leafs selected as best at their positions. Victoria team captain Sandy Hucul picked off a second-team berth.

In addition to Barlow and Fred Hucul, others on the WHL's first "dream team" are centre Billy McNeill and goalie Gilles Villemure, both of Vancouver, and right wing Cliff Schmautz and defenceman Connie Madigan, both of Portland.

SANDY MAKES IT

The second-team choices were goalie Don Head of Portland; Sandy Hucul and Vancouver's Larry Cahan on defence; centre Guyle Fielder and left winger Bill MacFarland, both of Seattle, and Connelly.

Fred Hucul out-polled Madigan, 319-314, in the all-star balloting but the burly Portland veteran nosed out the Victoria player in the voting for the league's outstanding defenceman award last month.

HEAD PLAYED LITTLE

The all-star ballots carried a taste of milk-and-honey for Barlow. The same votes rubbed salt into Seattle who allowed the left-winger to be acquired by the Maple Leafs.

It marked the first time Barlow, a 42-goal scorer this season, had gained first all-star honors in his professional career.

Head was awarded the second goaltending spot despite the fact he has seen very limited action in the second half of the season. Head has yet to appear in a playoff game.

McNeill, the league's most valuable player, led all vote-getters with 358 points. The speedy centre is reported quitting hockey in order to accept a business promotion.

McNeill, incidentally, is the only first-team "repeater" from last season.

ANDY'S THE KING

Biggest disappointment in Victoria was the fact that right winger Andy Hebenton failed to gain either the first or second team.

Maple Leaf coach Frank Mario and manager Buck Houle both expressed dismay at the fact Connelly drew more votes than Hebenton.

"For my money," said Houle, "the guy that wears No. 15 for us (Hebenton) is the most valuable player in this league."

The all-star teams (bracketed figures indicate number of votes polled):

FOURTH GAME FRIDAY

Leaf Rearguards Plague Portland

Victoria's defencemen are doing him dirt, so you can't blame Portland coach Hal Laycoe for wondering "when is it all going to stop?"

Maple Leafs rearguards have a "thing" about scoring goals against Portland and that is just another reason why Victoria holds a 2-1 edge in the best-of-seven Western Hockey League final for the Patrick Trophy.

The series resumes at Memorial Arena on Friday and Saturday. Game Nos. 6 and 7, if required, will be played in Portland, May 9 and 10.

Each team has scored 12 goals in the first three games.

Victoria rearguards have accounted for five of their 12, and all have been "big."

To refresh memories . . .

Fred Hucul hammered in two and then Claude Labrosse came around with the winner after 35 minutes of overtime to provide the Leafs with a 6-5 victory in the series' opener.

The defence rested for game No. 2. Portland won, 6-2.

Hucul started it off again in the third game. Aut Erickson, with a brilliant solo manoeuvre, counted an important insurance goal, and the Leafs came out 4-1 winners.

Success against Portland is "nothing new" for Victoria's blueliners. They figured in 41 per cent of Victoria's total output (13 out of 32) against the Bucks in their 12 meetings during the regular schedule.

With each goal he scores, Hucul establishes a new playoff scoring record for defencemen. The old record was five, which Fred matched in the seven-game semifinal set with San Francisco.

Playoff scoring:

Soccer Brass to Drop Canadian Title Event

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Soccer Football Association will concentrate on entering a team in the 1967 Pan American Games in Winnipeg and drop the annual challenge trophy Canadian championship, says past-president Dave Fryatt of Vancouver.

Fryatt, on his return from a special two-day meeting in Winnipeg, said the CSFA is committed to enter a team in the 1967 Games and is not financially solvent enough to handle both projects.

It was largely through grants from the Physical Fitness Council that the Canadian championships were staged the last two years.

This year's grant will go toward holding a round-robin series in Winnipeg Aug. 28 to Sept. 3. Each province will be invited to send a select team and must declare itself by Aug. 1.

Following the round-robin, a selection committee will name the all-stars. The team would be brought together for training and conditioning several weekss prior to the games.

Miners Expecting A Hitting Battle

CALGARY (CP) — Coaches indicated a battle of tactical contrasts in tonight's opening game of the best-of-seven Allan Cup final series between Sherbrooke Beavers and Drumheller Miners.

Coach Georges Roy, who arrived here Wednesday night with two Beaver players out of action, said his light, young defending champions will continue to rely on fast skating.

But coach Roy Kelly, icing the heavier and older Miners, forecast a hitting game, partly because of the small ice surface at the 2,200-seat Foothills Arena.

Second game will be at Foothills Saturday. Further action will be at the Stampede Corral May 10 and 12. If necessary, the clubs will return to Foothills for further games May 14, 16 and 17.

While Kelly reported an injury-free crew, Beavers lost centres Bill Dupre and Georges Gilbault—and possibly captain Rene Pepin—in semifinal action against Guelph Regals.

ONLY 31 CARS REMAIN . . . . . . IN VANCOUVER-QUEBEC RALLY

'I'd Be Suprised If 20 Finished'

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — An estimate last month by organizer Jim Gunn that only 30 cars would finish the 4,000-mile Vancouver-to-Quebec City car rally may have been a conservative one.

Already 29 of the 60 cars that started last Saturday night in Vancouver are out of the running. Six dropped out Wednesday.

"I'd be surprised if 20 cars finish," said John Catto of Ottawa, eliminated after the Mustang he was navigating for Giles Vincent of Dorion, Que., hit and killed a deer.

"The tough part of the rally is just beginning," said Bill Silvera of Toronto. "A lot of cars are going to break on those Ontario and Quebec roads."

Most of the cars eliminated have either gone off the road or bogged down. A few of these were not able to continue because of extensive damage, but the majority were disqualified because of excessive lateness.

Paul MacLennan of Toronto and John Wilson of Waterloo, Ont., maintained the lead they have held since the start when they ran without a penalty Wednesday.

The pair, driving a Ford-Lotus Cortina, has only 12 penalty points. Their mates in the three-car Cortina team — Roger Clark of England and Robin Edwards of Fabreville, Que. — forgot to punch their time card at a control point and dropped 30 points, sliding to third place with a total of 67.

Ewen (Pip) Graham of Midnapore, Alta., and his co-driver Henry Acteson of Calgary, the leading private entry, moved into second with 41 points against their Volvo.

Rosemary Smith of Dublin, in her Sunbeam Imp, retained fourth place. She ran clean Wednesday and had 91 points. Miss Smith and her co-driver, Ann Coombe of Toronto, are the only women left in the rally.

Scott Harvey of Detroit and Mike Kerry of Toronto continue to hold fifth spot in a Barracuda with 99 points.

Fivepin Champs Facing Rugged Foes in Rolloffs

MAY WALLIS
. . . defends title

Everybody respects the talent of the champions, but May Wallis and Norm Goldie will be facing rugged chores Sunday when they defend their fivepin titles in rolloffs of the annual Daily Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition.

Many of the sharpest shooters among Vancouver Island's maple-mauling set will be stepping to the starting line at Town and Country Lanes for attempts to push May and Norm off their thrones.

Champions, former champs and a flock of other bowling aces will start throwing at 1:30 p.m. in scrambles for Bowler-of-the-Year trophies and cash prizes of $100 in women's and men's fivepin rolloffs.

The $100 award is a bonus that will go to any rolloff champion who is a subscriber to The Daily Times.

Qualifiers in the men's and women's tenpin divisions will also be shooting for rolloff titles Sunday. They'll start rolling at 2:30, the ladies at Mayfair and the men at Aurora.

In all divisions, bowlers will roll three games.

Bowlers qualified during the season for places in the rolloff by winning weekly awards in the 27-week contest. Awards in each of the four divisions went each week to the bowlers who posted the highest three-game scratch total in regular league play on southern Vancouver Island lanes.

Thus, 27 pin-spillers qualified in each of the four sections, which makes a total of 108 eligible to step into Sunday's rolloffs.

MAY, NORM TOUGH

No entrance fees will be required for the rolloffs, but contestants will be required to pay regular bowling fees charged by the lanes.

Hot scrambles are expected at Town and Country, where Mrs. Wallis and Goldie, both rated among the brightest of the city's bowling stars, will each be trying to make a matching set by winning another Times Trophy.

Norm didn't delay in qualifying for this year's rolloff. He paced his division in the first week of the contest by firing a three-game series of 931.

May waited only a little longer before topping the women's fivepin section and earning a rolloff berth. She made it in the fourth week with a three-game tally of 803.

ALL ROLL SUNDAY

What scores they will require Sunday in order to retain their crowns is anybody's guess. But it's a cinch they are going to run into plenty of talented competition.

Here are the sites and time of Sunday's four rolloffs:

Women's fivepins — Town and Country Lanes, 1:30 p.m.

Men's fivepins — Town and Country Lanes, 1:30 p.m.

Women's tenpins — Mayfair Lanes, 2:30 p.m.

Men's tenpins — Aurora Lanes, 2:30 p.m.

AT HAMPTON

Senior Ballmen Open Saturday

Settled into a new home at Hampton Park for the summer while Royal Athletic Park is being renovated, Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League clubs will launch a new season Saturday.

Althouth operating without lights this season, the senior swingers have expanded their league to six clubs and have ambitiously increased their schedule to 40 games for each club.

Following Saturday's opening program at Hampton Park, doubleheaders will be played each Sunday and single games will be scheduled Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at 6:30 p.m. and on Saturdays at 2 p.m.

Each of the four Victoria clubs will play two doubleheaders at Chemainus and two at Courtenay during the season.

ENOS HANDLES COURTENAY

Courtenay, managed by Enos Bosomworth, is the new club in the circuit. The Courtenay club will make its league debut Saturday at home, hosting the holdover Chemainus squad, piloted by Larry Irwin.

Greaves Moving and Storage, the 1965 champion; Rawlings Plumbing, Transport Workers and Kings Hotel, taking over the Independent Athletic Association franchise, will all be in action Saturday at Hampton.

Guided by Larry McKinty, the Greaves crew will tackle Transports, managed by Barry Harvey, in the opening game at 1:30.

At 3:30, Gary Bishop will lead Kings against Herb Wetherell's Plumbers.

Completing weekend activity at Hampton will be a Sunday twin bill between Transports and Courtenay, with games starting at 1:30 and 3:30.

Tuneup Time For Battlers

West Coast punchers aiming for the Canadian championships at Calgary, starting May 13, get a chance to warm up on a 15-bout boxing card at Memorial Arena.

Friday's card at the Club Tango, 1037 View Street, gets under way at 8 p.m.

Main event will be a fight between Fred Desrosiers of Victoria and Vancouver's Eddie Ostepovich. Both are members of the B.C. team heading for Calgary.

In another bout, Les Vegas of Victoria, meets Steve Tohill of Vancouver.

Maynard Trophy Test Carded at Gorge Vale

Dick Kennedy will be defending the Maynard Trophy in the annual handicap competition Sunday at Gorge Vale Golf Club.

Players will start at the following times:

Habs Moving If Not Henri

DETROIT (CP)—Henri Richard, one of Montreal's most proficient goal scorers, is still waiting, but the Canadiens just couldn't.

Coach Toe Blake said before the best-of-seven Stanley Cup finals opened against Detroit Red Wings that Richard, who missed a number of late-season National Hockey League games because of a knee injury, would have to be back to normal if Montreal was to win.

However, the little centre, who is the second highest playoff points getter on the current Canadiens' roster, hasn't scored a goal in two semi-final games against Toronto Maple Leafs and five against Detroit.

But the Canadiens decided after losing the first two games of the finals, they couldn't wait around any longer. They won the next two games on Detroit ice and took a 3-2 lead in the series in Montreal Tuesday night.

Richard has collected only three assists in his seven playoff games this season.

He is appearing in his 10th post-season run for the cup, and is second only to Jean Beliveau in playoff points on the current club with 24 goals and 47 assists.

However, he and Lorne Worsley were the only two regulars who did not join in the hour-long skating and shooting practice the Montreal club held on their arrival here Wednesday.

Tonight's game will be televised on Channels 2 and 6 beginning at 6 p.m., according to the CBC. Radio broadcast begins at 6 on CBU (690).

Blake stressed that the workout had been on a "voluntary basis" and he allowed several of the older players the option of leaving the ice after a warm-up skate.

Richard said that after the playoff between the Toronto and Detroit series that he "felt good and the knee felt okay."

"But I still couldn't get going in the first two games (against Detroit)," he added.

"Now the knee is still okay—except when maybe I move the wrong way—but I still can't score a goal."

INJURED ATHLETE

Fund Started To Aid Fergy

Officials and players in Victoria's amateur hockey ranks have started a fund to assist "Fergy" McPherson, former city commercial league player and coach in the Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

McPherson was injured in a car crash April 15 at Portland and is still in serious condition in a Portland hospital.

Donations to the McPherson benefit fund may be left at the Bank of Nova Scotia, Yates and Douglas. Additional information may be obtained from Hank Klassen at 384-7329.

NANAIMO CLUB HOSTS LEAGUE PISTOL SHOOT

Pistols will be "in" this weekend for trigger experts in the Vancouver Island Shooting League.

Handgunners will be plinking for points and prizes Sunday at the Nanaimo Fish and Game Club grounds in a registered pistol tournament while rifle and shotgun aces wait on the sidelines.

Shooters will be classified according to ability in an individual match course of fire for both .22-calibre and centrefire pistols.

Contestants will fire an aggregate of 90 shots with each weapon—20 shots at slow, timed and rapid fire, and 30 shots in a national match course event.

On May 15, riflemen and shotgunners will return to the VISL stage. Nanaimo will be the site of a trap shoot and the Campbell River Rifle and Pistol Club will host a rifle competition.

Blind Bowlers In Tourney

Second annual Totem Tournament will be contested by blind bowlers from Victoria, Vancouver, White Rock, New Westminster and the Okanagan Saturday at Gibson's Recreations.

The event was first held in Vancouver last year, and includes men's and women's guide-rail singles for the totally blind, and men's and women's non-guide-rail singles for partially sighted people.

The tournament, which begins at 2 p.m., will be preceded by a luncheon at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Service Centre on Blanshard Street at 12:30.

MOST VALUABLE

DETROIT (CP)—Al Lebrun of Minnesota Rangers has been voted the most valuable defenceman in the Central Professional Hockey League for the 1965-66 season.

Edmonton Kings Shatter Image

TORONTO (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings out-skated, out-bumped and out-hustled Oshawa Generals for a 7-2 win Wednesday night to open the Memorial Cup finals — and immediately shattered the image of the West being easy pickings.

"This is the biggest game Edmonton's ever won," said Bill Hunter, the Oil Kings' manager. A western team hasn't been able to win a cup final in the East in 17 years. The Oil Kings have been in it in the last six years, and in that time won it only once — at home in 1963.

"They're either the best out of the West in a long time, or we're the worst in the East in a long time," said Wren Blair, Oshawa manager. The Oil Kings turned out to be "one big surprise."

The teams go at it again Friday night in the second game of the best-of-seven series to determine the 1966 Canadian junior hockey champion.

All games of the series are being played at Maple Leaf Gardens as Oshawa's home arena is occupied with previously-booked attractions.

Only 4,510 fans turned out to see Edmonton outshoot the Generals 52-20 and puncture the Oshawa defence with ease despite a sparkling performance from Oshawa's defenceman Bobby Orr.

Orr fired more than half the Oshawa shots at Edmonton goalie Don McLeod, and got them off to a 1-0 lead early in the first period, scoring a blueline slap shot.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

FIGHT BACK WITH ORTHO!

By Monday morning, WEED-B-GON can kill your lawn weeds—roots and all!

That's right. Between now and Monday, your lawn weeds can be killed. Without hard work. Without even bending over. The miracle-worker is ORTHO WEED-B-GON.

This hormone compound forces weeds to grow. Within 48 hours, weeds actually grow themselves to death, roots and all . . . without affecting your grass. Used as directed, WEED-B-GON is safe and as easy as watering. Inexpensive, too. For $1.89, you can treat a full 5,000 square feet of lawn.

For hard-to-kill, problem weeds such as buttercup, black medick, ground-ivy, chickweed and others, a new SUPER WEED-B-GON formulation is available.

PRESCRIBING PILLS FOR TEEN-AGERS

Contributing to Delinquency?

A Vancouver doctor said here Wednesday he would not prescribe a birth control pill for a girl without the written consent of her parents.

"But I would have no hesitation in prescribing the pill for an adult career woman," Dr. J. J. Zack told a conference of B.C. general practitioners and their wives at the Empress Hotel.

Dr. John Lederman, a former lawyer, warned of entanglement with the law in prescribing conception control for under-age girls.

"It is possible that, acting in a medical capacity, we may be contributing to juvenile delinquency," he said.

"This is one of the those hazardous areas of the law that the advance of medicine has produced."

Dr. Lederman said not even the consent of a parent would exonerate a doctor, and there had never been a test case.

"The stigma attached to unwed mothers is disappearing," said Dr. Robert Rutherford of the University of Washington school of medicine.

He said this was revealed by a survey of unwed mothers in a Washington institution.

"This concept of shame is pretty well gone," Dr. Rutherford declared.

Contributing to a panel on frigidity, Dr. Rutherford of the University of Washington said professional counselling can eliminate sexual frigidity in women 90 per cent of the time.

About 150 doctors and their wives from B.C., Alberta and Washington attended the three-day conference, which closed Wednesday evening.

Rebels Threaten Mao's Survival

By RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP)—China's army newspaper reported Wednesday that there is a rebellious group in the Chinese Communist party and the survival of Mao Tse-tung's ideology is at stake. It seemed to hint that influential elements seek a reconciliation with the Soviet Communists.

The editorial in Liberation Army Daily, broadcast from Peking, was the latest of recent statements indicating concern in the Peking Politburo about trends among intellectuals and some sections of the armed forces.

'ANTI-PARTY PERSONS'

The editorial said there are in the party certain "anti-party" persons who wear "a veil of Marxism-Leninism and Mao Tse-tung's teachings."

"The activities of these anti-party, anti - socialist elements are not an accidental phenomenon," it said. "They are responding to the great international anti-Chinese chorus of the imperialists, modern revisionists and various reactionaries to revive the Chinese reactionary class which has been struck down."

This seemed an indirect way of saying that pro-Soviet elements should be rooted out. By "imperialists and modern revisionists," the Chinese Communists mean the Americans and the current Soviet leadership. Peking has been accusing the Kremlin of plotting with the United States against China.

RESTRAINED

The presence of pro-Soviet elements in China, possibly in influential places, conceivably might explain why the Soviet leaders have seemed restrained in dealing with cascades of anti-Kremlin vituperation from Peking. The Kremlin has replied only with appeals for world Communist unity.

Analysts have suggested that any significant change in leadership or policies in China might clear the way for mending relations with the Soviet party. That could mean much economically and perhaps in modernizing China's armed forces.

The chief target of the editorial is the intellectual class, but it made clear that others are involved, those "linked with the anti-party activities of right-wing opportunists within the party."

Editorials in the official Peking People's Daily have warned against anti-party elements but have said that despite ups and downs Peking communism would win out.

S.A. Lawyer Convicted

PRETORIA (Reuters)—Abraham Fischer, a former top Johannesburg lawyer, has been found guilty of conspiring to commit sabotage and furthering the aims of the outlawed South African Communist party, of which he was acting chairman.

NOMINATED to represent the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is journalist Douglas Fisher. He will serve on a conciliation board to deal with a contract dispute between the union and CNR.

MILLIONS ON MARCH

There are 2,650,000 men in the United States armed forces.

HASSLE OVER DOCUMENTS

Waits Two Years For New Trial

TORONTO (CP)—A man who has been held in jail for almost two years awaiting trial had his case adjourned after his lawyer refused to enter a plea Wednesday in county court.

Robert Arnold Baker, 21, is charged with robbing eight elderly men after hitting them on the head with garden posts. He was sentenced to 15 years in prison after being found guilty of the charges in July, 1964.

The sentence was squashed by an Ontario Supreme Court decision in August, 1964, providing for a new trial.

Baker's lawyer, Anthony C. Bazos, said that ever since winning a new trial for his client he has been thwarted in attempts to obtain documents on Baker held by the Ontario department of reform institutions.

Mr. Bazos had subpoenaed Allan Grossman, minister of reform institutions, to come to court Wednesday to tell why his department refused to release the documents on Baker.

WILLING TO COME

Mr. Grossman did not appear, but the department's counsel, Robin Scott, said the minister would come to court if the judge wanted him to.

Mr. Scott said he was prepared to put all the department's documents on Baker, extending over the last 10 years, into the judge's hands so that the judge could decide what records are relevant.

Mr. Bazos said that until he has all the government documents on Baker he cannot enter a plea.

'PROGRESS PROTEST'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) —Dr. Martin Luther King Wednesday termed Mrs. Lurleen Wallace's landslide victory in the Democratic primary race for governor "a protest vote against the tide of inevitable progress."

"It seems obvious that white Alabamians were desperately grasping for a way to return to the old days of white supermacy," King said at a news conference here.

Queen Mum Dodged Bennett's Invitation

LONDON (UPI) — The Queen Mother Elizabeth flew home to bleak weather today at the end of a seven-week visit to Australia, New Zealand and Fiji.

A crowd of about 150 blew on their hands and marched around to keep warm while waiting for her Qantas jet "City of Adelaide" to land.

Princess Margaret went aboard the airliner to welcome her mother home privately before she came down to meet the official reception party.

The Queen Mother was all smiles, despite the chilly weather and the fact she had to clutch her flowered hat.

She spent nearly 10 minutes saying goodbye to the airliner crew and hello to the welcoming party.

Three Corgi dogs leaped from her car to greet her as she walked to it with Princess Margaret to drive to Clarence House, her London home.

On the return journey, the Queen Mother stopped briefly in Vancouver and Ottawa.

About 350 persons were at Vancouver Airport to see her take off for Ottawa.

Premier Bennett invited her to return next year for the opening of the B.C. centennial museum. She said she would like to but did not commit herself. She laid the cornerstone of the museum during a visit to Victoria on her way to Australia.

REFUSED a visa to Red China was Liberal party leader Jo Gimond who had planned to leave Friday on a month-long trip. He said he received a message from the Chinese embassy saying the time he had picked for his visit was "inopportune."

'SHEEP, HACKS'

Lawyer Blasts Police Chiefs, Judges, Juries

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer has charged juries are apathetic sheep and some judges are political hacks.

C. R. MacLean said the jury system is dying out because people no longer believe it is a noble and solemn duty to serve.

Mr. MacLean, a member of the Vancouver Bar Association's justice committee, made the comments in a speech Tuesday on The Presumption of Guilt at a Young Men's Christian Association program meeting.

In a question-and-answer period later, he severely criticized Victoria Police Chief Jack Gregory and Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth, who have called for wider powers for police.

"Juries nowadays are apathetic sheep," Mr. MacLean said.

"They look at the judge like he had come down from Mount Sinai with 12 tablets in his hands."

He said judges in many cases are nothing more than political hacks who make errors which can give a jury wrong direction.

SHOCKED

Mr. MacLean said he was shocked by the attitudes of Chief Gregory and Chief Booth in declaring police should have wider powers and the magistrate and judge "almost automatically presume he is telling the truth and the accused is lying," the lawyer said.

"These policemen are being led by men like Booth and Gregory who should be in the front line fighting for civil liberties instead of fighting against these things."

Mr. MacLean urged the public to fight summonses for minor offences.

"You will be doing a public service if you go to court and make them prove the charge, even if it's only a traffic ticket.

"This might force the police to exercise more descretion than they do."

COURT RULING

Indians Lose Hunting Rights

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba Court of Appeal has ruled Indians in the province lost their right to hunt migratory birds out of season with introduction of the Migratory Birds Convention Act.

In a recent 3-1 judgment, the court upheld the conviction of six Indian reserve residents charged with violating the Migratory Birds Convention Act, an international treaty binding on both the United States and Canada.

In a disenting opinion, Mr. Justice Samuel Freedman said the British North America Act explicitly states that the Manitoba Natural Resources Act should have the force of law notwithstanding any other act of parliament.

The Natural Resources Act permits Indians to hunt birds for food at any time.

Mr. Justice Freedman said any remedy to the conflict in legislation should come from Parliament.

WIPED OUT

In stating the court's majority opinion, Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin accepted Mr. Justice Freedman's outline of the conflict in legislation, but said the rights of Manitoba Indians to hunt during all seasons had been wiped out by the Migratory Birds Convention Act.

Mr. Justice Monnin said preservation of some Indian rights was only a side issue of the Natural Resources Act. The main purpose was to transfer natural resources from the federal to the provincial government.

Moreover, he said, when the Natural Resources Act was passed, hunting for food could have been the difference between life and death for the Indian and his family. This no longer is true. Scores of social security measures now are available to all Canadian citizens and others to Indians only.

The Indians were fined $10 each for possession of migratory birds out of season.

250 Elms Inoculated With Serum

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—An experiment was begun here Wednesday to save North America's elm trees from extinction.

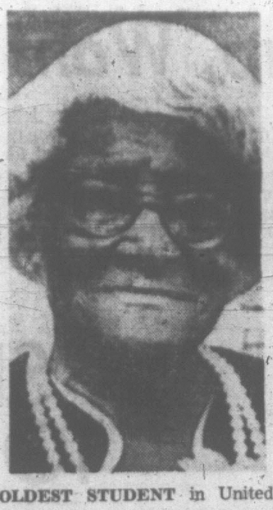
Harry O. Brumpton, Windsor's commissioner of parks, said that if the injection of the antibiotic works, "Windsor is on the map; if it doesn't, it's just an experiment or a noble effort."

Some 250 elm trees in local parks were inoculated with an anti-fungal serum to counter the ravaging Dutch elm disease.

The antibiotic, from a streptomyces species isolated from soil in India, will counter the action of elm bark beetles which spread the fungus disease.

The experiment, conducted by the city department, the University of Windsor and Sherman Laboratories, is expected to show its results in two months.

Dr. Henry R. Kreider, director of research for the laboratory group, learned of the antibiotic in India last August where it is used against black spot on roses and tomato blight.



OLDEST STUDENT in United States is Mrs. Mary Walker, who will be 117 "sometime this spring." It was only two years ago that she joined a Chattanooga, Tenn., literacy class and learned to read. She was born a slave in Bullock County, Ala., in 1849. On Friday she will have a city-wide birthday party and be officially certified as the oldest student in U.S.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Girl Involved In Controversy Returns to B.C.

TORONTO (CP) —The Telegram says the girl a CBC camera crew photographed in bed with two boys has returned to her home in Kamloops, B.C., "but because of the excitement and stress of the past few days she is recuperating in hospital."

The Globe and Mail says the 17-year-old girl has gone into hiding and quotes her mother in Kamloops as saying:

"I haven't spoken to her for several days, but wherever she is she's protected."

Leave Unusual Things For Scientists—Lovell

JODRELL BANK, England (UPI) — Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank radio astronomy station, entered the current discussion of flying saucers with a criticism of the amount of newspaper space given the unidentified flying obpects (UFOS).

Sir Bernard, who has just returned from a visit to the United States said, "to my amazement, the subject of flying saucers and unidentified flying objects is competing in space in newspapers almost with Viet Nam.

"It is an absurd situation that this fallacy, this form of escapism should be in conflict with such realities (as Viet Nam) and real science," he said.

"It is all due to the fact that some people are not educated. Science is so powerful and yet few people can understand it. When people see unusual things in the sky they don't realize that scientists spend al ltheir time investigating unusual objects for which they don't say it is due to visitors from outer space or a supernatural object."

Lovell made the remarks at the opening of a concourse building here where the public can see an exhibition of how the station works and also view the giant radio telescope.

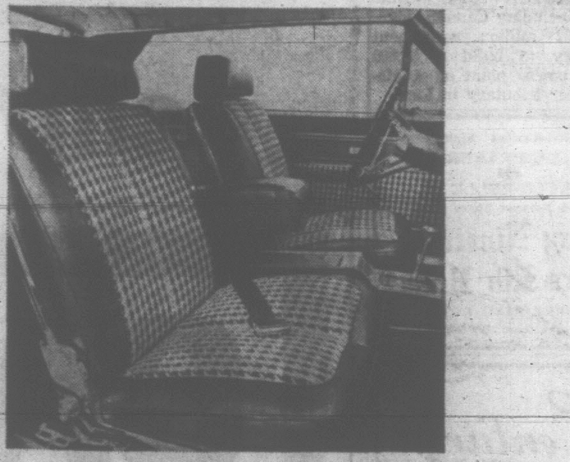
ADVANCED SEATING NOW FROM AMERICAN MOTORS!



You spend a lot of time sitting in the car you drive. Why sit on seats that aren't comfortable? At American Motors, we don't build seats to fit our car . . . we tailor them to fit the people who ride in them. We offer you the widest range of seating options and extras in the industry . . . for comfort and safety . . . your comfort and your safety. Standard and reclining seats, benches and buckets, armrests, consoles and headrests are all available. And to make sure of your total comfort, fine-furniture coil springs go into all our seats in all our models. Advanced seating options and combinations are more examples of years-ahead features American Motors gives you today.

Engineering features that lead the field. Quality that's built into every square inch. That's what American Motors gives you today. See for yourself:

Single Unit Construction. Body and frame on all American Motors cars are welded together into one, single, solid unit for tremendous strength and safety. Result: a stronger, safer, longer-lasting car—a car free from rattles.

Double Safety Brakes. Not just one braking system, but two. If one set ever fails, the other stops you safely. (Double Safety Brakes have been an exclusive feature, at no extra cost, on all our models since 1962. Some other manufacturers have now announced that they will adopt this feature—but not until their 1967 models.)

World's best rustproofing. All our cars get a "bath." They're deep-dipped up to their rooflines in rustproofing compound six separate times. Then they're dipped again in primer and given a separate spray coat of primer. Then come three gleaming coats of Lustre-Gard super enamel. You get a beautiful finish and long-lasting protection from the ravages of rust.

Most powerful standard engines in their classes. Swift, smooth, seven-main-bearing sixes. Powerful, virile V8's. Take your choice.

Widest range of seating options in the industry. Luxurious reclining seats (buckets, if you want). Armrests and adjustable headrests. And fine-furniture coil springs in all our seats in all our models. (Only one other North American car offers this—and it's in the luxury class).

Fibreglass roofliners and double door seals. A far cry from flimsy fabric roofliners and single door seals. Noise stays out. Drafts, winds, chills can't get in.

Attention to detail. American Motors offers the durability of plastic kick panels, all-metal rear-deck shelves, even ashtrays that roll out on ball bearings. Small details, yes—but they add up to overall quality.

Beautiful luxury fittings. A big, big selection! All the power equipment and features you want. And floor consoles. Thick-cut pile carpeting. Wire wheel discs. Walnut interior paneling. Houndstooth Check fabric. New vinyl patterns. Exciting styling in top-of-the-line Ambassador DPL, Rambler Rogue and Rambler Rebel.

New car quality. We believe that quality is what you build in—not what you add on. We build quality into all our cars from the beginning. We take the time. We take the trouble. We always have. We always will.

Used car quality. The exclusive quality and features that we build into our full line of cars mean that an American Motors used car is a better value and a better buy.

'Cry' Effectively Dramatized On Small, Bare Cathedral Stage

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A company of five actors, on a small bare stage at Christ Church Cathedral, Wednesday night, presented with considerable impact, the dramatized substance of Alan Paton's novel, Cry, the Beloved Country.

The style and techniques of The Bishop's Company (home-based at Burbank, Calif.) are of the utmost simplicity. All non-essentials are pared away.

The story is of Kumalo, the native village priest who comes to Johannesburg in search of his sister and his son, and finds them sunk into lives of degredation and crime in the discriminatory white society.

It has been faithfully adapted with a strong feeling for the poetry of the original, by an unrevealed author.

The theme is apartheid, but the cry is far more universal for it is the age-old cry of man's inhumanity to man.

Multiple roles played by four of the company, elimination of all but a little aging make-up and minimal costume changes, did not hamper character identification, which in itself is a salute to the ability of the actors.

Problem of audibility in the large, resonant cathedral was generally dealt with successfully.

The production did suffer a little at the outset from the conscious slowing down and care with diction.

The result was a too-measured, monotonous pace that produced a stilted effect. Most of the audience would forgive this in gratitude for the audibility however.

As the play moved along, Tom Mills gathered strength in the role of Kumalo, his sincerity shone through and provided a moving performance.

Carolyn Doyle, playing five roles, was convincing in each, a fine actress whose poignancy as the son's pregnant sweetheart was as effective as her gaiety in the role of the white man's grandchild.

A deeply moving performance as Absolom, the son, was given by Rhon Logan.

New School Cost Will Be Lower Than Estimated

The cost of a new junior-senior high school to be built on the east side of Borden near Reynolds will be less than estimated.

School trustees awarded the construction contract to Farmer Construction Ltd. Wednesday for $908,973. The cost had been estimated at $918,720.

The new school going up on the 12-acre site will handle about 500 students and will be open in the fall of 1967, R. H. Smith, buildings and grounds superintendent, said today. It will have 17 classrooms, a gymnasium and administrative offices.

Other companies tendering for the contract and their bids: E. J. Hunter and Sons Ltd., $990,916; Burns and Dutton Ltd., $977,500; Bird Construction Ltd., $956,936, and G. H. Wheaton, $953,721.

Hydro Plant for Laos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nine nations, including Canada, signed a $22 million agreement Wednesday to build a 30,000 kilowatt power plant on a Mekong River tributary in Laos.

Concert Postponed

A charity concert to be held Sunday at the Pink Panther nightclub, 1037 View, has been postponed for a week.

It will now be held May 15 at 8 p.m. at the same place.

Sponsored by the Victoria Table Tennis Club, the concert will feature the Dave Pepper Octet and trumpeter Bobby Herriot.

An admission fee will be charged, but patrons may specify the charity they wish to help.

'I Say Old Chap, Want a Dirty Book?'

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Imagine Frenchmen buying naughty books in Britain and sneaking them into Paris through the French customs.

Mais, oui, it could happen.

For years it's been happening the other way around. Englishmen bought pornographic books in Paris and slipped them past the British customs.

Many of those books were published by the Olympia Press, headed by Maurice Girodias, 47, who has been quoted as saying:

"I am a pornographer. I accept the title with joy and pride."

Girodias, who published other books for their literary merit, has moved his base to London. He has made an arrangement with a British company, the New English Library, to print some of the books he used to publish in Paris as well as new ones that he says will be "completely clean."

GUEST IS UPSET

He told a literary luncheon in his honor Wednesday that Paris has become sterile and that London has assumed the old virility of the French capital.

At least one of the guests got upset.

"I didn't know what this lunch was about," said Lady Jones 61, wife of Attorney-General Sir Elwyn Jones. "I would have walked out if I hadn't been invited my old friend, Christina Foyle."

Miss Foyle runs one of the world's biggest bookshops in London.

Lady Jones told Girodias:

"You are making lolly (money) out of pornography. Our children are crying out for good textbooks. Why don't you provide something like that? I approve of freedom of speech but I don't approve of licence."

She told reporters:

"I think it's wrong that this man should make money out of pornography in order to publish a few good books."

Olympia Press was the victim of President de Gaulle's censorship of the French publishing industry. Olympia was forbidden to publish for three years and Girodias was sentenced to six years in prison. He finally spent two days in jail.

Seven Days Personnel Separate Corporation

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker said Wednesday the personnel of the program This Hour Has Seven Days has set itself up as an almost separate corporation within the CBC.

This is "the root evil" of the dispute between management and producers, he told the Commons Broadcasting Committee.

Seven Days was an excellent public affairs program, but its producers caused "distressing problems" for the CBC and constantly challenged the policies and directives of the management.

'TRIVIA'

Mr. Walker, manager of English network programming, said he wants to eliminate "trivia sleaziness and prurient items" from Seven Days.

But he was so busy planning the CBC's color and centennial programs that he wondered how he found the time to go to the washroom.

He hoped Seven Days would continue as a "probing and aggressive program" next season. But management wanted to cut out "over-sexy items, sensational bits and satire that is done poorly."

DECISION FINAL

Mr. Walker said the decision to replace Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as the program's hosts is final.

Prime Minister Pearson announced Sunday that Stuart Keate, on leave of absence from his post as publisher of the Vancouver Sun, would make an independent and comprehensive review of the Seven Days dispute. State Secretary Judy LaMarsh told the Commons Monday this review will include the reinstatement of the two hosts if Mr. Keate so decides.

Parade to Highlight Belmont Festivities

Belmont park will shape up for summer at annual May Day festivities May 21 when everything from popcorn and pony rides to maypole dancing and a dunking machine will be featured.

Highlight of the May Day celebrations will be the parade, starting at 1:30 p.m. at Our Lady Star of the Sea Church and proceeding through the park to John Stubbs School, where remaining celebrations will take place.

In the parade will be May Queen Bonnie Lambert, her two princesses Laura Fitzsimonds and Wendy Little, who will be crowned in ceremonies at the school.

Also participating in the event will be the Thunderbirds girls drum corps, Glenettes drill team, members of the Victoria Motorcycle Club, bands of Esquimalt Jr. Secondary School and Rainbow Sea Cadets, and Belmont Park Girl Guides.

Five Grounds In Italian Divorce Bill

ROME (Reuters)—The Italian Parliament's justice commission today began discussion of a controversial private Socialist member's bill which would authorize divorce in Italy for the first time.

Sympathies in the coalition government were split with the Christian Democrats opposing the bill, and their secular allies—Socialists, Social Democrats and Republicans—generally favoring it.

Loris Fortuna's proposals are not a blanket authorization of divorce, but make proceedings possible under five sets of grounds:

1. Desertion of five years or more.

2. Five years or more spent in a mental hospital.

3. When one of the two parties is a foreigner and already has obtained divorce or annulment abroad.

4. Life imprisonment or a sentence of at least five years' imprisonment for sex, vice or moral crimes.

5. When a party would have been sentenced as in condition four, but was not through insanity or unfitness to plead.

'The Whole Story' of Sex Put on Tape

URMSTON, England (AP)—A 40-minute tape recording of sex instruction — written by the mother of two children—will go on sale in this Lancashire town.

The mother, Mrs. Frances Hancock, whose children are aged 7 and 15, had the backing of the local health and education departments for the tape. She was assisted by five amateur actors, including a high school boy and girl.

"We wanted a human approach to sex so parents and young children could sit down together and listen to the tape at home," Mrs. Hancock said.

"It tells the whole story from how a baby is born to kissing, petting, and contraception, but we think in a far more realistic way than by making a child sit in a corner with a book."

The tape will cost 25 shillings $3.75).

Loophole Found In Bill 42

Trade unions in B.C. have found a legal loophole in Bill 42, the provincial law that sought to stop union dues being used for political purposes.

And an indication was given Wednesday night that organized labor in the province may press attempts to funnel money into political action.

Vancouver labor lawyer Tom Berger said in a legal opinion that the B.C. Federation of Labour, local labor councils and other associations of trade unions are not unions within the meaning of the Labour Relations Act.

He also said that while union membership dues cannot be used for political purposes, they are considered "ordinary income" once they pass to labor councils or the federation in the form of per capita or other payments.

'DOOR WIDE OPEN'

His views were supported by David Lewis, noted Toronto labor lawyer and New Democratic Party MP.

The written opinions were given to the Victoria Labour Council by its legislative committee.

One delegate said this leaves "the door wide open as far as supplementary moneys to the NDP are concerned."

The president of the B.C. Federation of Labour, E. T. Staley of Victoria, told the meeting:

"As a result of these opinions, I think there will be recommendations to the next federation convention and possibly a new form of organizational effort made. We have not gone into all the details yet."

NOVEMBER DECISION

That was as far as he wanted to commit himself. The next convention of the federation is not until November.

Bill 42 was passed by the B.C. legislature in 1961 at the time of the formation of the New Democratic Party from the old CCF and the Canadian Labour Congress.

At that time, NDP Leader T. C. Douglas called the law "worse than political — it's class legislation directed at the working people."

LABOUR ACT

The bill, which only applies to unions, is incorporated as part of Section 9 of the Labour Relations Act.

The pertinent clause states that no union or person acting for a union shall "contribute to or expend on behalf of any political party, or to or on behalf of any candidate for political office, any moneys deducted from an employee's wages."

Unions must deliver an assignment to employers that the union is complying and will comply with the act. Otherwise, neither the union nor employer "shall make any deduction whatsoever from the wages of an employee on behalf of the trade union."

Court action by one union in a test case saw the validity of the legislation upheld.

CLERK TESTS CAR LIGHTS

The Victoria Labour Council Wednesday night supported the Amalgamated Transit Union in a bid to ensure competent mechanics are employed when compulsory car testing stations are introduced.

The move followed comments by two transit union delegates of the voluntary test stations in use for some time.

One delegate said a union member found a grocery clerk testing lights and a bodyman doing front - end work.

Two Fires Suspicious

MONTREAL (CP) — A National Harbors Board spokesman said Wednesday the board is "concerned" at the similarity between two major fires that struck the waterfront area within three days. One fire heavily damaged Sheds 44 and 45 Sunday night and another badly damaged Shed 19 Tuesday night.

GET ON VOTERS LIST, LABOR MEMBERS URGED

Trade union members were urged Wednesday night to make sure they are on the provincial voters' list.

Two delegates emphasized to the Victoria Labour Council that voter registration is voluntary.

This resulted, said one of them, in 25 per cent of the members of one building trade union finding themselves off the voters' list at the last election.

They thought they were on the list because their names were on municipal and federal roles, which are separate.

John Schibli, chairman of the political education committee, said New Democratic Party MLAs could be elected on southern Vancouver Island through proper registration.

"And we should not lose any time about it," he added.

E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labour, said workers on the move should try to get registered in the area they will be working in when an election is called.

Group Is 'Type of Parasite' City Labor Council Told

Proponents of so-called "right-to-work" laws were attacked at the Victoria Labour Council Wednesday night.

Council secretary Harry Anderson said such laws should be called "right to starve."

He and E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labour, criticized a group that sought abolition of the union shop at a meeting with the cabinet last Monday.

Under union shop arrangements, workers must belong to trade unions.

The group is called the Committee for Justice and Liberty Foundation and one of its spokesmen is an official of the Christian Labour Association of Canada.

Members of the labor association call union shops undemocratic and consider trade unions to be Marxist and materialistic.

Mr. Staley said it is "a very small group of people" and that the larger religions work with trade unions through the religion-labor councils.

"It seems to me that this group wants to be a type of parasite that receives the benefits without having to pay for them," he said.

"It is amazing a Christain group takes such an un-Christian attitude."

Council president Robert Barrie said the Christian Labour Association of Canada is very small. It has only two certifications in B.C., at Smithers and Prince George.

Mr. Staley, who said he has spoken to members of the group, said they are confined to their religious faith.

Delegates supported a recommendation from the labor council executive that the B.C. Federation of Labour take up the matter "and make a suitable rebuttal."

IT'S PRETTY HIGH ALREADY, SAY MERCHANTS

Extra Garbage Service Comes High

Victoria can have twice a week garbage collection — but the price will be high.

Ald. Clyde Savage has suggested that the city is now big enough and in need of twice-a-week collections and the Inter-municipal Committee will place the entire problem of garbage collection and disposal high on the agenda for their May 17 meeting.

Victoria city engineer James Garnett says there would be no problems to commencing twice-a-week garbage collections — if the city could find at least $382,000 to finance the operation.

Present garbage collections cost the city $262,500 a year in wages plus $24,000 for truck operations and rentals.

To this is added $25,000 for the operation of the garbage wharf, $1,500 for the maintenance of the wharf, $6,000 for garbage can manufacture, $3,100 for controlled dumps and $55,000 for the garbage disposal contract.

GARBAGE WHARF

"Some of these items, such as the garbage wharf and its maintenance, would remain unchanged if we went to twice-a-week collections," said Mr. Garnett. "But others such as collections double. If you are doing twice the work you need double crews."

In addition to the doubling of the wage bill Mr. Garnett pointed out that eight new garbage trucks, running around $5,000 each, would be required to handle the increased volume.

"We could do it, but it would cost a lot of money," he said, noting that if Ald. Savage's suggestion that in addition to collecting twice a week all waste was collected, the cost would go even higher.

Mr Garnett stressed that the collecting of garbage was not just an expenditure to the city.

CITY TREASURY

"This year we expect to bring $79,500 in revenue into the city treasury," he said. Included in the $79,000 is $6,500 from the sale of garbage cans at $11 each.

Bulk of the revenue comes from hotels and apartments which under city bylaws are restricted to one garbage can each and levied an extra 35 cents a can for all in excess of the limit.

TOUCHY ISSUE

The matter of one garbage can per apartment building, however many units the apartment may contain, is a touchy one in the downtown area.

"But it is what the bylaw states," said Mr. Garnett. "The law makers decided that an apartment house was a commercial enterprise and should be treated as such."

In contrast, the home owner in Victoria can have as many garbage cans as he wishes and, providing they are all full, have them emptied weekly at no extra cost.

"It is felt that the taxpayer pays for his garbage collection in his annual tax bill," is the way Mr. Garnett explains the difference.

Major hotels in the city are also allowed only one garbage can by city bylaw.

CONTRACT BASIS

"Many of them, and quite a few restaurants, have daily collection but on a contract basis," said Mr. Garnett. "The one can is collected at no extra cost, the rest are charged for according to volume."

When making his suggestion that twice-a-week collections be considered, Ald. Savage said he had recently returned from Hawaii where two collections a week were routine.

"In Hawaii collections would have to be made twice a week," said Mr. Garnett. "The climate there would make it essential.

"It may sound a little silly but garbage collections are governed by the breeding habits of the common fly. Here we are quite safe collecting once a week and could go even 10 days. In Hawaii the situation is very different.

"But," he stressed again, "there is no reason why garbage couldn't be collected twice a week in Victoria if the people want to pay the extra cost."

Teller Remanded On Theft Charge

A teller charged with stealing $8,448.11 from Canada Permanent Mortgage Corporation, 1125 Douglas, was remanded a second time in magistrate's court Tuesday to next Monday.

Arthur Mayse

The embattled gentlemen at Ottawa may not have noticed, but in spite of the uproar in Commons, Canada does seem to be limping along in reasonably good order.

What we've been getting these many months is government-by-deputy, and since the career civil servant is competent and usually honest, we could do — and have done — very much worse.

This raises some interesting questions, one of which concerns the large sums we pony up each year through taxes to fee 265 representatives whose chief present contribution to the public weal seems to be in the field of entertainment.

I'll admit it's a pretty good circus, with its Conservative scandal in this ring, Liberal in that, and centre, the duel of the gladiators. However, that's not what we sent these people to Parliament for and I think it's high time our lawmakers buckled down to the business for which they draw their pay.

In fairness, I suggest that a great many members and most ministers are unhappy over Parliament's present shoddy role. But until Prime Minister Pearson becomes true master of his House and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker ceases to indulge his personal vendetta, we can expect no change for the better.

★

It is early to estimate just how much damage these scandal-ridden months have done to the concept of central government.

I think we are less unified now than we were not much over a year ago, when our new maple leaf flag first took the breeze. Even those of us who accepted the change reluctantly were able to salve the wrench to our emotions with the knowledge that Mr. Pearson's government had acted firmly and decisively in a matter of national importance.

That day seems distant, pushed into the past less by time than by a miserably inconclusive election and a further sequence of disappointments. It is now obvious to anyone with an ear to listen, that the federal authority has suffered a grave and weakening loss of respect.

Even the rowdiest provincial legislature stands as a model of parliamentary propriety when contrasted with the federal House.

It is much easier, and far less bewildering, to be simply a British Columbian, or a Manitoban, or a Newfoundlander. We are Canadians too, of course; but perhaps less fervently than when the flags and the government that decreed it was new.

When the last scandal is aired, and Commons turns its hand to worthier pursuits, there will be fences to mend in the provinces. And it will take more than the extravaganzas of Expo 67 to make good the harm of recent months.

★

It is easy to brand John Diefenbaker the villain of the piece, and certainly his unbridled hatred of his Liberal adversary has quite over-ruled the opposition leader's judgment. In his attacks, he has been violent, reckless and irresponsible.

But where lies the fault? With the punch-drunk old politico, or with the Conservative party which, at its last convention, persisted in retaining him as its leader?

I am sick of this blind partyism which seeks only to destroy, and chooses a leader solely for his qualities as a battering-ram.

Mr. Pearson is not a statesman. We have had precious few of those in our national history. I'm not sure he is even a very good politician; if he were, he might have evaded the morass into which certain of his ministers have led him.

When these years can be seen in perspective, it is possible that the best to be said of him will be that he tried harder than most to make Confederation work.

Still, I suspect he will be remembered more kindly than the men who are robbing him of his chance.

'STRICTLY FOR KITCHEN ARTISTS'

Weirdos in Hat Hit Parade

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A hat made out of a pie plate!

A hat made out of a sink strainer!

A hat made out of a toilet seat cover!

These were among the weird and wonderful creations presented to an audience of 350 in the Silver Threads Centre Wednesday afternoon.

It was a spoof fashion parade dreamed up by nine ingenious members of the Silver Threads organization and the audience responded to it with gales of laughter.

The show, organized by Mrs. John Vellacott, was a variation on the Wednesday concert which packs the Silver Threads concert hall every week.

"Here are the hats of tomorrow," said Mrs. Vellacott, "hats without which no wardrobe is complete."

SEAT COVER

Mrs. Eva Keating wore the pie-plate hat, adorned with a balloon. Mrs. A. V. Kerridge paraded the sink strainer hat. Mrs. F. Craig produced the hat made out of a toilet seat cover. Mrs. C. Shawcross wore a bath-spray hat.

Next came Mrs. E. Touching with a chore-boy hat, made out of a dishcloth.

"Especially suitable for kitchen artists," said commentator Mrs. Vellacott.

Mrs. Ethel Keating paraded the tea cosy hat, complete with feather and a sprig of posies. Mrs. F. Boyce presented the hot-water-bottle hat, adorned with a ribbon.

RAISED THE ROOF

Mrs. John Bull offered the soup-strainer hat and Mrs. Joe Wynan raised the roof with her chamber-pot hat.

Local Places to Hide Hunted by Students

About 30 University of Victoria students will set to work 10 days from now in a government survey of buildings in Greater Victoria which could serve as fallout shelters in the event of nuclear war.

The students will be supervised by federal engineers and will work in teams of two to record how solid and how big structures are, the availability of water in them and the degree of ventilation.

All residences, whether single family dwellings, duplexes, or row houses will be excluded from the survey as well as apartment buildings with fewer than seven units.

The only other buildings, whether public or private which will not be noted are those owned or operated by the Department of National Defence or those with a floor area of less than 1,000 square feet.

The fallout protection survey is part of a long-term study announced by Ottawa early last year and is aimed at determining how much protected space in existing buildings throughout B.C. might be available to the public during an emergency.

CIVIL DEFENCE

The study is being carried out by the Department of Public Works on behalf of the Canada Emergency Measures Organization and with the active cooperation of the province's civil defence organization.

Designation of buildings as shelters or alterations to bring them to shelter standards will not be undertaken at this time.

The specially trained crews will record data on public buildings, schools, institutions, churches and suitable privately-owned buildings.

There will be no interference with occupants and a minimum of questions will be asked, said A. W. Walker, provincial executive head of the public works department.

The students will be at work throughout the summer and more may be hired later, J. H. Erb, provincial civil defence coordinator, said today.

He has recently returned from a visit to Olympia, Wash., where, he said, the American survival facilities program is well ahead of its Canadian counterpart.

WATER SUPPLIES

There are stores of water and "a sort of survival biscuit" now in the basement of the capital building there.

The aim of the U.S. program is eventually to provide shelter space for 100 per cent of the population. He estimated the Americans were about at the halfway point.

Mr. Erb said he imagines the Canadian program has the same ultimate objective.

One of the problems of organizing fallout shelters in dense urban areas is that they require two shelter concentrations, one when the workers are downtown during the day and the other when people go home to the suburbs at night.

SUSSEXVALE IN SPOTLIGHT

Marine figurehead of Nanaimo's Navy Day festivities this weekend will be Esquimalt-based, ocean-escort HMCS Sussexvale.

The ship, commanded by Lieut.-Commander F. W. Crickard, will arrive in Nanaimo Friday afternoon and will be open for organized tours Saturday morning and to the general public Sunday afternoon.

The ship's company will join a downtown parade Saturday afternoon. Two T-33 Silver Star jets and a tracker aircraft from the navy's anti-submarine base at Patricia Bay are slated to fly over the parade.

The Sussexvale will leave Nanaimo Sunday for exercises off the coast.

Tax Line Held By Esquimalt

Homeowner Grants Key to Reduction

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A record budget of $1,598,000, and featuring a cut in taxes for most ratepayers, was announced today for Esquimalt.

Esquimalt thus stays in line with Victoria and Saanich, who have also announced bigger budgets this year with slight tax reductions.

The mill rate for 1966 was struck at 49.7, an increase of 1.1 mills over last year's rate.

Overall effect of the $1,598,000 budget, however, will be "a slight decrease in taxes for the majority of taxpayers in Esquimalt," Reeve Ray Bryant said.

"Despite increasing costs, particularly in the area of inter-municipal cost sharing, and the 5 per cent total increase in wages and salaries, we have been able to satisfactorily do even better than hold the line."

SCHOOL TAXES

Reeve Bryant credited the tax reduction to an increase in the provincial homeowner grant and adjustment in the school mill rate.

Esquimalt's mill rate, "still the lowest in Greater Victoria" compares favorably with mill rates of 62.5 for the city and 51.6 and 54.5 for Saanich.

The slight tax cut marks the first time in many years all three municipalities have announced minor reductions in the tax field.

ASSESSMENTS

Taxes on Esquimalt homes valued up to $18,000 will decrease as a result of the mill rate "subject to any increase in assessment this year," said Reeve Bryant.

Taxes will increase, however on homes valued at about $20,000 and up, he said.

Tax cuts will be about $6.75 on a $7,500 house, $4.78 on a $12,000 house, and $2.15 on an $18,000 house, he said.

Fire and police costs, listed separately although services in the municipality are meshed, total $180,800, with the police department receiving $127,800 of this.

Five Youths Break Out Of Detention

Police are searching for five youths who escaped from the city's juvenile detention home at 1125 Pembroke Wednesday afternoon.

The five are aged 16 and 17 years.

One escaped barefoot but the other four were wearing shoes.

One car has been reported stolen since the youths escaped custody but police have not received any reports of missing shoes.

Curtis Eyes Summit Talk Over Sewers

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said today he will discuss further with Mayor Toone a denial from City Hall Wednesday that Victoria would participate in the cost of a $23,000,000 inter-municipal sewer system.

Acting mayor Geoffrey Edgelow said although the city had shared in the cost of the year-long study it had never committed itself to any sewer program.

"It was the acting mayor who made that statement," said Reeve Curtis, "and I want to discuss this further with the mayor.

"The sewage problem is not Saanich's alone."

Areas included in the sewer study were Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday the costs of the sewer system would be borne entirely by the municipalities but would be projected over the years to 1985.

Interior Choir To Sing Here

A choir of 120 voices and an 86-piece orchestra from Kelowna Senior Secondary School will be heard at a concert in Central Junior Secondary School at 8 p.m. Friday.

All the musicians are in Grades 10, 11 and 12. Their conductor is J. Gar McKinley, president of B.C. Music Educators' Association.

They have been consistent winners at Okanagan Valley music festivals and have produced a number of high school musical shows.

Ask The Times

Q. I noticed the Queen's Own Rifles were celebrating their 106th anniversary. Were they originally a British unit?

A. Regular forces were provided by England, but the QORs were originally formed as a militia unit—the Second Battalion, Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada.

Q. Which of the Victoria Maple Leafs are not married? L. K.

A. They are rookies Mike Corrigan, Dave Parenteau, winger Dick Lamoureux and spare goalie Garry Holland, according to a team spokesman.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Can't Tell Planners Without a Program

Ald. Clyde Savage confessed to a little confusion when confronted with a request that the city sponsor a luncheon for the Town Planning Institute of Canada in July.

"How many planning groups do we have?" he asked city finance committee today.

"We have city planners, regional planners, community planners and now town planners. Every time I open the newspaper I read of more planners. I'm getting a little confused trying to keep track of them."

Assured that the Institute was a reputable organization, Ald. Savage agreed that the Inter-municipal Committee should be asked to pick up the lunch tab.

The same committee will also be asked to sponsor a dinner for a group of travel agents due here in June.

The request for the travel group dinner came from Air Canada which each year plans a tour for travel specialists from Eastern Canada and the United States.

Finance committee agreed this morning to put up its annual silver medallion for the best marksman in the City of Victoria shooting match sponsored by the B.C. Rifle Association.

The match will be held in North Vancouver during the week of July 4-10.

BURGLARS RAID MAYOR'S HOME

Mayor Alfred Toone's home was one of three dwellings broken into Wednesday night.

The mayor, who lives at 1003 Moss, is vacationing in Europe.

Police said the home was entered through garage and basement doors.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and an envelope containg about $5 in silver was taken.

The home was entered several months ago when a thief broke in through a basement window. That time, little was stolen.

Four watches were taken from Horace Miller who is living aboard his boat Moby Dick at the Causeway floats.

WATCHES

Police said the thief entered through a forward hatch and took a wrist watch, stop watch and two pocket watches.

A thief walked into the home of Mrs. James Fisher of 841 Jasmine and asked her for money.

Police said she handed him a cash box containing $5 plus a portfolio which held a quantity of blank cheques.

The woman is a treasurer for a local bingo group, for whom she was holding the money.

Night Walker Ruled Loitering

A man who pleaded guilty in central court today to loitering by night was remanded in custody one week for sentence.

Court was told Dennis Dunbar was seen early today looking into a ground-level front window of a home occupied by Gary Powell of 612 Nelson.

He told police he was out for a walk and didn't sleep very much at night.

THREE ACCIDENT VICTIMS IMPROVE

Three persons critically injured in recent accidents continue to show improvement.

Frank Nelson, 18, who fell 65 feet from a power pylon last week is reported in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Also at St. Joseph's is Robert Hodge, 36, of 2525 Scott St. who is in fairly good condition after his van was in collision with a fire truck at a downtown intersection.

Gary Fenwick, 5, of 5165 Cordova Bay Rd. is in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital where he is recovering from skull, jaw and leg fractures sustained when he was in collision with a cement truck in front of his home.

B.C. Tel Profit Limit 'Cold Comfort'

An NDP spokesman today said the limit on B.C. Telephone company's profit rate is "cold comfort" to its customers.

Alex Macdonald also said he was amazed to find Attorney-General Robert Bonner hailing the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling to confirm the status quo. (See earlier story Page 3.)

"As a watchdog of the public interest, he is asleep on the job," said the Vancouver-East MLA.

He slammed the board's decision as "cold comfort for subscribers in this province.

"Although our rates are about double the prairie provinces, we are told they might be cut back a bit if profits rise even more.

"We've been dealt another joker from the same old deck."

He said the board's 6.6 per cent ceiling on profits "is misleading.

"Shareholders' return on capital invested is running at more than 12 per cent, apart from hidden profits to affiliated companies.

"The board turns a blind eye on identical prices quoted for telephone sets and parts by so-called competing companies, which are all part of the telephone cartel."

Mr. Macdonald delivered a major speech attacking the telephone companies operating in Canada at the last session as the NDP's chief expert on the subject.

He added this morning his party "will not be deflected by this decision.

"Public ownership of B.C. Tel, and immediate rate reductions, will be a major issue in the coming election."

WINNER of the final round in the Greater Victoria Optimist Clubs' annual public speaking contest is Gregory Clark, 11, of 1010 Moss. Finishing second in the competition at the Century Inn Wednesday was Daniel Laurence, 11, of 3113 Tillicum. Gregory will represent Victoria in the district championships at Boise, Ida., May 20, competing against boys from B.C., Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If You're 40 and Look 20, Why Become Disturbed?

Lowman

Some weeks ago I wrote a column quoting a reader who is disgusted because everyone thinks she is so much younger than she is. Actually she is married and has children. This situation annoys both her and her husband. As a result I have received many letters from others with this same problem. There are many different viewpoints. I thought you would be interested in reading some quotations from a few. Here they are.

"I seldom answer letters in columns or comment on them but your recent one from 'Lolita' stimulated this one. You see, I am a 42-year-old Lolita, but I've learned to enjoy it. My only problem is dating. I'm divorced, after 20 years of misery. Most of the men my age look old enough to be my father. In fact everyone thought one man I dated WAS my father.

"My daughter has presented me with two lovely grandchildren. When my daughter tells them to "Go to Grandma" in a store people gasp in astonishment. This is no exaggeration! People think my daughter and I are sisters. In school the other day the attendance officer thought I was one of the students. But looking young is God's blessing. Also, it's a good feeling when a teenage whistles at Grandma."

Another: "The letter you printed today was especially interesting to me because I have the same problem. I am 43 years old, 5 feet 3 and weigh 118 pounds. I have five sons ranging from 19 to 27 years old, and weighing from 185 to 220 pounds each. When I am with them I look like a midget and no one will believe I am their mother, much less, that I am a grandmother. The boys often say they wish I would get some gray hair.

"I live for my husband and sons. They help me in the house when I need it and I help them with the car when they need it. I fish and hunt with them. My neighbors often tell me that I should act my age, but what is wrong so long as everyone is happy and having a fine time?"

Another: "As for Dad, or the husband of the woman you quoted who looked too young, I think there is a little jealousy there. Deep down he is proud of her. It sounds like the young lady is really annoyed.

"She COULD upsweep her hair and wear high heels, and if that doesn't work, take an eyebrow pencil or some shadow and put bags under her eyes. Then what would Dad's reply be? She will most likely sit at home while Dad goes out with a blonde."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Penny Visits New Bar—Gets Urge to Paint

By Penny Saver

Wednesday, I visited a brand new bar at 9:30 a.m. and came away dying to paint my face with some of its "moisture"!

Before my readers jump to the conclusion that Penny has become a before-legal-hours alcoholic, I should explain that this was a beauty bar, set up in a downtown store by a well-known cosmetic manufacturer with the prime purpose of helping milady achieve the new "natural look" through the means of an exciting new line of products.

Head "barmaid" is Jean Cairns, a fair-haired Scot who began her career in cosmetics with the English branch of the company 15 years ago. She now works out of Toronto. With her are Donna Pendleton, Vancouver, and Anna Saponja, Calgary. The "bar" will be in operation until 5:30 p.m., Saturday, and if you've ever yearned to have that cover-girl look, you can't afford not to draw up a stool and imbibe a little know-how at its attractive counter.

The brand name of the new line means "Inseparable Twins" and emphasizes its ability to care for both the outer and inner layers of milady's complexion. The "natural look" is made easy to achieve through the increased fineness of texture.

Most of us long to be able to "put on our face" and, by doing so, down-point our problem areas and "make money" on our best features. The three attractive "bar maids" help you to do this, and, just in case your mind becomes a blank by the time you get home, there are free charts which help you with application of eye make-up, lipstick, color teaming and the successful camouflaging of under-eye shadows and other defects.

There's one treasure box of pressed powders that's well worth the $11.50 price tag. It comes with two natural bristled brushes, one made for the delicate area around the eyes and tiny highlights, the other being full and firm for all-over application. The five powder shades include blue and green for eyes, two skin tones for highlights and shadowing that does wonders for a too-full face, and a rouge tone. By the time you've seen Jean produce magic with this set, you'll be dashing home to try a little subtle painting of your own. In no time at all, you'll be creating with the ease of Picasso!

And, by the way, Jean passes a tip on for women who are plagued with a ruddy complexion. A light brushing with the green powder does wonders in toning down areas marred with tiny red veins.

For those who prefer cream, there's a similar set (except for the blue and green) that sells at $8.25.

Each item in this line is rich with moisture, bringing beauty that even we rain-pampered West Coasters can't afford to ignore. There's beauty cream that's priced at $4 and $11.50, moisturizer selling at $6.75, fluid make-up that's available at $5.75, compact pressed powder at $4.50 and a light-as-air finishing powder that's a "steal" at $5.75.

Are you interested in the location of this new bar? Phone Penny at 382-3131 for the address. You'll probably see her sitting on the next stool to yours when you visit!

Seen discussing arrangements for Monday's CGIT graduation service are, left to right, Miss Noreen Arnold, who will be valedictorian; Miss Linda Cole, who will give the scripture reading, and Miss Joan Youson, who will lead the service.

IN FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Graduation Service on Monday

Forty-eight Canadian Girls in Training will graduate in a colorful ceremony next Monday evening. Theme of the ceremony, to be held at 7:30 p.m. in First Baptist Church, will be "Aglow With the Spirit."

Rev. E. Laura Butler, chairman of the Victoria CGIT committee, will take part in the service and the speaker will be Rob Nelson, director of Christian education for First United Church.

Miss Joan Youson, president of the Victoria CGIT council, will lead the service and Miss Linda Cole will give the scripture reading. The valedictory address will be given by Miss Noreen Arnold.

Mrs. J. Fraser and Miss Elizabeth Hayes, co-sponsors of the Victoria council, will present the certificates.

The graduates are Noreen Arnold and Kathy Masterson, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church; Loris Sprinkling, Douglas Street Baptist; Judy Archibald and Penny Wallis, Emmanuel Baptist; Linda Carlson, Sharon Holland and Lynn Toffey, First Baptist; Linda Brotherston, Linda Burkholder, Pat McKenzie, Carolyn Potter, Ruth Ritz and Linda Wakelyn, St. Aidan's United; Lona Cook, Diane Gardner, Ann Gelling and Linda Gottfried, Belmont Avenue United.

Judith Ann Faryon, Cadboro Bay United; Linda Clegg, Lorna Dallin, Shirley Dunn, Trudy Jones, Marguerite Kerr, Ernell Lindstrom and Permelia Parham, Centennial United; Joan Youson, Fairfield United; Nancy Arnall, Ruth Goldsmith, Karen Green, Lee Hunt, and Joan Holliday, First United; Rosemary Brigden, Ganges United; Kathe Collis, Susan Gurton and Virginia McKee, Garden City United; Noella Ballerong, Kathy Bowerman, Barbara Buckley, Kathy Kinnear, Luanne Kuhnert and Bunny Smith, Gordon United.

Judy Longfield, Lake Cowichan; Elizabeth Townsend and Christine Lonsbury, Metropolitan United; Betty Benjamin, Linda Cole and Sue Weston, Oak Bay United.

Following the service of graduation, CGIT members and leaders of First Baptist Church will be hostesses at a reception in the church hall.

Tea at Brentwood

Brentwood Chapel Woman's Auxiliary will hold its annual Dogwood Tea this Saturday from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall. Guests will be welcomed by Mrs. W. N. Hitchin and Miss Esther Howard, presidents of the evening and afternoon branches respectively. The evening branch will be in charge of the tea tables. Stall conveners are: Home cooking, Mrs. A. Hutchinson; aprons and needlework, Mrs. W. S. Barker; gifts, Mrs. T. H. Martin; white elephants, Mrs. W. H. Westoby, and plants, Mrs. G. Jackson.

Mothers' Day Tea

Attractions especially for mom will be featured this Friday when the Sangster School Parent-Teacher Association celebrates Mother's Day with a tea and sale in the school, 3325 Metchosin Road.

Stalls of home cooking, sewing, white elephant and garden items will be featured at the affair beginning at 3:15 p.m. which is open to everyone.

The youngsters have not been forgotten, either, as there will be children's treasure chests and a puppet show, presented by Mrs. Jean Wallace of the Country Church Players, Colwood.

Annual spring tea and sale, Shady Creek United Church Women, Saturday at 2 p.m., Fellowship Hall, 7184 East Saanich Road. Stalls of home cooking, sewing, greeting cards, candy, superfluities and plants.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Friend's Playing Wrong Fairway

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby: We recently bought a new home near our golf club. We have no children and my husband and I have always been very happy together. My husband urged me to take up golf, which I did. I enjoy it a lot and became quite an accomplished golfer in a very short time. This seemed to please my husband very much. Then one of my friends told me that she had heard my husband was delighted that I had taken up golf. Why?

Because then he would always know where I was, and he would be free to go where he pleased and with whom he pleased, and I wouldn't be calling his office every few hours to check up on him. Do you think this friend has a point?

GOLFER

DEAR GOLFER: Your "friend" has less of a "point" than you have — a pointed head, if you pay any attention to this vicious little trouble maker.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor I'll call Dora. She comes here at 8 a.m. and sits all day long. She is 32, unmarried and has no job. (She says she can't get one because she is so heavy, yet she eats everything offered to her and plenty of it.) She's made it plain she wants a man. I have a bachelor brother, 52, who comes here a lot, and Dora likes him, but he has never even given her a smile. Every unmarried man she meets here, regardless of his age, she thinks we invited here to meet her. We can't talk over family matters because Dora is here. I hate to be rude or unkind and tell her not to come over, but my husband says I should. Yet he hasn't the nerve to do it himself. This has been going on for a year. Can you help me?

NO WAY OUT

DEAR NO WAY: Apparently Dora has the mentality of a child. Treat her as one. No need to be unkind or rude. Simply tell her she must not come over every day. You'd do Dora a tremendous kindness if you encouraged her to diet and get some sort of a job. If she's not employable, interest her in needlework, simple art, or reading for her mental level. But do not permit her to sit in your home like a vegetable and usurp your privacy.

I never dreamed support stockings could make legs slinkier. (What a nutty idea.) But then I tried Cameo Support Stockings with Lycra. They give my legs a marvellous lift. But here's the surprise: my legs even look better. (Like wearing an invisible girdle, all the way down.) Not a mark or vein in sight. Just sheer, stockinged leg. I'm mad for both styles. I wear Super Support, when I'm on my feet all day. And glamorous Super Sheer, when I want to dance all night.

Honestly, Cameo, where have you been all my life?

Council Backs Petition

Central Saanich councillors agreed Wednesday to formally oppose an application by Wescraft Manufacturing Ltd. to discharge industrial wastes into Sandhill Creek.

Coun. Tom Michell told council that a petition against the application is gaining many signatures in the affected area.

The company's submission to discharge neutralized aluminum anodizing and conversion coating into the creek is before the B.C. Pollution Control Board.

Municipal Clerk Fred Durrand said he had checked municipal records at the request of the PUC and found that a chemical company had stated that treated wastes would be discharged into the ground. This information was given to council when the company applied for rezoning in 1964.

Waste solutions from the factory have been dumped into a ditch beside the factory on Keating Cross Road. This ditch empties into Sandhill Creek.

FOR CATTLE

Downstream farmers are opposing the application, contending the wastes are polluting the stream from which they draw water for cattle and irrigation.

Mother, Son Escape Fire

COMOX — A mother and her five-year-old son escaped injury Tuesday when fire destroyed their three-bedroom home here. Mrs. Margo Mills and her son Kevin were the only ones home when the blaze broke out. Five other children were at school.

Arena to Get Vote Test

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal council Wednesday voted unanimously to put a separate recreation bylaw to the north end of the municipality.

The bylaw vote, before the end of June, will ask ratepayers to approve a $300,000 ice arena at Fullers Lake.

Reeve Donald Morton said separate bylaws in north and south are the only solution to providing the needed facilities.

A composite $700,000 bylaw was turned down by the whole municipality earlier this year.

Reeve Morton admitted Wednesday the reason for the defeat was probably the lack of details by the council regarding its intention for the south.

It was made clear a separate recreation bylaw will be prepared for south end voters as soon as it is known what project is wanted.

In each case the bylaw will have an assessment merging clause.

Reeve Morton said this will ensure that eventually the entire municipal assessment will be paying for all the facilities.

Wilf Wunderlick presented a 300-names petition from Crofton residents supporting a separate bylaw for the north.

Reeve Morton said: "I think we will see a bylaw in the south end for a swimming pool in a short time."

The reeve said subsequent facilities in the south will also be on a cost-sharing basis.

Coun. George Whittaker said passing merging bylaws will require a lot of public goodwill and strength on the council.

Coun. Gerry Smith, Chemainus, said if ice arena plans were held up two years, costs would rise 25 per cent.

Duncan's Not Vancouver —Taxi Rate Plan Scored

NORTH COWICHAN — Bert Kyle wants to install city style meters in his local taxis.

He took his suggestion to municipal council Wednesday but council handed it back into the laps of the five cab operators in the district to reach agreement.

Agreement won't be easy.

One competitor, Danny Schutte, said today: "I don't go along with Mr. Kyle's submission.

"The idea of meters is all right but you can't treat a small place like Duncan as if it was Victoria or Vancouver.

Mr. Schutte said the suggested rates are too high.

At present local operators charge a 75 cents minimum up to one and three-quarter miles and 10 cents for each extra quarter mile.

Mr. Kyle suggests a 55 cents minimum for each quarter mile plus 10 cents for each additional quarter mile.

Mr. Schutte says: "We should not go off half-cocked on this meter idea.

REGULAR USERS

"In Duncan you have to give consideration to regular cab users such as old age pensioners."

Reeve Donald Morton said he is sure the Public Utilities Commission would favor meters.

He sympathized with Mr. Kyle and hoped council would back an application to the PUC.

"As they are at present taxi fares in this district are cheap," he said.

Grants Asked For Hospitals

Village of Sidney and the municipality of North Saanich will be invited to contribue financially to meet an emergency situation at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals.

The two areas have not been included in a proposed cost-sharing arrangement as they are not members of the Greater Victoria Inter-Municipal Committee.

Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich said Wednesday that he has been asked to discuss the matter with Sidney and North Saanich as Rest Haven Hospital at Sidney was afforded an opportunity to request emergency aid.

Rest Haven was not included in the list for emergency funds because the hospital's administrators agreed there was a more acute situation at the city hospitals, the reeve said.

Reeve Lee said he hopes to discuss the proposal this week with North Saanich Reeve James Cumming and Sidney Chairman Arthur Freeman.

In Montreal

DUNCAN — George Manuel of the Cowichan Indian Band is a member of an Indian Advisory Council in Montreal this week to discuss plans for the Indians of Canada Expo 67 pavilion.

Once Upon a Time . . .

. . . which is the way all good stories begin—and because it's almost Mother's Day and we're feeling nostalgic—we're going to tell you a story about US. We hope you'll forgive us if we sound a bit boastful, but after all, this IS a story to be proud of! It started back in 1920 when a clever little lady named Miss Frith (they were formal back in those days!), with a flair for making hats, opened a small millinery shop on Government St. near the Empress. Later on she moved it to Douglas St., our present location. Chances are your own mother bought her hats from Miss Frith . . . in any case, it wasn't too long before Miss Frith's became a household name in Victoria—THE place to buy smart hats and accessories.

We've grown over the years

Now, 46 years later, Miss Frith's is still a name to conjure with . . . selling not only beautiful hats and accessories, but just about everything else you can think of to outfit the elegant woman in the latest of fashion. Miss Frith's millinery store was taken over by Helen and Wyn Sinclair in 1959. Before long it started to grow like Topsy—with the largest and most exciting stock of millinery of any store in Western Canada. You may remember, there used to be a butcher store next door; well, in the fall of 1963, this was bought by Miss Frith's, remodelled and joined to our original store when we branched out into fashions as well as millinery. The following year, literally bursting at the seams, we used our back yard to build a big extension to the store, and a lovely mezzanine where we keep all our EXTRA special things. Finally, in 1965, we acquired our own parking lot off Fisgard St.; opened up a side door to our store, and put up a smart striped canopy which you can drive under on drizzly days. There's room for 30 cars on this lot—but in any case, parking's never a problem, what with the large new city carpark on Fisgard St. (for which we'll give you a free parking stamp) as well as numerous 1-hour street meters and many other parking complexes within a two-block area.

Pleasant atmosphere—superlative service

Well, so much for history and externals. Now let's look at what you find in Miss Frith's when you enter our store. First of all, there's Atmosphere: it's a friendly place where the customer—be she a teen-ager shopping for her first inexpensive formal, or a dowager prepared to spend important money on fine quality clothes—is treated like a queen! Our salesladies aren't snooty, despite all their training and experience; they pride themselves on giving real, old-fashioned service (the only thing that IS old-fashioned in our store!) And naturally, we stand behind everything we sell. In our philosophy, customer satisfaction is of prime importance. We must admit, in passing, that we've sometimes been accused of having too MUCH merchandise—which admittedly can be a bit overwhelming—but, you see, we're so intent on keeping up with the ever-changing fashion picture that we're getting beautiful new merchandise in every day . . . in a whole gamut of sizes and price ranges. And our knowledgeable salespeople are there to help you find exactly what you're looking for; a word or two from you is all they need.

A complete ladies' specialty store

As we've already said, our stock of millinery is unequalled. We've hats for every occasion—at prices to suit every budget. From smart, inexpensive hats, to exquisite creations bearing the labels of famous designers. You'll find accessories in the millinery department too. Very fine nylon and Kidtex gloves to match or complement your outfit. All our leather gloves are guaranteed washable. There's a great assortment of scarves, from the inexpensive to the exotic. Hosiery that many Victoria women swear by—like our own "Lady Pamela" nylons, sheer and hard-wearing, and budget priced at 3 pairs for $2.25. Also Chatelaine's Claire nude heel and cantrece hose—the latter just $1.50—as well as Kayser's famous Supp-hose and Tempo support stockings. There's a wide variety of handbags priced at $5, $5.98 and $7.98 for simulated leathers, and from $10 for real leather. We have those wonderful English Bond Street bags too. And right now the new whites and beiges in a soft, leather-like finish, are here for summer. Other accessories include costume jewellery, and quality wigs priced from $89 up, including carrying case and styling.

Sportswear

We pride ourselves on the quality and variety of our sportswear. There are bathing suits, skirts, slims, co-ordinates of all kinds; high-fashion swim caps; sweaters for every occasion. You'll find the "Western Look"—so popular at the moment—exemplified in both fabric and cut in many of our sports clothes.

Blouses

A wonderful choice, from frilly to tailored—in a wide variety of fabrics and colors.

Suits and Coats

Dashing raincoats: Lydia velvet all-weather coats in bright, glowing colors; two and three-piece suits and dress-coat ensembles feature a wonderful mixing and matching of fabrics. Versatile knits for the busy life—from those smart, Canadian-made knit suits which are such good value at $35 —to the most exotic of imported knits from Europe.

Dresses

Everything you can think of, and then some! You'll find the "clash colors" you've been reading about in the fashion magazines. Bold, beautiful prints, stripes and checks and polka dots. Handsome plains. In misses' and half-sizes.

Maternity Clothes

If there's a Blessed Event in your future, no need to stay home meantime. Our maternity clothes run the whole gamut from sportswear to evening gowns. And what's more, they're all a lot lower priced than our regular clothes, so you can afford to splurge on a variety of styles to brighten up the months of waiting.

Up on the mezzanine

When you've looked at everything downstairs, walk up the wide, carpeted staircase to our attractive mezzanine floor. Here you'll find our most exquisite imported fashions. Also the Bridal section, full of gorgeous wedding gowns, and long or short dresses for the bridesmaids. (Incidentally, when you purchase one of our lovely wedding gowns we take a picture of you wearing it so as to give your friends a preview!) We give you a handsome Wedding Book too —and you might even get to win a free honeymoon trip to the West Indies! Also on the mezzanine—long and short formals, and delightful graduation frocks.

Story's end

Well, we could go on and on and tell you a lot more about ourselves—but perhaps we should be modest and yet you find out for yourself. So we'll just stress once again our motto of Quality, Value, Service and Satisfaction; assure you that credit (without carrying charges) is yours for the asking; and express the hope that you'll visit our store soon—perhaps buy something you fall in love with—and live happily ever after!

SPCA OFFICIAL SHOT DOWN

Live Animal Testing Ruled Out

By BOB DONAHUE

There is an apparent split in the ranks of the B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals regarding use of animals for medical research.

The president of the North Cowichan SPCA, Miss Mary Waldon, said Wednesday the practice is prohibited by the constitution, "but we now feel this is the time to start selling animals for research provided proper steps are taken."

●

A vehement denial came this morning from Cmdr. F. J. Jones, provincial executive director.

He said: "We have never in the past or intend in the future to sell animals, alive or dead, for medical research."

He admitted a committee had been formed to study the whole question but the matter of selling animals was only a part of the study.

The issue was raised at a North Cowichan municipal council meeting Wednesday when Coun. George Whittaker said the SPCA was "missing a bet" if it was not selling animals for experiments.

●

Reeve Donald Morton asked; "Do you mean experiments with live animals?"

Coun. Whittaker replied: "Yes."

He said there are gangs of thieves rounding up animals in some districts to sell for experiments.

Reeve Morton thought many people who put animals into the hands of the SPCA for adoption would no longer go near the shelter if the animals were sold.

Miss Waldon said later: "A committee is to investigate the matter and the provincial SPCA is also looking into the situation."

Cmdr. Jones said:

"The day the SPCA relies on the sale of animals for research will be a black day in the medical history of the province.

"We must protest. I fear Miss Waldon is only concerned with the monetary returns for animals."

●

"We have vehemently protested any action by any society in attempting to use animals for research."

He added that in order for this to be done a constitutional change in the SPCA would be required.

Taxes Edge Up In C. Saanich

Increase in the school mill rate has forced taxes up slightly in Central Saanich this year despite a reduction in the general mill rate.

Council Wednesday approved a tax rate of 41.15 mills for 1966, representing an increase of .39 mills over 1965.

Mill rate for school purposes, oover which council has no control, stands at 26.08 this year, compared to 24.41 mills last year.

Rate for general purposes has been decreased from 16.12 last year to 14.40 mills for 1966.

Remainder of the 1966 mill rate is composed of .67 mills for debt retirement.

NORTH COWICHAN — Coun. Elaine Dobbyn told municipal council Wednesday she gets a steady stream of phone calls from residents wanting action on a sewer project in the Sherman Road area.

She said: "I had four calls before 10 a.m. this morning. These people want action as the situation is shockingly bad."

Reeve Donald Morton said: "Yes, but they may vote against the bylaw when the cost is stated as $120 annually."

Total cost of the project is $500,000.

Council learned the Pollution Control Board has approved the project plans.

PORT ALBERNI — An anti-pollution group Wednesday proposed a provincial conference on pollution problems should be held in November in Victoria.

The Alberni Valley Citizens Committee on Pollution asked Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston to attend a national conference on pollution which will be held in Montreal and then report back to a B.C. meeting.

NORTH COWICHAN — A sour note was struck at the municipal Recreation Commission meeting here.

Joe Calverley, president of the mid-Island Juvenile Soccer Association, accused members of having a "hockey fixation."

He said: "I am at a loss to understand why playing fields do not come into the commission's considerations."

Mr. Calverley said existing playing fields in North Cowichan are in a deplorable state.

He said "there isn't a public playing field worthy of the name."

Coun. Dennis Hogan, chairman said: "Some work has been done and we will build them."

The commission is to ask municipal council to instigate a regular program of spring cleanups of the public beaches at Maple Bay, Chemainus and Crofton.

Centennial fishing derby in Central Saanich received the support of council Wednesday.

The derby is scheduled for September 4.

Council instructed the centennial committee to meet with boat house operators in the district to work out details of the affair.

The fishing derby was suggested as a local centennial celebrations several weeks ago by Jerry Gosley, chairman of the Great Victoria Canadian Confederation Centennial Society.

ANTI-CHARITY STAND BACKED

PORT ALBERNI — The Port Alberni Labour Council has endorsed the decision of its executive to oppose a united appeal for charitable funds in the Alberni Valley. The executive says that charitable funds should be provided by the government.

SPENCER STATEMENT TELLS OF LIFE, OTTAWA TRIPS

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mr. Justice Dalton Wells, commissioner enquiring into the George Victor Spencer case, Wednesday night released a transcript of evidence given at hearings held in Ottawa April 13-15.

The transcript contains the text of a statement given to RCMP by Spencer and handed in as evidence to the commission by Assistant Commissioner W. H. Kelly of the RCMP. Excerpts follow:

I was born at Whitwell, England, April 2, 1904. I came to Canada in 1907 with my parents and settled at Michel, B.C. About 1911 we moved to Corbin, B.C. In 1919 I went to Cumberland to live with relatives. My parents stayed in Vancouver at that time. I stayed in Cumberland until I started high school in 1920 when I left to live with my parents in Vancouver.

After finishing high school, two years, about 1922, I moved with my parents to Courtenay. I started working in garages as mechanic and general helper. In 1929 I went to the Prairies for harvest. In 1930 I went to work in the Powell River pulp mill for about a month and then worked in garages in Powell River.

About 1931-32 my father went to England on a trip and was ill so my father went back into the hotel business at the Waverley at Cumberland. I went to Cumberland to take care of my father's interest in this hotel. I lived in Cumberland until 1937, at which time I think my father sold the business.

SEPARATED

I was married in 1933 in Courtenay. We got a separation in 1936 and divorce in 1942. After 1937 I was mostly unemployed and did some work around Vancouver where my father got a rooming house. In 1939, I applied to engage in the RCAF but wasn't accepted.

In 1941 I applied to engage for service in the RCA. I joined the army in 1942. I served overseas in England and earned the BEM. I was discharged in, I think, September, 1945. After discharge, I worked installing escalators for about a year.

I was then unemployed until I obtained Christmas work in the post office and later obtained full time part-time work. I was later taken on permanent strength on June or July, 1948 or 1949. I have been employed there since that time.

About 1936 or 1937 I became associated with the Communist party and I was an accepted member. I have never held any official position in the Communist party. In 1946, I was expelled from the party which was at that time known as the Labor Progressive Party. I was expelled because of arguments I had with them on policy matters.

GRAIN BOATS

In 1957 or 1958 I figure it was this time that the first Russian boats came to Vancouver after the war to pick up grain. I was associated with the Canadian-Soviet Friendship Society. I attended their house meetings and attended their functions and knew many of the people in this group.

At the time the boats arrived in Vancouver this society had a general invitation to visit the boats. I went down to the boats with other persons on several occasions. On one occasion a man who said he was representing the Russian embassy during the grain deal asked for a ride to the Vancouver Hotel.

(Mr. Spencer then related a later visit with this person and his desire to travel to Russia.)

OTTAWA TRIP

About two years after this time I got a phone call to go to the corner of Main and Broadway to meet a person. I don't know who this person was but when I met him he told me he was a member of the Russian Embassy. He is not one of the photos shown to me.

He asked me if I would fly to Ottawa to meet someone from the Russian embassy. I had been inquiring for sometime about visiting Russia and furthering culture exchanges and I agreed to go to Ottawa.

I went to Ottawa and met this man and another man who looks like the photo shown to me of "Burdiukov." This meeting would have been on Saturday, Oct. 8, 1960. On this trip I used the name McNiel. I also used this name for TCA.

'CULTURAL'

The purpose of this meeting was to discuss exchanges of a cultural nature. On this occasion I met the man who I had met at Vancouver who introduced me to a man who looks like the photo of Burdiukov. On this occasion the second man was interested in ethnic groups and about the various nationalities living in Canada.

I felt there was a good chance of getting a trip to Russia and that the Russian embassy had quite a bit of influence in persuading such groups as unions, etc. as to who should be able to visit Russia. It was therefore to my advantage to get a trip to keep on the good side of the embassy officials.

I used the name "McNiel" because my mother being alone at home and it always being possible for a plane to crash I didn't want them to phone my mother to report my death.

I had arranged with McNiel who at that time was living on Eton Street to handle any such messages should there be an accident. On this trip he asked me to get as much information on ethnic groups as I could; the various members; own schools, ect. and any general information about British Columbia. This conversation took place in my hotel room.

(Mr. Spencer then discusses arrangements for a future meeting.)

SIGNALS

We used these signals throughout our dealings. I would write the film editor of the Soviet embassy. The letters sent to me would be addressed in my own name and proper address. I think I addressed the Ottawa man as "George." I don't think I used a return address on my letters . . .

The main interest was why these people left their home country and what their political inclinations were. They were also interested in Russian prisoners of war who did not return to Russia after the war.

I think that the Russians wished to locate these ex-prisoners of war, I don't know why. I also took some pictures of Vancouver. These were mostly of the poorer housing areas of Vancouver in the East End, generally the life of Vancouver people. I took some myself and bought some. I don't know why they wanted these. I have surmised that they wanted to show how people lived under our system. This is my own philosophy. I think I travelled again as "McNeil."

On my third trip on July 15, 1961, I don't know what name I used, it may have been "McNiel" or "McCann," I'm not sure where I stayed.

On the fourth trip on December 16, 1961, I don't remember where I stayed or what name I used. My fifth trip was on June 2, 1962. I don't remember the name of the motel where I stayed or what name it used.

PIPELINE

In all these trips to Ottawa I deal with the same man who looks like the photo of Burdiukov.

During my various discussions with this man he showed interest in many things and we discussed the Trans Mountain pipeline in which he showed particular interest. I told him that I was going on a holiday up that way and would take some pictures for him.

I took this holiday probably in June 1961 and travelled by car from Vancouver up the Fraser Canyon to Prince George to Dawson Creek about 50 or 60 miles up the Alaska Highway, back to Dawson Creek to Grande Prairie, Edmonton, Jasper, Cranbrook, Fernie, Crows Nest Pass and returned by Cranbrook across the border to Spokane and back to Vancouver via the Hope-Princeton highway.

During my trip I took photos of the refinery at Taylor, B.C. and what I thought was a pumping station between Edmonton and Jasper.

TANK FARMS

In that area there are a large number of oil tanks and pumping stations, I took both movie and still-camera films of these places. I subsequently gave this same man pictures of my trip.

(This is followed by detail of his trip through Alberta.)

I gave the roll of movie film and some general still pictures, these included pictures of the Fraser Valley, of mountains, of oil tanks, towns—general view of coming into some towns.

I have been shown two negatives of a bridge and pipeline going across a river. I could have supplied my Ottawa contact with this. I have been shown six negatives of highway scenes, I cannot identify these scenes but I possibly could have supplied these.

In addition to the above, I supplied general films of Vancouver—I bought albums of these in Vancouver. I don't know how many albums I supplied but probably about six. Each album had about six or eight pictures.

I supplied city road maps of Vancouver and district. He was interested in any firms that had become bankrupt. I was able to supply some information that I got from a private firm in Vancouver.

He was interested in the procedure for crossing the U.S.-Canada border and the forms required for emigrating to the U.S.A.

I got some U.S. immigration forms at the U.S. consulate and gave them to my Ottawa contact. He never made any inquiries about universities. He inquired about tourists visiting Vancouver, but I didn't supply any material.

He inquired about drivers' licences—for instance, if a B.C. licence was good in Alberta. I did supply some information regarding motels and hotels where rooms were available and may have given him a copy of the B.C. directory tourist accommodation book . . .

RCMP Chief Should Quit, MP Declares

OTTAWA (CP)—RCMP Commissioner George B. McClellan should resign in the face of a direct conflict between his own sworn evidence and a statement by Prime Minister Pearson, MP David Orlikow said Wednesday.

Either the commissioner had not told a true story before the Munsinger judicial inquiry "or else he's not competent at his job," the New Democrat member for Winnipeg North said in an interview.

In either case it was the commissioner's duty to quit.

Mr. Orlikow referred to the commissioner's testimony before Mr. Justice W. F. Spence that Mr. Pearson had asked him in 1964 about any impropriety or anything of a scandalous nature about any MPs.

This, said Mr. Orlikow, was "absolutely contradicted" by Mr. Pearson in the Commons Tuesday.

"Police officers are trained to give testimony which is precise, correct, exact," said the NDP member. "If they have any reservations, any nuances, they are trained to give those so there will be no misunderstanding."

There could be no further confidence between the government and the commissioner, Mr. Orlikow said.

District Body Names Officers

PORT ALBERNI — The organizational meeting of the Alberni - Clayoquot regional district elected Ald. Charles Blair of Alberni as chairman.

Ten other members of the committee represent Port Alberni and the districts of Beaver Creek, Sproat Lake, Tofino, Ucluelet and Cherry Creek.

Members will hold office until Jan 31 and members to be elected June 11 will be in office until February, 1968.

The next meeting will decide on functions to be assumed by the group.

'Get Out of Viet Nam War' New Zealand Labor Urges

WELLINGTON (AP) — New Zealand's Opposition Labor party combined with the 250,000-member New Zealand Federation of Labor today to demand immediate withdrawal of New Zealand troops from Viet Nam.

The suprise move came in a joint statement issued during the annual conference of the federation here. It surprised political observers as only five weeks ago the new leader of the Labor party, Norman E. Kirk, said his party is not committed to withdrawal.

Prime Minister Keith Jolyoake said in a statement the people of New Zealand will be "appalled to see it was the trade unionists who were dictating to the Labor party."

New Zealand was an artillery battery in Viet Nam, which has seen considerable action. It consists of about 200 men.

Commonwealth partner Australia has 1,500 men in Viet Nam and is increasing this force to 4,500, with naval and air support.

Both Australia and New Zealand also have troops in Malaysia.

The Opposition's move today brings the Viet Nam issue into the spotlight as one of the main issues on which New Zealand's next Parliamentary election will be fought in November.

The National party under Holyoake, which has formed the government for the last six years, is taking a strong pro-American line on Viet Nam.

Holyoake's party has a majority of 10 in the 80-member Parliament.

Board 'Just Ignoring Us'

A new approach will be made by Saanich to gain co-operation from the Greater Victoria School Board in opening its playgrounds after school ends.

Municipal parks and recreation committee chairman, Coun. Edward Lum, said today approaches have been made in the past "and they just ignored us."

But he thought the school board, which takes in urban Saanich, "is coming around now to realize that there must be some co-operation."

He praised the Saanich School Board, District 63, which extends from Royal Oak northwards.

This board and Saanich worked together with the municipality trying to build its playgrounds next to schools.

In this way, the school used the municipal ground during the day and municipal residents could use the school playground during evenings and weekends.

Coun. Lum told Tuesday night's parks committee meeting that the Greater Victoria District's refusal to open playgrounds after school hours "is double taxation."

Parks superintendent Bert Richmond observed later that while school grounds are empty, municipal playing fields are full to capacity.

AGAINST DRIVERS WHO IGNORE EMERGENCY RULES

Crackdown Ordered by Fire Chief

By RON SUDLOW

City firefighters have received new orders to watch for motorists who disobey traffic rules during emergency runs.

Firemen will be noting licence numbers of offending vehicles and charges will be laid, said city Fire Chief James Allan.

The fire chief said many motorists are not surrendering right-of-way to emergency vehicles which have sirens wailing and lights flashing.

He added other drivers are following them too closely.

Chief Allan pointed to section 167 of the Motor Vehicle Act which reads:

"Upon the immediate approach of an emergency vehicle giving an audible signal by a bell, siren, or exhaust whistle, and showing a visible flashing red light, except when otherwise directed by a peace officer a driver shall yield the right-of-way, and shall immediately drive to a position parallel to and as close as possible to the right-hand edge or curb of the roadway, clear of an intersection and shall stop and remain in that position until the emergency vehicle has passed."

"And motorists are not allowed to follow any fire apparatus within 500 feet," he added.

"We wish people would remember it could be a fire at their home when we are on an emergency run.

"And when we're on an inhalator call, it could be a driver's immediate family."

And its on inhalator calls where every second counts.

The odds of a person dying of heart attack or drowning are 100,000 to 1 if help is there within the first minute.

After 10 minutes the odds are reversed, the chief said.

Time is lost dodging discourteous motorists or when the emergency vehicle is involved in an accident.

"Firemen are on orders to use sirens and lights on emergencies only. A violation would mean immediate suspension," said the chief.

"We always go into intersections under control. We don't go flying through them at 45 mph.

"We try to make as good time as possible but its better to get there a few seconds late than not at all.

"If a person hears sirens all we ask is they stop and drive to the curb if possible.

"If they are on a doublelane highway, stop where they are and stay still, we'll get around them," said Chief Allan.

Recent changes in fire equipment have now given Victorians two siren sounds to listen for.

One is the familiar wail and the other sounds a high-pitched steady yelp.

Fire vehicle drivers are under orders to downshift at intersections and proceed at 10-15 m.p.h. except on fire lanes where corners are controlled by four-way stop lights.

Although fire wagons are equipped with powerful hydraulic and air brakes, it doesn't pay to argue with them, the chief points out.

Some weigh up to 14 tons.

CAMPUS VISIT

Uvic Starts High School Link Plan

Just about every senior high school on Vancouver Island will have two student representatives at the University of Victoria Saturday in a liaison experiment between campus and secondary school.

University students are behind the first Vancouver Island Student Leaders Seminar, designed to encourage the maximum number of qualified high school students to enrol at the university and to broaden communication between the two levels of education.

The university student council and the Uvic branch of the Canadian Union of Students invited a Grade 11 and a Grade 12 student from each island high school and the turnout of 40 students will represent close to a 100 per cent response.

The Grade 12 students will hear about campus student government in B.C. and begin to organize Frosh Week which introduces new students next fall.

Grade 11 delegates will talk about student government in high school and organize liaison with the university next winter.

'Talked' Himself Into Jail

A man who admitted three counts of false pretences has been sentenced in magistrate's court to eight months in jail.

Raymond Slater, no fixed address, was given eight months on each of the false pretences charges. He was sentenced to one month on a vagrancy charge after being found guilty earlier.

The sentences will be served concurrently.

The offences involved the passing of worthless cheques in the amounts of $17.27, $46.38 and $25 to Alexander's Men's Wear, Spencer's Store and Woodward's in April.

Magistrate William Ostler said Slater is an "astonishimg man" to be so "detached" from the offences.

"You're an extremely plausible man; you've talked yourself into it."

TOOK CHOPS

A man who stole pork chops and cheese from a Colwood store April 9 was sentenced Wednesday to one day in jail and put on a $25 six-month peace bond.

Carl Haynes, 5037 Rocky Point Road, had been remanded in custody for earlier preparation of a pre-sentence report.

He pleaded guilty.

British Score Red Stand

GENEVA (Reuters) — Britain today accused Communist countries of arrogantly dismissing proposed disarmament measures favored by all other countries at the 17-power Geneva disarmament conference.

Lord Chalfont, British disarmament minister, told the conference the Communist position was untenable and they could not go on brushing aside these proposals with impunity.

Lord Chalfont said concessions would have to be made on both sides if a disarmament agreement were to be reached.

He said there was no hope of movement in any negotiations unless each side was prepared to be flexible and to move out from its positions.

Punjabi Books Donated To City Library

Victoria Public Library has had 50 books added to its collection of Punjabi literature by a donation from the city's Khalsa Diwan Society.

The books were presented to the library earlier this week by M. S. Randhawa, secretary of the society.

The Punjabi collection has been termed "very successful" by library officials and is credited with gaining a number of new readers for the library.

A further shipment of Punjabi books is expected in the near future.

14 ANNOUNCEMENTS

Opening for the Season
THURSDAY, MAY 19
SHAWNIGAN BEACH HOTEL
SHAWNIGAN LAKE

Tired? Run Down? Need a change? Come up to Shawnigan Lake for a while!

Near Victoria, yet a complete change from sea level. You will notice the difference in the warmer, softer air, cheerful and friendly hospitality, most comfortable surroundings and pleasant companions. Moderate prices begin at $15 a day for TWO persons, comfortable room and delicious meals included, or $94.50 for a full week's stay—larger lakeview rooms slightly higher.

For one person prices begin at $9 a day or $56.70 for a week, room and meals included.

30 acres of grounds include a delightful 5-hole, 500-yard mashie golf course with quick action greens, tennis court, badminton court, volley ball, shuffleboard, table tennis, "Sherwood Forest" trails, launch trips on the lake, free boats and fishing tackle, water skiing, swimming and safe sandy beach.

Indoors, we have two large lounges, coffee room, excellent library, "The Fire That Is Never Out." This is "The" place for children, play area, rumpus room, planned programme, baby sitters and much more.

We suggest driving out for lunch or dinner the new highway just completed into Shawnigan is great!

OR BETTER STILL—arrange now for a "High Style Holiday" at the Island's favourite family hotel.

Just pick up the phone and call Denis Mason Hurley, collect, 743-2312 or 743-9303 for a friendly chat about it all, or drop a line to P.O. Box 9, Shawnigan Lake.

MEETING OF THE LADIES V.O.S. on Sun., May 8, at Flair For Beauty, Hillside.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

Most bridge players would make the correct play of the diamond five from dummy at trick one. They would be delighted when their seven held the trick, then would enter dummy with the ace of clubs in order to take the trump finesse. Later they would get to dummy with the king of diamonds for the heart finesse. Since both the trump and heart finesses would lose, they would be one down and would undoubtedly complain about bad luck.

Opening lead—♦ 6

When this hand was played recently at New York's Mayfair Club the South player was Morrie Elis. Morrie, who won many national championships during the late '30s and early '40s, confines his play to rubber bridge these days but his dummy play is still unsurpassed.

Morrie studied the opening lead carefully and decided West had opened fourth best and therefore was marked with the queen. In that case Morrie saw he had a chance to avoid any heart finesse. Operating on the principle that a finesse that is almost sure to work is a better proposition than one that is only even money, Morrie proceeded to win the first diamond with his ace.

He led the jack of clubs to dummy's ace, discarded his low heart on the king of clubs and ruffed a club. When both opponents followed to that third club, Morrie knew that the fifth club could be set up. Therefore, he led the ace and another trump. West won and led a diamond.

Morrie finessed dummy's jack, ruffed out West's last club, returned to dummy with the king of diamonds and discarded his queen of hearts on the fifth club.

Unquestionably the finest location in Victoria for apartment dwelling, with Goodacre Lake in beautiful Beacon Hill Park right at your front door. Just a few short minutes walk from the heart of the business area.

Due to the response of people of discriminating taste our choice of 1- and 2-Bedroom Suites is rapidly diminishing. We are sorry to say that our Studio Suites have met with such approval that at the present time we have none available for occupancy.

If you are contemplating a change to this most modern form of living see Goodacre Towers, compare your dollar value. Join the many happy residents who have found that we make every effort to provide you with accommodation you are pleased to call "Home."

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

Awards are a dime a dozen, or so it would seem. This time of year breeds them like mosquitoes. So, let's cut them down to size.

NBC news correspondent Frank McGee won a George Foster Peabody Award for distinguished achievement in television news during 1965.

McGee was cited as follows: "His is the voice of authority, clarity and reliability . . . he has demonstrated a unique capacity to explain and clarify complicated space missions. His versatility was demonstrated in his superb descriptions of the historic visit of Pope Paul VI to New York . . ." Agreed. He's been in the shadow of Huntley and Brinkley far too long.

NBC News received three first-place awards from the Overseas Press Club of America for distinguilshed reporting of foreign news in 1965.

Fred Freed, producer of the 3½-hour "American White Paper: United States Foreign Policy," won the award for "best television interpretation of foreign affairs."

Richard Valeriani was the winner of the "best radio reporting from abroad" category for his coverage of the civil war in the Dominican Republic . . . The Ed Stout Award for the best article or report on Latin America in any medium went to producer-director Ted Yates for "Santo Domingo: War Among Friends."

CBS News correspondent Morley Safer won two major awards from the Overseas Press Club. He received the George Polk Memorial Award for best reporting, any medium, requiring exceptional courage and enterprise abroad. Safer also was honored for the best television reporting from abroad.

Safer has already received a George Foster Peabody Award, a Long Island University George Polk Memorial Award and a Sigma Delta Chi Award for his reporting from Viet Nam during 1965 . . . NBC-TV's The Julie Andrews Show and Frank Sinatra: A Man and His Music shared a Peabody Award for television entertainment with the CBS-TV special, My Name Is Barbra.

Lamar Boren, Ricou Browning and Jordan Kline, Oscar winners for special visual effects for the motion picture, "Thunderball," are the same underwater photography team members who film the aquatic scenes for the Flipper color television series.

Lovely, panelled living room with raised hearth fireplace, master bedroom 10x12, plus second children's bedroom or TV room, large kitchen and eating area, ample cupboards colored bathroom fixtures, all add to the saleability of this "wee home" one block from bus, store; close to schools, park, R.J. Hospital, shopping centre, four minutes drive to Bay. Please afford yourself the privilege of seeing this "dream cottage." Owner has bought 3-bedroom home and has 28 days left to sell. Make a reasonable offer. Replacement and assessment value show this should sell at $10,700 but please make a reasonable offer. BUT BE FAIR AND REASONABLE. Let us worry about the financing. Young people—quit paying rent. A landlord rents only for profit so become your own landlord.

NEWCOMERS!!
3 OR 4 BEDROOMS
Nearly 2,400' in all
plus Relative Suite

Take a $10,000 lot plus a lovely home with a replacement cost of $30,000 plus $4,000 worth of shrubs and circular driveway plus an in-law suite you can charge your wife's mother or auntie $80 p.m. and it is so separate you would think she was living cross-town and if you bought this for $33,700 you would have a favorable deal. Well, truly, this showplace of Victoria must be sold. Here's what you get—

- ⅔-acre fully landscaped, parklike plot
- 1,800' on main floor plus 12x20 panelled double bedroom or family room
- 16x24 LR plus 12x16 DR
- Huge master bedroom with corner vanity
- Sundeck off 10x22 kitchen and eating area
- Hot water heating
- 2-car garage plus enclosed breezeway
- Surveyed lot worth $4,000 on registration
- Lovely den with fireplace that can be 3rd bedroom
- Shake roof and copper downspouts
- Utility room plus extra workshop area.

Owners need more bedrooms so must leave this lovely home. It is hard to realize that for $206 a month for principal, interest and taxes, less $80 p.m. donation by the "relative," you are paying only $126 p.m. out of your own pocket. Professional men, please take note of these facts. It is worth your time to view this home. There is a mortgage of about $22,000 at 7%, which is attractive on today's 8% money market. PLEASE SEE THIS. SINCERELY, IT IS WORTH IT. MAKE A REASONABLE OFFER. ASKING $33,700.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Richard Gullison, age 10, of Cross Creek, N.B., for his question:

How do birds hatch their eggs in the winter?

Every year, flocks of birds fly back and forth between their winter and summer homes. When they return to us each summer they build nests and hatch their eggs. For this reason we may expect them to lay eggs when they go back to their winter homes in the fall, but they do not.

Some birds fly to the Gulf States to spend the winter, others fly farther south to Central and even to South America. The Arctic terns spend the summer in the north polar regions and fly down to visit the south polar regions during our winter months. Many birds of the Arctic fly south to spend the winter in British Columbia and other parts of Canada. They are used to chilly polar weather so the winters of Canada seem warm to them.

These terns, plovers and other northern birds arrive in Canada in the fall when robins are leaving to fly farther south. In the spring, the game of musical chairs changes around. The plovers and their friends fly back north and robins come back to take their places. We expect northern birds to build nests when they arrive in the fall, just as robins build nests when they return in the spring.

Winter in Southern Canada

But this does not happen. Birds are good parents and want the best for their children. They plan to raise their chicks when the summer days are long and sunny. Winter is no time to bring up baby birds because the days are short and cold. What's more, seeds and bugs are hard to find and the growing family would be short of food.

The parent birds have a simple way to solve family problems. They do not raise families in their winter homes. When the robins fly south to winter in the Gulf States, they build no nests and lay no eggs. You might say that they loaf through the winter months. The northern birds that fly down to Canada in the fall also loaf through the winter. When the blizzards blow, they shelter themselves in the furry evergreens. But they do not have to worry about hatching eggs and keeping them warm in zero weather. This is not the proper season to lay eggs and raise a family.

Family life must wait for the first breath of spring. Then the robins and their friends fly north to our woods and fields. They build their nests and hatch their eggs and still have time to sing. The terns and their friends have gone to enjoy the long, warm days of the far northern summer. And for them, too, summer is the season for hatching and raising baby birds. Their winter homes are in southern Canada and their family-raising summer homes are in northern Canada.

Andy sends a 14-inch World Book Globe to Elizabeth Iocco, age 11, of Long Island City, N.Y., for her question:

What is a radio telescope?

An ordinary telescope has lenses to gather light from distant stars. A radio telescope has antennas to gather radio waves from stars and other objects in the heavens. Both light and radio are forms of the electromagnetic energy that pours forth from the sun and its starry sisters. All such forms of energy travel at about 186,000 miles a second. But they pulse along on different frequencies, and radio frequencies are at least a million times slower than the frequencies of light.

A radio telescope catches radio waves in a huge bowl of antennas and focuses them onto other antennas. Radio receivers pick them up as electrical impulses. The impulses are then changed into wavy lines and recorded on paper. To an expert, this ragged writing can describe a star that is too far away to be spotted by the probing lenses of an ordinary telescope.

Sex Signposts For the Future

By JACK HUTTON

The attractive 16-year-old girl was active in three student clubs, making a good B average in Grade 11 and lucky enough to have successful parents who adored her.

That's why everyone was stunned when shortly after Christmas her parents withdrew her from classes for what they called "a trip."

The word spread like wildfire as only school rumors can: the girl was pregnant, expecting a child in early summer.

Ten years ago, in many Canadian communities, the unfortunate girl would have faced a dismal future; publicly condemned for more wrongdoing, cut off psychologically from her former crowd, unable to finish her school year.

Parents Help

It didn't happen in this case. The principal, a social worker and a doctor friend talked to the parents. And, once the first shock of disappointed parenthood had passed, the mother and father realized that their daughter needed them as never before.

The girl didn't lose her school year, thanks to teachers who helped with homework and allowed her to write tests. The school welcomed her back the next fall — and she's still a superior student.

"I think," one of the teachers told me recently, "that we all grew up a little."

The story illustrates the fact that quietly, behind-the scenes the problems of girls who get into similar trouble are getting a fresh look in both Canada and the United States.

Mrs. Satu Repo, a mother of 6-year-old twins, wrote this month in a new Canadian magazine, Schools, that society once thought of the unmarried mother as a "moral imbecile". Today, said Mrs. Repo, society is realizing that it may be the patient.

The need for a fresh approach to sex education isn't limited to any one area of Canada. The Newfoundland Teachers Association passed a resolution weeks ago suggesting that sex education, taught by qualified teachers, be a regular part of the curriculum.

At almost exactly the same time the British Columbia Teachers Federation and the British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation passed resolutions favoring sex courses.

And, in Ontario, the Ontario Educational Association was dominated by a discussion of sex education during its annual Easter convention.

Where are we going? There are, I believe, some signposts for the future in the experience of school systems below the border in the U.S.

Cleveland, Ohio, offers daytime classes in all the basic subjects besides offering home tutors. Detroit, Michigan, has received a federal grant to set up three centres where both instruction and medical advice will be available.

But Boston, Mass., may be the real leader so far. Last week I heard Mrs. Julia Stern, the Boston director of Centaum (committee on education needs for teen-age unmarried mothers) describe what that city is doing.

Boston decided in 1961 that simply pretending unmarried mothers didn't exist wasn't good enough. The local system and Boston City Hospital collaborated to form Centaum.

One of the first myths Centaum shattered was the idea that unmarried student mothers are usually nere-do-wells failing in school. The overwhelming majority of the girls wanted to continue their education.

Hidden Secret

The greatest problem, still unsloved, was reaching the girls early in their pregnancy. The shame of revealing their secret kept most of them from approaching their parents or teachers for at least three months.

Said Mrs. Stern: "Working with the adolescent unmarried mother is different from working with the woman who is mature. Usually the adolescent is emotionally immature, confused and fearful.

"Because she is a minor her parents or guardian must give consent for medical care, anesthesia, delivery or surgery. Thus, early knowledge of the adolescent's pregnancy is important ... to appropriately plan for her maturational needs."

We're on the threshold of a new deal for students who make such a tragic mistake. And it's about time.

Don't Curse Colds! It May Save Your Life

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Don't curse that cold—it may be saving your life.

The possibility that non-fatal virus infections such as the common cold may protect many humans from cancer and leukemia was expressed Wednesday at the annual meeting of the American Society for Microbiology.

Dr. E. Frederick Wheelock of Western Reserve University school of medicine said competition between different kinds of viruses in the human cell may result in the death of one kind, thus producing immunity against the disease carried by the losing virus.

Wheelock disclosed new research in which he made mice temporarily resistant to leukemia, a form of blood cancer.

He found indications the immunity resulted from direct competition between viruses, rather than from production of a newly-found cell substance called interferon.

Wheelock said he inoculated mice with both leukemia-causing virus and benign virus on the same day. This produced normal amounts of interferon—a substance cells produce when attacked by a virus and which some researchers believe may keep the virus from growing.

HOME GARDEN

Beautify Rock Areas With Grey

By Hilda Beastall

Grey is too often a neglected color in garden planting schemes, yet as we become acquainted with a half dozen grey-leaved plants we find a wide variety of form, and among them will surely be one to fit into a certain spot in the garden.

Hilda

First we will benefit from observing grey-leaved plants in general.

Those which can be readily grown here are mostly native to the Mediterranean regions, where they are found in stony soils. Others come to us from Texas and Mexico, so that as a group we realize they thrive in sunny, open places where they receive less water in summer than other denizens of the home garden.

ROCKY AREA

Sloping ground with natural rock outcropping, or a built-up rock garden on a large scale, could well be featured with grey-leaved plants.

So many of them are shrubby in habit, and retain their leaves all winter, that an otherwise desolate area could be beautified for the whole year around.

All of the grey-leaved plants are hairy, making them appear silvery, whether we notice the hairs or not, and the whiter they seem, the denser the hairs.

This fact alone should tell us that the plants will not like a soggy soil, yet the same fact reminds us that they are of satisfying hardiness. The hairs act as protection from both heat and cold.

COMMON PLANTS

Some quite common grey-leaved shrubby plants growing in Victoria are Santolina incana (Lavender-cotton), Artemisia abrotanum (Lad's -love), Senecio laxifolius. All can be kept to a height of two or three feet. Phlomis fruticosa (Jerusalem-sage) goes to four feet.

Other artemisias such as Silver King and Silver Mound are so silky-leaved that they need to be seen to be believed, some are whitish, others greyish green.

The so-called Dusty-millers include Stachys lanata, Cineraria maritima, Lychnis coronaria, all grey-leaved and useful garden plants.

RC Diocese Hopes to Raise $3,000 for India

The Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria hopes to raise $3,000 for the hungry people of India as the result of an appeal last weekend by Bishop Remi De Roo.

The bishop asked all Vancouver Island priests to make the appeal and gift envelopes were distributed among the parishes of 41 Island churches, large and small.

"We have not yet collected all the envelopes," Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the diocese, said Wednesday, "but we hope to raise at least $3,000."

"We are one of the richest countries in the world," said Bishop De Roo, "and have much to be thankful for. We should therefore give generously to those who are so much less privileged."

Vets Planning Reunion At Saanichton

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be guest speaker at the 19th annual dinner and reunion of First World War veterans at Saanichton May 14.

Canadian Expeditionary Force, Imperial or any other veterans, living on the Saanich Peninsula are invited to attend. The only stipulation is that the veteran must have served prior to Nov. 11, 1918.

Several veterans of the South African War are expected to attend as in past years, including some who also fought in the First World War. Many other veterans who have attended past reunions at Saanichton served in both world wars.

In charge of the affair is R. H. Gliddon of Saanichton. The dinner and social evening will be held in the Masonic hall, East Saanich Road, and tickets are available from veterans in the area and will also be on sale at the door.

Standards Clinic Set Sunday For Instructors

A standards clinic will be held Sunday at the Crystal Garden and at Red Cross headquarters as part of a swim instructors' school now in progress, sponsored by the Red Cross Water Safety Services.

Guest lecturer at the clinic will be Murray Smith, associate professor of physical education at the University of Alberta in Edmonton.

Clinic sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to noon at the Crystal Gardens, and at 1:30 p.m. at Red Cross headquarters, 1046 Fort.

IS NOTHING SACRED . . . ROLLS HAS A DEFECT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Auto critic Ralph Nader charged Wednesday that the Rolls Royce has a safety defect.

"The overrated and overpriced Rolls Royce has poor door latches," Nader said in a statement submitted to the House commerce committee.

According to Derwyn Severy of the University of California at Los Angeles, he said, "at a 20-mile-per-hour impact, the Rolls Royce's doors, hood and trunk will come open."

Nader added the Rolls Royce to the list of cars which he has charged have safety defects as the House committee continued its hearings on legislation to reduce highway slaughter.

IN RHODESIA

'Murder Campaign' Launched by Negroes

LONDON (AP) — A Labor MP has demanded an emergency debate on what he termed an African Negro effort to launch a murder campaign in Rhodesia, the breakaway British colony rules by a white-minority regime.

The Speaker of the Commons, Dr. Horace King, halted the move by right-winger Reginald Paget who claimed African Negroes, trained in China, had crossed into Rhodesia from Zambia and then engaged in "a considerable battle" against white Rhodesians.

As a consequence, Paget told Parliament "the Rhodesians may have to cross the Zambesi river separating Rhodesia from Zambia in order to control and protect their frontier."

Speaker King dismissed Paget's request, saying the House does not have all the facts of the incident.

The clash took place Friday in the bush near Sinoia, 70 miles northwest of Salisbury. Seven Negroes died in a running gun battle with Rhodesian police.

HAD CHINESE WEAPONS

Rhodesian authorities said the Negro band had infiltrated about 160 miles from the border after crossing the Zambesi a week before. Reports from Salisbury quoted government spokesman as saying large quantities of arms, including Russian grenades and Chinese weapons, had been captured.

Meanwhile, British-Rhodesian talks on an official level are expected to begin in London toward the end of this week. Later they will be switched to Salisbury.

Children Abandoned Or Sold in Famine

NEW DELHI (UPI)—A famine affecting 3,000,000 persons in an area of 10,000 square miles in the eastern state of Orissa is so severe children are being abandoned or sold for as little as 50 cents, it was reported this week.

Harrowing stories of suffering from the famine area appeared in New Delhi newspapers.

The Hindustan Standard published a dispatch from Orissa by a correspondent who said he saw infants, reduced to skin and bones, abandoned by a roadside because their mothers no longer could breast-feed them. Other children were being offered for sale by their parents, the report said.

STARVED TO DEATH

The correspondent said he came across a grieving father who left the body of his six-year-old daughter on the banks of a river because he could not pay for her cremation. The child had starved to death.

Authorities said the situation was not so much a case of food shortage but rather the lack of money with which the peasants could buy it. A drought in the region has caused a drastic reduction in farm jobs, and many workers now can afford to eat only once every two or three days.

Help for Fire Victims Termed 'Tremendous'

Response to plea for help for a Brentwood family dispossessed by a fire that destroyed their house last week has been "tremendous" said West Saanich Indian reserve mission Father William Mudge today.

"Both the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Saanichton and my own office received a barrage of phone calls," he said.

"The Society's trucks picked up beds, tables and chairs, easy chairs, and clothing from local and Victoria donors."

"The Smith family is most grateful for the help they have received."

Mrs. Cecelia Smith, a widowed reserve women, her five children, her daughter's two children and a niece were burned out of house and home Wednesday afternoon.

They lost all their furniture and clothing.

The Smiths moved into a barely furnished and poorly heated deserted house nearby on the reserve.

The concerted effort to get them back on their feet could be termed "the anatomy of a rescue."

The Department of Indian Affairs, the Red Cross and St. Vincent de Paul Societies and all the people who answered the appeal appearing in Tuesday's Times, have, according to Father Mudge outfitted their new house and their wardrobes.

Pay Bears No Relation To Duties

LONDON (AP) — A government-appointed review body on the payment of doctors proposed Wednesday that general practitioners in the national health service should have raises which would add £1,000 ($3,000) to their average annual income. It also proposed an over-all increase of about 13½ per cent in the salaries of hospital doctors and dentists, but with considerable variations between different grades.

The report called the conditions under which junior doctors in hospitals sometimes worked as "almost monastic." A first-year salary of £812 for a qualified doctor of 24 or 25 was far too low by any standard and bore no relation to the work load and responsibility he was expected to undertake, the review body said.

The system of increased payments would involve allowances for seniority or special experience, group practice, payments for night visits, aid in employing help, and compensation for goodwill of the practice when the doctor retires at 70.

STRIKE VOTE 'FIRST'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America (CLC) will take "immediate steps" to conduct a strike vote in its dispute with coast lumber operators, regional chairman Jack Moore said today.

The decision followed an announcement by William Sands, deputy labor minister, that conciliation officer John Sherlock has recommended no conciliation board be appointed in the dispute.

"The gulf between the union and the operators is as wide as at the commencement of bargaining talks," said Mr. Moore. "A solid strike vote is now the best and only way to secure worthwhile negotiations."

WANT 50 CENTS

The 26,000 coast lumber workers want a 50-cent-an-hour increase on the present basic rate of $2.36 an hour. The companies want protection against wildcat strikes written into the contract.

The present contract ends June 15.

A forest industry spokesman said the industry will not stand in the way of the strike vote by requesting government supervision.

"We don't want a strike," said John M. Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. "But if the union needs a strike vote before it will bargain for a new contract, let them take the vote so we can get down to business."

'VOTE FIRST'

"From the first day we opened negotiations on March 16 the IWA made it perfectly clear it was going to take a strike vote before it attempted any serious bargaining," Mr. Billings said.

He said that in view of this a resumption of meetings would be futile until the union takes its strike vote.

He said the industry has the right to demand a government-supervised strike vote, but will not. He said the industry will let the IWA run its own secret ballot in the interest of speeding up negotiations.

Mr. Billings noted that the union claimed that by voting overwhelmingly for strike, the members were not necessarily endorsing strike action.

"Many members of the union will legitimately wonder why they are voting.

"Usually, union members vote to strike when they reject a proposed settlement, but at this stage the union leaders have negotiated nothing.

"As far as we are concerned, this is a vote in a vacuum."

SMITH ADVISOR

Rhodesia Names Team for Talks

SALISBURY (CP)—Rhodesia today named Sir Cornelius Greenfield, chief economic adviser to Prime Minister Ian Smith, to head a three-man team to Anglo-Rhodesian talks in London next week.

A statement from the prime minister's office said the three men would leave here by air for London Saturday.

The talks, expected to begin early next week, are exploratory — to see whether any basis for negotiations exists between London and Salisbury on the dispute over the independence seized by the white-ruled British colony Nov. 11, 1965.

Other members of the Rhodesian team are S. E. Morris, chairman of the Public Services Board, and Gerald Clarke, secretary to Smith.

The British negotiators, named in London, will be Oliver Wright, Prime Minister Wilson's private secretary and close adviser who has just been named ambassador to Denmark, and Duncan Watson, assistant secretary for Commonwealth relations.

Guatemala Gunmen Hunted

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—Police mounted a search today for two top Guatemalan officials kidnapped Wednesday by gunmen.

Government Information Secretary Baltazar Morales and Supreme Court President Romeo Augusto Deleon were snatched from their cars as they drove in the city.

Morales' car was riddled with bullets and his son Fernando and his chauffeur were both killed. Morales has not been seen since and it was believed the gunmen took him in their jeep, later found abandoned.

WIRE BRIEFS

Blast In Factory

MONTREAL (UPI) — An explosion, believed caused by a bomb, ripped through a strike-bound shoe factory today shortly before 1 p.m. Police reported that one unidentified woman was killed and four other persons were hospitalized.

Students Run Wild

MADRID (Reuters) — Some 3,000 students shouting "liberty" ran wild through the Madrid University campus today, halting traffic and throwing stones at mounted police. The demonstrators were demanding more power for the students' union.

EX-MINISTER URGES:

'End U.S. Domination Of Economy'

TORONTO (CP)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon officially launched a new book today, saying he hopes it will serve as a basis for discussion of ways to overcome what he sees as the threat of United States domination of the Canadian economy.

GORDON
. . . 'still have a choice'

At the same time, he denied it marks the start of new political aims for himself or that he has any thoughts about the Liberal party leadership — at least as long as Prime Minister Pearson is on the scene.

The book, entitled A Choice for Canada, is to be published this week by McClelland and Stewart.

In it, Mr. Gordon — who resigned as finance minister last November after the last federal election — discusses foreign affairs, federal - provincial relations and social security. But its major topic is the Canadian economy and the role of U.S. investment.

REVIEWS U.S. INFLUENCE

The book reviews the extent of U.S. investment in Canada and the influence the U.S. already has over the economy and adds:

"We still have a choice. We can do the things that are necessary to regain control of our economy and thus maintain our independence.

"Or we can acquiesce in becoming a colonial dependency of the United States, with no future except the hope of eventual absorption."

Mr. Gordon told a press conference that despite some sections of the book he is not gloomy about the future of Canada or its independence.

In the book, he said, he suggests measures be considers mild which would ensure as much independence as any country could have in today's world.

SPARK DISCUSSION

He said he is anxious that Parliament take the necessary steps to guarantee Canada's independence. He hoped the book would help provoke discussion and debate on the best ways to achieve that aim.

The major economic proposals advanced in the book include:

—Reduced capital - cost allowances for foreign controlled subsidiaries;

—A withholding tax on professional fees paid to non-residents by such subsidiaries.

Challenge And Ambitions

Former finance minister Walter L. Gordon has hurled a direct challenge to the Liberal party to act now to save Canada from complete economic absorption by the United States in his new book, "A Choice for Canada: Independence or Colonial Status," which goes on sale Saturday. Ottawa political commentator Peter C. Newman reviews the book today on page 5 and discusses its implications for the future of the Liberal party and Mr. Gordon's ambitions to head the party.

AIRPLANES FLIRTED WITH DEATH

CBC Official Sounds Note Of Warning

(See Also Page 19)

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker said today the "axe will fall" if senior management decides against giving a vote of confidence to supervisory personnel for its handling of the Seven Days affair.

Mr. Walker, also general manager of the English television network, was being questioned in the Commons broadcasting committee by Ron Basford (L — Vancouver-Burrard) about Reeves Haggan, supervisor of the corporation's public affairs department.

Mr. Haggan had testified earlier that management has been trying to undermine his position and has put out indirect suggestions that he resign.

NDP Brief Urges Safety Program

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A government auto insurance agency could provide a comprehensive traffic safety program as well as compensation for accident victims, the New Democratic Party today told the royal commission on auto insurance.

Its brief was presented at Victoria Law Courts by Alex Macdonald NDP—Vancouver East).

Besides providing insurance, a government agency could:

- Have power to suspend licences of reckless drivers or those refusing to take safety training;
- Operate safety training courses, including a program for youthful drivers;
- Report on unsafe stretches of road, unsafe cars and even possibly such special problems as air pollution by auto exhaust fumes.

Mr. Macdonald said a government insurance plan would cover all British Columbians—whether pedestrians or motorists—involved in traffic accidents.

'FOR ALL VICTIMS'

"Inherent in the purpose of auto insurance should be the object of providing compensation for all victims of accidents where automobiles are involved, not just compensation for the drivers or owners of the vehicles concerned.

"This compensation should be available regardless of who is at fault."

He said private companies can only be interested in how accidents affect their shareholders, not the victims.

"It does not matter to the victim whether the vehicle that hit him was driven by a 16 or 60-year-old person, whether it was the fault of one individual or another or whether a driver was drunk or sober."

He said persons involved in traffic accidents should not have to spend time and money in litigation—quoting Ontario Chief Justice McRuer as saying:

NOT BEST METHOD

"When I see a judgment for $1,200 or $1,500 that carries with it costs amounting to nearly as much or more than the injured party receives, I cannot feel that we have devised the best method of dealing with these cases."

Mr. Macdonald said the present private auto insurance industry is costly and inefficient which spent 33 cents out of every premium dollar collected from customers on earnings and expenses during the five years "before the recent increase of 20 per and more in premium rates."

By comparison, he said, the Saskatchewan government auto insurance plan only takes 18 cents out of the premium dollar for costs.

"A 67-33 split is in itself evidence that this is not an effi-

ARGUMENT TOO MUCH FOR UMP

HALSE, England (Reuters) — Village cricket umpire Geoffrey Greenslade committed suicide following an argument with players over one of his decisions, a coroner's court was told Wednesday.

Greenslade, 35, called a batsman out in an inter-village match Saturday in this western England community. An argument ensued.

Later, the umpire was found hanging in his garage.

The local cricket club, meanwhile, has decided to sell its equipment and disband.

IN U.S.

Churches Agree On Union

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Representatives of eight major U.S. protestant denominations overwhelmingly adopted today a set of principles as a basis for uniting into one church.

The action climaxed five years of work and displayed a dramatic consensus on issues which in the past have kept Protestants apart.

It also, for the first time, set concrete guideposts for the merger undertaking.

Voting in series on each portion of the 105-page document, the meeting approved opening chapters Wednesday night and swept through additional material Thursday.

Pledging their commitment to a unified church, the mixed company of Christians set forth the basic tenets for it and declared:

"What we shall find in this venture, we believe, is nothing less than the lost greatness in the church's life."

Eight denominations, with more than 24,000,000 members and a wide range of traditions, customs and systems, are involved.

The denominations:

Episcopalians (Anglicans), Methodists, United Presbyterians, Southern Presbyterians, Evangelical United Brethern, Christian (Disciples), Africa Methodist Episcopal Church and the United Church (including Congregationalists).

SPENCER LAWYER LOSES BID

'Security Most Important'

(See also Page 28.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells, one-man royal commission investigating the Victor Spencer affair, said today the security of the country is more important than the publicity surrounding the commission hearings.

Mr. Justice Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court made the statement in rejecting a request by the lawyer representing the Spencer estate that persons who had given information to the RCMP be brought before commission hearings for examination.

He repeated the statement as he debated with lawyer Harry Rankin about the value of evidence taken in Ottawa in earlier hearings, the transcript of which was released Wednesday night.

The debate took place shortly after the Wells commission started hearings here.

The released testimony included a statement by Mr. Spencer, former postal clerk who lost his job after allegations that he was a spy for the Russians and statements by W. H. Kelly, RCMP assistant commissioner and director of security and intelligence.

Used as Agent

In it Spencer admitted he performed a number of assignments for the Soviet embassy in Ottawa. He said he eventually suspected he was "maybe" being used as an agent.

Commissioner Kelly said he thought Spencer's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Rankin objected to Mr. Justice Wells that the Kelly evidence contains a great number of allegations against Spencer.

Mr. Justice Wells agreed there was hearsay evidence but added under his terms of reference he can consider it.

Security Vital

"The security of this country is of more importance than the publicity of this hearing."

Mr. Rankin said he would not be satisfied short of the production of witnesses who had supplied the RCMP with information which made up the commissioner's report.

Mr. Justice Wells said:

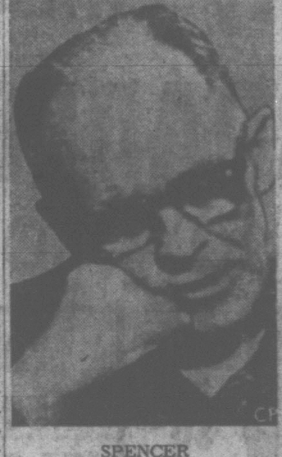
"That would involve disclosure of this country's intelligence methods."

He repeated his statement about publicity.

Mr. Rankin, after a clash with Mr. Justice Wells on the Kelly evidence, said he was sitting only as an observer.

He said he was as conscious as anyone of the need for national security, but that the RCMP official's evidence was the main testimony on which any decision would be made

Mr. Rankin refused to cross-examine Sgt. M. G. Low of the RCMP who had taken the statement from Spencer.



SPENCER

Asked by Mr. Justice Wells whether he was sitting the hearings in a "posture of pique," Mr. Rankin said he was not.

Dr. Stanley Sunshine testified to the health of Spencer, mentioning he had a cancerous lung removed in March, 1965. Asked about Spencer's mental condition, the doctor said the former postal clerk had gone through a "psychological crisis" after the removal of the lung.

'Story to Tell'

He said Spencer did not consider himself a spy and in March, 1966, he had given him a statement headed "A story I wish to tell" in which he said he was a true Canadian patriot. The statement was entered as an exhibit.

Cpl. David Turnbull of the Vancouver RCMP division said Spencer had voluntarily given him a statement denying newspaper accounts that he had been "grilled" by police.

Spencer had said the RCMP had been most co-operative.

Spencer, 62, was found dead of natural causes in his Vancouver home April 10.

In the 98-page document made public Wednesday night, RCMP security officials claimed Spencer supplied photos and information to the Soviet embassy in Ottawa that could have been used for indnustrial sabotage or a projected clandestine espionage centre near the U.S. border in B.C.

The document, a transcript of evidence taken at closed hearings in Ottawa last month and a signed statement by Spencer, labelled "top secret," revealed that Spencer supplied Soviet agents with films, and verbal and written reports on such things as:

- Farms for sale close to the U.S. border;
- Ethnic groups in Canada and their political views;
- U.S.-Canada border crossing procedures;
- Names and dates of deceased persons on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries;
- Photos of Vancouver slums and the Trans-Mountain pipeline.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified that the RCMP believed the significance of Spencer's activities "suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network" near the U.S. border.

Spencer's data and photos of the Trans-Mountain pipeline and other things in Alberta and B.C. would "fit into Russian intelli-

FARMER PULLS THE WOOL OVER SPEEDING DRIVERS

HUSBORNE CRAWLEY, England (AP) — Every two weeks 73-year-old Bill Francis drives his herd of 400 sheep down the main highway between his two farms during the morning rush hour.

The sheep take 90 minutes to cover 1¼ miles between the farms and traffic backs up while drivers honk and fume.

Francis says it's his contribution to slowing life down a bit. The rest of the time cars rush by his house at 70 miles an hour, making the highway a noisy menace.

To protesting motorists, the Bedfordshire police said a man has every right to drive sheep on the public highway. Bill's wife Mary commented:

"The public is a damned nuisance."

JUMPED 'ON IMPULSE'

Youth Survives Lions Gate Plunge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old boy, dazed, injured and wet was found on a trail in Vancouver's Stanley Park. He said he jumped on impulse from the deck of the Lions Gate bridge, 200 feet above Burrard Inlet.

Raymond Wiebe, a Grade 11 student, told police he walked out onto the bridge Wednesday night to a lookout platform and jumped.

"He said something came over him and he jumped," said Sgt. Bob Engler of the Vancouver city police.

"He said he doesn't remember anything until he was in the water, struggling to take his clothes off."

Weibe underwent emergency surgery early this morning, and is reported in fair condition in hospital. He suffered a ruptured spleen, ruptured liver, shock, exposure and abrasions in the fall.

Police were called to the scene by George Kappert, who said he ran down the trail from Stanley Park's Prospect Point after an unidentified man told him someone had jumped from the bridge.

"There was a young fellow lying on the trail — a small scrawny guy," Kapper said.

"He was dressed only in shorts and socks, and he kept muttering 'I'm cold, I'm cold.' He was conscious and coherent, but he wasn't really with it," Kapper said. "I asked what happened and he said he'd jumped from the bridge.

The youth's father, Andrew Wiebe, a parks board employee, said he was at a bingo game when told of his son's plunge.

"He was in a lot of pain when I saw him. He just said: 'I'm sorry, dad.'"

Friends said Wiebe is a good student and an avid chess player.

In the past, only two people have been known to survive the plunge from the Lions Gate bridge.

One was Oscar (the jumping Swede) Erickson, who jumped off the bridge in December, 1938, just for the heck of it, after a drinking spree.

The other was a 28-year-old Vancouver school teacher, Elaine Anna Almlie, who fell from the bridge in September, 1961, and was found clinging to a ladder on a bridge pier.

Union business manager Art O'Keefe described the terms offered as "vindictive and retaliatory" and said the company is seeking to provoke a "most serious situation."

MARKET SUMMARIES

Widespread Losses Among Mines on VSE

Losses were widespread on the mining section of the Vancouver Stock Exchange shortly before noon.

Dynasty was off 50 cents to $13.75, Croydon dropped 10 to $1.30 and Anuk was off the same amount to $1.15.

Pyramid, up $1 to $12.25, was one of the few to gain. Hogan was up 7 to 80 cents and Magnum up 4 to 60 cents.

In the industrials, Madill rose 5 cents to a 1966 high of $5.50. Pacific Coast Terminals lost $1 to $29.

Both Toronto and New York experienced losses today.

A selling squall hit Wall Street. The ticker tape ran 11 minutes late when the list was making its lows around mid-session. Losses were cut in later dealings. The selling was triggered by news of production cutbacks by General Motors.

AT TORONTO Alcan Aluminium and Bank of Nova Scotia slid 1⅜ each to 41⅝ and 68⅝.

CPR was off 1¼ to 59¼ and General Motors 1 to 95.

Bell Telephone dropped ⅝ to 53 on 14,167 shares and B.C. Telephone 2¼ to 66¾.

Western oils barked off 2.15 on index to 107.58. Scurry Rainbow paced the group down, falling 1½ to 29⅝. Banff and Canadian Superior each lost ⅝ to 15¾ and 21, and Pacific Petroleum ¼ to 12⅞.

Pine Point declined 1¾ to 60 in base metal issues. Inco was off 1½ to 100½. Denison and Rio Algom ¾ each to 48 and 23½.

AT NEW YORK IBM, Braniff Airways and Admiral showed losses of about half a dozen points while Motorola was off more than seven.

General Motors, along with Ford and Chrysler, showed only fractional losses.

The major steelworkers had a string of fractional gains.

The glamor stocks in the electronics - color television - aerospace-airlines group were hardest hit.

AT MONTREAL banks were up, but most other sections moved fractionally lower in moderate trading.

AT LONDON the market was firmer today although some service companies' shares were still on the dull side.

Dollar stocks were mixed. In Canadians, Algoma, BA Oil, Canadian Husky, Consolidated Paper, Consolidated Mining and Massey-Ferguson firmed a little. Hollinger, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas, International Nickel, Noranda and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines were slightly easier.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were mixed today in moderate trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. There was some export interest.

Flax prices resumed Wednesday's declines, depressed by lower European linseed oil prices. A revival in export interest halted declines in rapeseed prices.

Pulp Workers Dispute Goes to Conciliation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Conciliation officer George Carmichael has been appointed to work out a settlement in a contract dispute involving 7,000 workers in the B.C. pulp industry.

Negotiations broke down last week and officials say it will be several days before new talks under Carmichael's direction can be arranged.

The embattled gentlemen at Ottawa may not have noticed, but in spite of the uproar in Commons, Canada does seem to be limping along in reasonably good order.

What we've been getting these many months is government-by-deputy, and since the career civil servant is competent and usually honest, we could do — and have done — very much worse.

This raises some interesting questions, one of which concerns the large sums we pony up each year through taxes to fee 265 representatives whose chief present contribution to the public weal seems to be in the field of entertainment.

I'll admit it's a pretty good circus, with its Conservative scandal in this ring, Liberal in that, and centre, the duel of the gladiators. However, that's not what we sent these people to Parliament for and I think it's high time our lawmakers buckled down to the business for which they draw their pay.

In fairness, I suggest that a great many members and most ministers are unhappy over Parliament's present shoddy role. But until Prime Minister Pearson becomes true master of his House and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker ceases to indulge his personal vendetta, we can expect no change for the better.

★

It is early to estimate just how much damage these scandal-ridden months have done to the concept of central government.

I think we are less unified now than we were not much over a year ago, when our new maple leaf flag first took the breeze. Even those of us who accepted the change reluctantly were able to salve the wrench to our emotions with the knowledge that Mr. Pearson's government had acted firmly and decisively in a matter of national importance.

That day seems distant, pushed into the past less by time than by a miserably inconclusive election and a further sequence of disappointments. It is now obvious to anyone with an ear to listen, that the federal authority has suffered a grave and weakening loss of respect.

Even the rowdiest provincial legislature stands as a model of parliamentary propriety when contrasted with the federal House.

It is much easier, and far less bewildering, to be simply a British Columbian, or a Manitoban, or a Newfoundlander. We are Canadians too, of course; but perhaps less fervently than when the flags and the government that decreed it was new.

When the last scandal is aired, and Commons turns its hand to worthier pursuits, there will be fences to mend in the provinces. And it will take more than the extravaganzas of Expo 67 to make good the harm of recent months.

★

It is easy to brand John Diefenbaker the villain of the piece, and certainly his unbridled hatred of his Liberal adversary has quite over-ruled the opposition leader's judgment. In his attacks, he has been violent, reckless and irresponsible.

But where lies the fault? With the punch-drunk old politico, or with the Conservative party which, at its last convention, persisted in retaining him as its leader?

I am sick of this blind partyism which seeks only to destroy, and chooses a leader solely for his qualities as a battering-ram.

Mr. Pearson is not a statesman. We have had precious few of those in our national history. I'm not sure he is even a very good politician; if he were, he might have evaded the morass into which certain of his ministers have led him.

When these years can be seen in perspective, it is possible that the best to be said of him will be that he tried harder than most to make Confederation work.

Still, I suspect he will be remembered more kindly than the men who are robbing him of his chance.

'STRICTLY FOR KITCHEN ARTISTS'

Weirdos in Hat Hit Parade

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A hat made out of a pie plate!

A hat made out of a sink strainer!

A hat made out of a toilet seat cover!

These were among the weird and wonderful creations presented to an audience of 350 in the Silver Threads Centre Wednesday afternoon.

It was a spoof fashion parade dreamed up by nine ingenious members of the Silver Threads organization and the audience responded to it with gales of laughter.

The show, organized by Mrs. John Vellacott, was a variation on the Wednesday concert which packs the Silver Threads concert hall every week.

"Here are the hats of tomorrow," said Mrs. Vellacott, "hats without which no wardrobe is complete."

SEAT COVER

Mrs. Eva Keating wore the pie-plate hat, adorned with a balloon. Mrs. A. V. Kerridge paraded the sink strainer hat. Mrs. F. Craig produced the hat made out of a toilet seat cover. Mrs. C. Shawcross wore a bath-spray hat.

Next came Mrs. E. Touching with a chore-boy hat, made out of a dishcloth.

"Especially suitable for kitchen artists," said commentator Mrs. Vellacott.

Mrs. Ethel Keating paraded the tea cosy hat, complete with feather and a sprig of posies. Mrs. F. Boyce presented the hot-water-bottle hat, adorned with a ribbon.

RAISED THE ROOF

Mrs. John Bull offered the soup-strainer hat and Mrs. Joe Wynan raised the roof with her chamber-pot hat.

Local Places to Hide Hunted by Students

About 30 University of Victoria students will set to work 10 days from now in a government survey of buildings in Greater Victoria which could serve as fallout shelters in the event of nuclear war.

The students will be supervised by federal engineers and will work in teams of two to record how solid and how big structures are, the availability of water in them and the degree of ventilation.

All residences, whether single family dwellings, duplexes, or row houses will be excluded from the survey as well as apartment buildings with fewer than seven units.

The only other buildings, whether public or private which will not be noted are those owned or operated by the Department of National Defence or those with a floor area of less than 1,000 square feet.

The fallout protection survey is part of a long-term study announced by Ottawa early last year and is aimed at determining how much protected space in existing buildings throughout B.C. might be available to the public during an emergency.

CIVIL DEFENCE

The study is being carried out by the Department of Public Works on behalf of the Canada Emergency Measures Organization and with the active co-operation of the province's civil defence organization.

Designation of buildings as shelters or alterations to bring them to shelter standards will not be undertaken at this time.

The specially trained crews will record data on public buildings, schools, institutions, churches and suitable privately-owned buildings.

There will be no interference with occupants and a minimum of questions will be asked, said A. W. Walker, provincial executive head of the public works department.

The students will be at work throughout the summer and more may be hired later, J. H. Erb, provincial civil defence co-ordinator, said today.

He ha recently returned from a visit to Olympia, Wash., where, he said, the American survival facilities program is well ahead of its Canadian counterpart.

WATER SUPPLIES

There are stores of water and "a sort of survival biscuit" now in the basement of the capital building there.

The aim of the U.S. program is eventually to provide shelter space for 100 per cent of the population. He estimated the Americans were about at the halfway point.

Mr. Erb said he imagines the Canadian program has the same ultimate objective.

One of the problems of organizing fallout shelters in dense urban areas is that they require two shelter concentrations, one when the workers are downtown during the day and the other when people go home to the suburbs at night.

SUSSEXVALE IN SPOTLIGHT

Marine figurehead of Nanaimo's Navy Day festivities this weekend will be Esquimalt - based, ocean - escort HMCS Sussexvale.

The ship, commanded by Lieut. - Commander F. W. Crickard, will arrive in Nanaimo Friday afternoon and will be open for organized tours Saturday morning and to the general public Sunday afternoon.

The ship's company will join a downtown parade Saturday afternoon. Two T-33 Silver Star jets and a tracker aircraft from the navy's anti-submarine base at Patricia Bay are slated to fly over the parade.

The Sussexvale will leave Nanaimo Sunday for exercises off the coast.

Can't Tell Planners Without a Program

Ald. Clyde Savage confessed to a little confusion when confronted with a request that the city sponsor a luncheon for the Town Planning Institute of Canada in July.

"How many planning groups do we have?" he asked city finance committee today.

"We have city planners, regional planners, community planners and now town planners. Every time I open the newspaper I read of more planners. I'm getting a little confused trying to keep track of them."

Assured that the Institute was a reputable organization, Ald. Savage agreed that the Intermunicipal Committee should be asked to pick up the lunch tab.

The same committee will also be asked to sponsor a dinner for a group of travel agents due here in June.

The request for the travel group dinner came from Air Canada which each year plans a tour for travel specialists from Eastern Canada and the United States.

Finance committee agreed this morning to put up its annual silver medallion for the best marksman in the City of Victoria shooting match sponsored by the B.C. Rifle Association.

The match will be held in North Vancouver during the week of July 4-10.

BURGLARS RAID MAYOR'S HOME

Mayor Alfred Toone's home was one of three dwellings broken into Wednesday night.

The mayor, who lives at 1003 Moss, is vacationing in Europe.

Police said the home was entered through garage and basement doors.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and an envelope containg about $5 in silver was taken.

The home was entered several months ago when a thief broke in through a basement window. That time, little was stolen.

Four watches were taken from Horace Miller who is living aboard his boat Mobey Dick at the Causeway floats.

WATCHES

Police said the thief entered through a forward hatch and took a wrist watch, stop watch and two pocket watches.

A thief walked into the home of Mrs. James Fisher of 841 Jasmine and asked her for money.

Police said she handed him a cash box containing $5 plus a portfolio which held a quantity of blank cheques.

The woman is a treasurer for a local bingo group, for whom she was holding the money.

Radiation Experts Set Rally

About 125 doctors from B.C., Washington and Oregon are expected to attend the 20th annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Radiological Society this weekend at the Empress Hotel.

Main speakers will be Dr. Harold G. Jacobson, chief of Division of Diagnostic Radiation at Monterfiori Hospital in New York City who will speak on bone, and Dr. Robert Fraser, chief of the same division at Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, to address the convention on chest.

Proceedings will begin Friday evening and end Sunday.

SHIP MOVEMENTS

NAVY

HMCS St. Croix out; Sussexvale due in this afternoon; Grilse returns Friday.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORT

Camsell due at Tofino tonight, at Cape Beale Friday; Estevan due in port 9 p.m. today; Sir James Douglas and Ready in for refit; Racer in Sandheads patrol area; Stonetown on Station Papa; St. Catharines in port.

THREE ACCIDENT VICTIMS IMPROVE

Three persons critically injured in recent accidents continue to show improvement.

Frank Nelson, 18, who fell 65 feet from a power pylon last week is reported in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Also at St. Joseph's is Robert Hodge, 36, of 2525 Scott St. who is in fairly good condition after his van was in collision with a fire truck at a downtown intersection.

Gary Fenwick, 5, of 5165 Cordova Bay Rd. is in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital where he is recovering from skull, jaw and leg fractures sustained when he was in collision with a cement truck in front of his home.

Tax Line Held By Esquimalt

Homeowner Grants Key to Reduction

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A record budget of $1,598,000, and featuring a cut in taxes for most ratepayers, was announced today for Esquimalt.

Esquimalt thus stays in line with Victoria and Saanich, who have also announced bigger budgets this year with slight tax reductions.

The mill rate for 1966 was struck at 49.7, an increase of 1.1 mills over last year's rate.

Overall effect of the $1,598,000 budget, however, will be "a slight decrease in taxes for the majority of taxpayers in Esquimalt," Reeve Ray Bryant said.

"Despite increasing costs, particularly in the area of intermunicipal cost sharing, and the 5 per cent total increase in wages and salaries, we have been able to satisfactorily do even better than hold the line."

SCHOOL TAXES

Reeve Bryant credited the tax reduction to an increase in the provincial homeowner grant and adjustment in the school mill rate.

Esquimalt's mill rate, "still the lowest in Greater Victoria" compares favorably with mill rates of 62.5 for the city and 51.6 and 54.5 for Saanich.

The slight tax cut marks the first time in may years all three municipalities have announced minor reductions in the tax field.

ASSESSMENTS

Taxes on Esquimalt homes valued up to $18,000 will decrease as a result of the mill rate "subject to any increase in assessment this year," said Reeve Bryant.

Taxes will increase, however on homes valued at about $20,000 and up, he said.

Tax cuts will be about $6.75 on a $7,500 house, $4.78 on a $12,000 house, and $2.15 on an $18,000 house, he said.

Fire and police costs, listed separately although services in the municipality are meshed, total $180,800, with the police department receiving $127,800 of this.

Five Youths Break Out Of Detention

Police are searching for five youths who escaped from the city's juvenile detention home at 1125 Pembroke Wednesday afternoon.

The five are aged 16 and 17 years.

One escaped barefoot but the other four were wearing shoes.

One car has been reported stolen since the youths escaped custody but police have not received any reports of missing shoes.

Curtis Eyes Summit Talk Over Sewers

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said today he will discuss further with Mayor Toone a denial from City Hall Wednesday that Victoria would participate in the cost of a $23,000,000 inter-municipal sewer system.

Acting mayor Geoffrey Edgelow said although the city had shared in the cost of the year-long study it had never committed itself to any sewer program.

"It was the acting mayor who made that statement," said Reeve Curtis, "and I want to discuss this further with the mayor.

"The sewage problem is not Saanich's alone."

Areas included in the sewer study were Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday the costs of the sewer system would be borne entirely by the municipalities but would be projected over the years to 1985.

Interior Choir To Sing Here

A choir of 120 voices and an 86-piece orchestra from Kelowna Senior Secondary School will be heard at a concert in Central Junior Secondary School at 8 p.m. Friday.

All the musicians are in Grades 10, 11 and 12. Their conductor is J. Gar McKinley, president of B.C. Music Educators' Association.

They have been consistent winners at Okanagan Valley music festivals and have produced a number of high school musical shows.

Ask The Times

Q. I noticed the Queen's Own Rifles were celebrating their 106th anniversary. How is this justified when they were formed before 1867? G. S. T.

A. Regular forces were provided by England, but the QORs were originally formed as a militia unit—the Second Battalion, Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada.

Q. Which of the Victoria Maple Leafs are not married? L. K.

A. They are rookies Mike Corrigan, Dave Parenteau, winger Dick Lamoureux and spare goalie Garry Holland according to a team spokesman.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

WINNER of the final round in the Greater Victoria Optimist Clubs' annual public speaking contest is Gregory Clark, 11, of 1010 Moss. Finishing second in the competition at the Century Inn Wednesday was Daniel Laurence, 11, of 3113 Tillicum. Gregory will represent Victoria in the district championships at Boise, Ida., May 20, competing against boys from B.C., Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

B.C. Tel Profit Limit 'Cold Comfort'

An NDP spokesman today said the limit on B.C. Telephone company's profit rate is "cold comfort" to its customers.

Alex Macdonald also said he was amazed to find Attorney-General Robert Bonner hailing the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling to confirm the status quo. (See earlier story Page 3.)

"As a watchdog of the public interest, he is asleep on the job," said the Vancouver-East MLA.

He slammed the board's decision as "cold comfort for subscribers in this province.

"Although our rates are about double the prairie provinces, we are told they might be cut back a bit if profits rise even more.

"We've been dealt another joker from the same old deck."

He said the board's 6.6 per cent return on capital ceiling "is misleading.

"Shareholders' return on capital invested is running at more than 12 per cent, apart from hidden profits to affiliated companies.

"The board turns a blind eye on identical prices quoted for telephone sets and parts by so-called competing companies, which are all part of the telephone cartel."

Mr. Macdonald delivered a major speech attacking the telephone companies operating in Canada at the last session as the NDP's chief expert on the subject.

He added this morning his party "will not be deflected by this decision.

"Public ownership of B.C. Tel, and immediate rate reductions, will be a major issue in the coming election."

"Here are the hats of tomorrow," said Mrs. Vellacott, "hats without which no wardrobe is complete."

SEAT COVER

Mrs. Eva Keating wore the pie-plate hat, adorned with a balloon. Mrs. A. V. Kerridge paraded the sink strainer hat. Mrs. F. Craig produced the hat made out of a toilet seat cover. Mrs. C. Shawcross wore a bath-spray hat.

Next came Mrs. E. Touching with a chore-boy hat, made out of a dishcloth.

"Especially suitable for kitchen artists," said commentator Mrs. Vellacott.

Mrs. Ethel Keating paraded the tea cosy hat, complete with feather and a sprig of posies. Mrs. F. Boyce presented the hot-water-bottle hat, adorned with a ribbon.

RAISED THE ROOF

Mrs. John Bull offered the soup-strainer hat and Mrs. Joe Wynan raised the roof with her chamber-pot hat.

Local Places to Hide Hunted by Students

About 30 University of Victoria students will set to work 10 days from now in a government survey of buildings in Greater Victoria which could serve as fallout shelters in the event of nuclear war.

The students will be supervised by federal engineers and will work in teams of two to record how solid and how big structures are, the availability of water in them and the degree of ventilation.

All residences, whether single family dwellings, duplexes, or row houses will be excluded from the survey as well as apartment buildings with fewer than seven units.

The only other buildings, whether public or private which will not be noted are those owned or operated by the Department of National Defence or those with a floor area of less than 1,000 square feet.

The fallout protection survey is part of a long-term study announced by Ottawa early last year and is aimed at determining how much protected space in existing buildings throughout B.C. might be available to the public during an emergency.

CIVIL DEFENCE

The study is being carried out by the Department of Public Works on behalf of the Canada Emergency Measures Organization and with the active co-operation of the province's civil defence organization.

Designation of buildings as shelters or alterations to bring them to shelter standards will not be undertaken at this time.

The specially trained crews will record data on public buildings, schools, institutions, churches and suitable privately-owned buildings.

There will be no interference with occupants and a minimum of questions will be asked, said A. W. Walker, provincial executive head of the public works department.

The students will be at work throughout the summer and more may be hired later, J. H. Erb, provincial civil defence co-ordinator, said today.

He has recently returned from a visit to Olympia, Wash., where, he said, the American survival facilities program is well ahead of its Canadian counterpart.

WATER SUPPLIES

There are stores of water and "a sort of survival biscuit" now in the basement of the capital building there.

The aim of the U.S. program is eventually to provide shelter space for 100 per cent of the population. He estimated the Americans were about at the halfway point.

Mr. Erb said he imagines the Canadian program has the same ultimate objective.

One of the problems of organizing fallout shelters in dense urban areas is that they require two shelter concentrations, one when the workers are downtown during the day and the other when people go home to the suburbs at night.

BURGLARS RAID MAYOR'S HOME

Mayor Alfred Toone's home was one of three dwellings broken into Wednesday night.

The mayor, who lives at 1003 Moss, is vacationing in Europe.

Police said the home was entered through garage and basement doors.

Two bedrooms were ransacked and an envelope containg about $5 in silver was taken.

The home was entered several months ago when a thief broke in through a basement window. That time, little was stolen.

Four watches were taken from Horace Miller who is living aboard his boat Moby Dick at the Causeway floats.

WATCHES

Police said the thief entered through a forward hatch and took a wrist watch, stop watch and two pocket watches.

A thief walked into the home of Mrs. James Fisher of 841 Jasmine and asked her for money.

Police said she handed him a cash box containing $5 plus a portfolio which held a quantity of blank cheques.

The woman is a treasurer for a local bingo group, for whom she was holding the money.

THREE ACCIDENT VICTIMS IMPROVE

Three persons critically injured in recent accidents continue to show improvement.

Frank Nelson, 18, who fell 65 feet from a power pylon last week is reported in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Also at St. Joseph's is Robert Hodge, 36, of 2525 Scott St. who is in fairly good condition after his van was in collision with a fire truck at a downtown intersection.

Gary Fenwick, 5, of 5165 Cordova Bay Rd. is in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital where he is recovering from skull, jaw and leg fractures sustained when he was in collision with a cement truck in front of his home.

B.C. Tel Profit Limit 'Cold Comfort'

An NDP spokesman today said the limit on B.C. Telephone company's profit rate is "cold comfort" to its customers.

Alex Macdonald also said he was amazed to find Attorney-General Robert Bonner hailing the Board of Transport Commissioners' ruling to confirm the status quo. (See earlier story Page 3.)

"As a watchdog of the public interest, he is asleep on the job," said the Vancouver-East MLA.

He slammed the board's decision as "cold comfort for subscribers in this province.

"Although our rates are about double the prairie provinces, we are told they might be cut back a bit if profits rise even more.

"We've been dealt another joker from the same old deck."

He said the board's 6.6 per cent ceiling on profits "is misleading.

"Shareholders' return on capital invested is running at more than 12 per cent, apart from hidden profits to affiliated companies.

"The board turns a blind eye on identical prices quoted for telephone sets and parts by so-called competing companies, which are all part of the telephone cartel."

Mr. Macdonald delivered a major speech attacking the telephone companies operating in Canada at the last session as the NDP's chief expert on the subject.

He added this morning his party "will not be deflected by this decision.

"Public ownership of B.C. Tel, and immediate rate reductions, will be a major issue in the coming election."

SUSSEXVALE IN SPOTLIGHT

Marine figurehead of Nanaimo's Navy Day festivities this weekend will be Esquimalt - based, ocean - escort HMCS Sussexvale.

The ship, commanded by Lieut. - Commander F. W. Crickard, will arrive in Nanaimo Friday afternoon and will be open for organized tours Saturday morning and to the general public Sunday afternoon.

The ship's company will join a downtown parade Saturday afternoon. Two T-33 Silver Star jets and a tracker aircraft from the navy's anti-submarine base at Patricia Bay are slated to fly over the parade.

The Sussexvale will leave Nanaimo Sunday for exercises off the coast.

Tax Line Held By Esquimalt

Homeowner Grants Key to Reduction

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

A record budget of $1,598,000, and featuring a cut in taxes for most ratepayers, was announced today for Esquimalt.

Esquimalt thus stays in line with Victoria and Saanich, who have also announced bigger budgets this year with slight tax reductions.

The mill rate for 1966 was struck at 49.7, an increase of 1.1 mills over last year's rate.

Overall effect of the $1,598,000 budget, however, will be "a slight decrease in taxes for the majority of taxpayers in Esquimalt," Reeve Ray Bryant said.

"Despite increasing costs, particularly in the area of inter-municipal cost sharing, and the 5 per cent total increase in wages and salaries, we have been able to satisfactorily do even better than hold the line."

SCHOOL TAXES

Reeve Bryant credited the tax reduction to an increase in the provincial homeowner grant and adjustment in the school mill rate.

Esquimalt's mill rate, "still the lowest in Greater Victoria" compares favorably with mill rates of 62.5 for the city and 51.6 and 54.5 for Saanich.

The slight tax cut marks the first time in many years all three municipalities have announced minor reductions in the tax field.

ASSESSMENTS

Taxes on Esquimalt homes valued up to $18,000 will decrease as a result of the mill rate "subject to any increase in assessment this year," said Reeve Bryant.

Taxes will increase, however on homes valued at about $20,000 and up, he said.

Tax cuts will be about $6.75 on a $7,500 house, $4.78 on a $12,000 house, and $2.15 on an $18,000 house, he said.

Fire and police costs, listed separately although services in the municipality are meshed, total $180,800, with the police department receiving $127,800 of this.

Can't Tell Planners Without a Program

Ald. Clyde Savage confessed to a little confusion when confronted with a request that the city sponsor a luncheon for the Town Planning Institute of Canada in July.

"How many planning groups do we have?" he asked city finance committee today.

"We have city planners, regional planners, community planners and now town planners. Every time I open the newspaper I read of more planners. I'm getting a little confused trying to keep track of them."

Assured that the Institute was a reputable organization, Ald. Savage agreed that the Inter-municipal Committee should be asked to pick up the lunch tab.

The same committee will also be asked to sponsor a dinner for a group of travel agents due here in June.

The request for the travel group dinner came from Air Canada which each year plans a tour for travel specialists from Eastern Canada and the United States.

Finance committee agreed this morning to put up its annual silver medallion for the best marksman in the City of Victoria shooting match sponsored by the B.C. Rifle Association.

The match will be held in North Vancouver during the week of July 4-10.

Radiation Experts Set Rally

About 125 doctors from B.C., Washington and Oregon are expected to attend the 20th annual meeting of the Pacific Northwest Radiological Society this weekend at the Empress Hotel.

Main speakers will be Dr. Harold G. Jacobson, chief of Division of Diagnostic Radiation at Monterfiori Hospital in New York City who will speak on bone, and Dr. Robert Fraser, chief of the same division at Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal, to address the convention on chest.

Proceedings will begin Friday evening and end Sunday.

Finishing second in the competition at the Century Inn Wednesday was Daniel Laurence, 11, of 3113 Tillicum. Gregory will represent Victoria in the district championships at Boise, Ida., May 20, competing against boys from B.C., Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Five Youths Break Out Of Detention

Police are searching for five youths who escaped from the city's juvenile detention home at 1125 Pembroke Wednesday afternoon.

The five are aged 16 and 17 years.

One escaped barefoot but the other four were wearing shoes.

One car has been reported stolen since the youths escaped custody but police have not received any reports of missing shoes.

Curtis Eyes Summit Talk Over Sewers

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis said today he will discuss further with Mayor Toone a denial from City Hall Wednesday that Victoria would participate in the cost of a $23,000,000 inter-municipal sewer system.

Acting mayor Geoffrey Edgelow said although the city had shared in the cost of the year-long study it had never committed itself to any sewer program.

"It was the acting mayor who made that statement," said Reeve Curtis, "and I want to discuss this further with the mayor.

"The sewage problem is not Saanich's alone."

Areas included in the sewer study were Saanich Peninsula, Colwood and Greater Victoria.

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell said Wednesday the costs of the sewer system would be borne entirely by the municipalities but would be projected over the years to 1985.

Interior Choir To Sing Here

A choir of 120 voices and an 86-piece orchestra from Kelowna Senior Secondary School will be heard at a concert in Central Junior Secondary School at 8 p.m. Friday.

All the musicians are in Grades 10, 11 and 12. Their conductor is J. Gar McKinley, president of B.C. Music Educators' Association.

They have been consistent winners at Okanagan Valley music festivals and have produced a number of high school musical shows,

Ask The Times

Q. I noticed the Queen's Own Rifles were celebrating their 106th anniversary. Were they originally a British unit?

A. Regular forces were provided by England, but the QORs were originally formed as a militia unit—the Second Battalion, Volunteer Militia Rifles of Canada.

Q. Which of the Victoria Maple Leafs are not married? L. K.

A. They are rookies Mike Corrigan, Dave Parenteau, winger Dick Lamoureux and spare goalie Garry Holland, according to a team spokesman.

Anyone wanting a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

IWA WILL TAKE STRIKE VOTE

Secret Ballot Slated

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America (CLC) will take "immediate steps" to conduct a strike vote in its dispute with coast lumber operators, regional chairman Jack Moore said today.

The decision followed an announcement by William Sands, deputy labor minister, that conciliation officer John Sherlock has recommended no conciliation board be appointed in the dispute.

"The gulf between the union and the operators is as wide as at the commencement of bargaining talks," said Mr. Moore.

"A solid strike vote is now the best and only way to secure worthwhile negotiations."

WANT 50 CENTS

The 26,000 coast lumber workers want a 50-cent-an-hour increase on the present basic rate of $2.36 an hour. The companies want protection against wildcat strikes written into the contract.

The present contract ends June 15.

A forest industry spokesman said the industry will not stand in the way of the strike vote by requesting government supervision.

"We don't want a strike," said John M. Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. "But if the union needs a strike vote before it will bargain for a new contract, let them take the vote so we can get down to business."

'VOTE FIRST'

"From the first day we opened negotiations on March 16 the IWA made it perfectly clear it was going to take a strike vote before it attempted any serious bargaining," Mr. Billings said.

He said that in view of this a resumption of meetings would be futile until the union takes its strike vote.

He said the industry has the right to demand a government-supervised strike vote, but will not. He said the industry will let the IWA run its own secret ballot in the interest of speeding up negotiations.

Mr. Billings noted that the union claimed that by voting overwhelmingly for strike, the members were not necessarily endorsing strike action.

"Many members of the union will legitimately wonder why they are voting.

"Usually, union members vote to strike when they reject a proposed settlement, but at this stage the union leaders have negotiated nothing.

"As far as we are concerned, this is a vote in a vacuum."

NEW YORK (AP)—A record field of approximately 2,500 has filed entry for the U.S. Open golf championship June 16-19 at the Olympic Country Club in San Francisco, the U.S. Golf Association announced today.

Chicago Candidate Shot In Office

CHICAGO (AP)—A candidate for Congress in Chicago's June 14 primary election was shot and wounded early today as he worked in his campaign headquarters on the south side.

Cavalry Flushes Viet Cong Force

SAIGON (AP)—The U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division flushed the first sizable Viet Cong force in three weeks today, reporting it killed 100 Viet Cong with possibly 300 to 400 more trapped in a valley.

INSURANCE PROBE TOLD

All Victims Must Receive Compensation

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

A government auto insurance agency could provide a comprehensive traffic safety program as well as compensation for accident victims, the New Democratic Party today told the royal commission on auto insurance.

Its brief was presented at Victoria Law Courts by Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East).

Besides providing insurance, a government agency could:

- Have power to suspend licences of reckless drivers or those refusing to take safety training;
- Operate safety training courses, including a program for youthful drivers;
- Report on unsafe stretches of road, unsafe cars and ev possibly such special problems as air pollution by auto exhaust fumes.

Mr. Macdonald said a government insurance plan would cover all British Columbians—whether pedestrians or motorists—involved in traffic accidents.

'FOR ALL VICTIMS'

"Inherent in the purpose of auto insurance should be the object of providing compensation for all victims of accidents where automobiles are involved, not just compensation for the drivers or owners of the vehicles concerned.

"This compensation should be available regardless of who is at fault."

He said private companies can only be interested in how accidents affect their shareholders, not the victims.

"It does not matter to the victim whether the vehicle that hit him was driven by a 16 or 60-year-old person, whether it was the fault of one individual or another or whether a driver was drunk or sober."

He said persons involved in traffic accidents should not have to spend time and money in litigation—quoting Ontario Chief Justice McRuer as saying:

NOT BEST METHOD

"When I see a judgment for $1,200 or $1,500 that carries with it costs amounting to nearly as much or more than the injured party receives, I cannot feel that we have devised the best method of dealing with these cases."

Mr. Macdonald said the present private auto insurance industry is costly and inefficient which spent 33 cents out of every premium dollar collected from customers on earnings and expenses during the five years "before the recent increase of 20 per and more in premium rates."

By comparison, he said, the Saskatchewan government auto insurance plan only takes 18 cents out of the premium dollar for costs.

"A 67-33 split is in itself evidence that this is not an effi-

EX-MINISTER URGES:

'End U.S. Domination Of Economy'

TORONTO (CP)—Former finance minister Walter Gordon officially launched a new book today, saying he hopes it will serve as a basis for discussion of ways to overcome what he sees as the threat of United States domination of the Canadian economy.

At the same time, he denied it marks the start of new political aims for himself or that he has any thoughts about the Liberal party leadership — at least as long as Prime Minister Pearson is on the scene.

The book, entitled A Choice for Canada, is to be published this week by McClelland and Stewart.

In it, Mr. Gordon — who resigned as finance minister last November after the last federal election — discusses foreign affairs, federal - provincial relations and social security. But its major topic is the Canadian economy and the role of U.S. investment.

REVIEWS U.S. INFLUENCE

The book reviews the extent of U.S. investment in Canada and the influence the U.S. already has over the economy and adds:

"We still have a choice. We can do the things that are necessary to regain control of our economy and thus maintain our independence.

"Or we can acquiesce in becoming a colonial dependency of the United States, with no future except the hope of eventual absorption."

Mr. Gordon told a press conference that despite some sections of the book he is not gloomy about the future of Canada or its independence.

In the book, he said, he suggests measures he considers mild which would ensure as much independence as any country could have in today's world.

SPARK DISCUSSION

He said he is anxious that Parliament take the necessary steps to guarantee Canada's independence. He hoped the book would help provoke discussion and debate on the best ways to achieve that aim.

The major economic proposals advanced in the book include:

—Reduced capital - cost allowances for foreign controlled subsidiaries;

—A withholding tax on professional fees paid to nonresidents by such subsidiaries.

AIRPLANES FLIRTED WITH DEATH

PARIS (Reuters)—Workmen repairing the main runway of Orly Airport discovered Wednesday a land mine and six 105-mm. shells just below its surface. The runway was used by about 300 planes a day until it was closed recently for resurfacing.

CBC Official Sounds Note Of Warning

(See Also Page 19)

OTTAWA (CP) — CBC Vice-President H. G. Walker said today the "axe will fall" if senior management decides against giving a vote of confidence to supervisory personnel for its handling of the Seven Days affair.

Mr. Walker, also general manager of the English television network, was being questioned in the Commons broadcasting committee by Ron Basford (L — Vancouver-Burrard) about Reeves Haggan, supervisor of the corporation's public affairs department.

Mr. Haggan had testified earlier that management has been trying to undermine his position and has put out indirect suggestions that he resign.

Mr. Walker said senior management will decide at an early date whether sufficient effort was made at the supervisory level to prevent the issue about removing the co-hosts of This Hour Has Seven Days from bursting into a public controversy.

FARMER PULLS THE WOOL OVER SPEEDING DRIVERS

HUSBORNE CRAWLEY, England (AP) — Every two weeks 73-year-old Bill Francis drives his herd of 400 sheep down the main highway between his two farms during the morning rush hour.

The sheep take 90 minutes to cover 1¼ miles between the farms and traffic backs up while drivers honk and fume.

Francis says it's his contribution to slowing life down a bit. The rest of the time cars rush by his house at 70 miles an hour, making the highway a noisy menace.

To protesting motorists, the Bedfordshire police said a man has every right to drive sheep on the public highway. Bill's wife Mary commented: "The public is a damned nuisance."

IN U.S.

Churches Agree On Union

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Representatives of eight major U.S. Protestant denominations overwhelmingly adopted today a set of principles as a basis for uniting into one church.

The action climaxed five years of work and displayed a dramatic consensus on issues which in the past have kept Protestants apart.

It also, for the first time, set concrete guideposts for the merger undertaking.

Voting in series on each portion of the 105-page document, the meeting approved opening chapters Wednesday night and swept through additional material Thursday.

Pledging their commitment to a unified church, the mixed company of Christians set forth the basic tenets for it and declared:

"What we shall find in this venture, we believe, is nothing less than the lost greatness in the church's life."

Eight denominations, with more than 24,000,000 members and a wide range of traditions, customs and systems, are involved.

The denominations:

Episcopalians (Anglicans), Methodists, United Presbyterians, Southern Presbyterians, Evangelical United Brethren, Christian (Disciples), Africa Methodist Episcopal Church and the United Church (including Congregationalists).

SMITH ADVISER

Rhodesia Names Team for Talks

SALISBURY (CP)—Rhodesia today named Sir Cornelius Greenfield, chief economic adviser to Prime Minister Ian Smith, to head a three-man team to Anglo-Rhodesian talks in London next week.

A statement from the prime minister's office said the three men would leave here by air for London Saturday.

The talks, expected to begin early next week, are exploratory — to see whether any basis for negotiations exists between London and Salisbury on the dispute over the independ- British colony Nov. 11, 1965.

ence seized by the white-ruled

Other members of the Rhodesian team are S. E. Morris, chairman of the Public Services Board, and Gerald Clarke, secretary to Smith.

The British negotiators, named in London, will be Oliver Wright, Prime Minister Wilson's private secretary and close adviser who has just been named ambassador to Denmark, and Duncan Watson, assistant secretary for Commonwealth relations.

ARGUMENT TOO MUCH FOR UMP

HALSE, England (Reuters) — Village cricket umpire Geoffrey Greenslade committed suicide following an argument with players over one of his decisions, a coroner's court was told Wednesday.

Greenslade, 35, called a batsman out in an inter-village match Saturday in this western England community. An argument ensued.

Later, the umpire was found hanging in his garage.

The local cricket club, meanwhile, has decided to sell its equipment and disband.

SPENCER LAWYER LOSES BID

'Security Most Important'

(See also Page 28.)

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells, one-man royal commission investigating the Victor Spencer affair, said today the security of the country is more important than the publicity surrounding the commission hearings.

Mr. Justice Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court made the statement in rejecting a request by the lawyer representing the Spencer estate that persons who had given information to the RCMP be brought before commission hearings for examination.

He repeated the statement as he debated with lawyer Harry Rankin about the value of evidence taken in Ottawa in earlier hearings, the transcript of which was released Wednesday night.

The debate took place shortly after the Wells commission started hearings here.

The released testimony included a statement by Mr. Spencer, former postal clerk who lost his job after allegations that he was a spy for the Russians and statements by W. H. Kelly, RCMP assistant commissioner and director of security and intelligence.

Used as Agent

In it Spencer admitted he performed a number of assignments for the Soviet embassy in Ottawa. He said he eventually suspected he was "maybe" being used as an agent.

Commissioner Kelly said he thought Spencer's action fitted into an espionage program.

Mr. Rankin objected to Mr. Justice Wells that the Kelly evidence contains a great number of allegations against Spencer.

Mr. Justice Wells agreed there was hearsay evidence but added under his terms of reference he can consider it.

Security Vital

"The security of this country is of more importance than the publicity of this hearing."

Mr. Rankin said he would not be satisfied short of the production of witnesses who had supplied the RCMP with information which made up the commissioner's report.

Mr. Justice Wells said:

"That would involve disclosure of this country's intelligence methods."

He repeated his statement about publicity.

Mr. Rankin, after a clash with Mr. Justice Wells on the Kelly evidence, said he was sitting only as an observer.

He said he was as conscious as anyone of the need for national security, but that the RCMP official's evidence was the main testimony on which any decision would be made.

Mr. Rankin refused to cross-examine Sgt. M. G. Low of the RCMP who had taken the statement from Spencer.

Asked by Mr. Justice Wells whether he was sitting at the hearings in a "posture of pique," Mr. Rankin said he was not.

Dr. Stanley Sunshine testified to the health of Spencer, mentioning he had a cancerous lung removed in March, 1965. Asked about Spencer's mental condition, the doctor said the former postal clerk had gone through a "psychological crisis" after the removal of the lung.

'Story to Tell'

He said Spencer did not consider himself a spy and in March, 1966, he had given him a statement headed "A story I wish to tell" in which he said he was a true Canadian patriot. The statement was entered as an exhibit.

Cpl. David Turnbull of the Vancouver RCMP division said Spencer had voluntarily given him a statement denying newspaper accounts that he had been "grilled" by police.

Spencer had said the RCMP had been most co-operative.

Spencer, 62, was found dead of natural causes in his Vancouver home April 10.

In the 98-page document made public Wednesday night, RCMP security officials claimed Spencer supplied photos and information to the Soviet embassy in Ottawa that could have been used for industrial sabotage or a projected clandestine espionage centre near the U.S. border in B.C.

The document, a transcript of evidence taken at closed hearings in Ottawa last month and a signed statement by Spencer labelled "top secret," revealed that Spencer supplied Soviet agents with films and verbal and written reports on such things as:

- Farms for sale close to the U.S. border;
- Ethnic groups in Canada and their political views;
- U.S.-Canada border crossing procedures;
- Names and dates of deceased persons on headstones in Vancouver cemeteries;
- Photos of Vancouver slums and the Trans-Mountain pipeline.

Assistant Commissioner Kelly testified that the RCMP believed the significance of Spencer's activities "suggested acquisition of suitable property for the establishment of a Russian intelligence service illegal network" near the U.S. border.

Spencer's data and photos of the Trans-Mountain pipeline and other things in Alberta and B.C. would "fit into Russian intelli-

JUMPED 'ON IMPULSE'

Youth Survives Lions Gate Plunge

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 17-year-old boy, dazed, injured and wet was found on a trail in Vancouver's Stanley Park. He said he jumped on impulse from the deck of the Lions Gate bridge, 200 feet above Burrard Inlet.

Raymond Wiebe, a Grade 11 student, told police he walked out onto the bridge Wednesday night to a lookout platform and jumped.

"He said something came over him and he jumped," said Sgt. Bob Engler of the Vancouver city police.

"He said he doesn't remember anything until he was in the water, struggling to take his clothes off."

Weibe underwent emergency surgery early this morning, and is reported in fair condition in hospital. He suffered a ruptured spleen, ruptured liver, shock, exposure and abrasions in the fall.

Police were called to the scene by George Kappert, who said he ran down the trail from Stanley Park's Prospect Point after an unidentified man told him someone had jumped from the bridge.

"There was a young fellow lying on the trail — a small scrawny guy," Kapper said.

"He was dressed only in shorts and socks, and he kept muttering 'I'm cold, I'm cold.' He was conscious and coherent, but he wasn't really with it," Kapper said. "I asked what happened and he said he'd jumped from the bridge."

The youth's father, Andrew Wiebe, a parks board employee, said he was at a bingo game when told of his son's plunge.

"He was in a lot of pain when I saw him. He just said: 'I'm sorry, dad.' "

Friends said Wiebe is a good student and an avid chess player.

In the past, only two people have been known to survive the plunge from the Lions Gate bridge.

One was Oscar (the jumping Swede) Erickson, who jumped off the bridge in December, 1938, for the heck of it, after a drinking spree.

The other was a 28-year-old Vancouver school teacher, Elaine Anna Almlie, who fell from the bridge in September, 1961, and was found clinging to a ladder on a bridge pier.

IS NOTHING SACRED . . . ROLLS HAS A DEFECT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Auto critic Ralph Nader charged Wednesday that the Rolls Royce has a safety defect.

"The overrated and overpriced Rolls Royce has poor door latches," Nader said in a statement submitted to the House commerce committee.

According to Derwyn Severy of the University of California at Los Angeles, he said, "at a 20-mile-per-hour impact, the Rolls Royce's doors, hood and trunk will come open."

Nader added the Rolls Royce to the list of cars which he has charged have safety defects as the House committee continued its hearings on legislation to reduce highway slaughter.

IN RHODESIA

'Murder Campaign' Launched by Negroes

LONDON (AP) — A Labor MP has demanded an emergency debate on what he termed an African Negro effort to launch a murder campaign in Rhodesia, the breakaway British colony rules by a white-minority regime.

The Speaker of the Commons, Dr. Horace King, halted the move by right-winger Reginald Paget who claimed African Negroes, trained in China, had crossed into Rhodesia from Zambia and then engaged in "a considerable battle" against white Rhodesians.

As a consequence, Paget told Parliament "the Rhodesians may have to cross the Zambesi river separating Rhodesia from Zambia in order to control and protect their frontier."

Speaker King dismissed Paget's request, saying the House does not have all the facts of the incident.

The clash took place Friday in the bush near Sinoia, 70 miles northwest of Salisbury. Seven Negroes died in a running gun battle with Rhodesian police.

HAD CHINESE WEAPONS

Rhodesian authorities said the Negro band had infiltrated about 160 miles from the border after crossing the Zambesi a week before. Reports from Salisbury quoted government spokesman as saying large quantities of arms, including Russian grenades and Chinese weapons, had been captured.

Meanwhile, British-Rhodesian talks on an official level are expected to begin in London toward the end of this week. Later they will be switched to Salisbury.

Children Abandoned Or Sold in Famine

NEW DELHI (UPI)—A famine affecting 3,000,000 persons in an area of 10,000 square miles in the eastern state of Orissa is so severe children are being abandoned or sold for as little as 50 cents, it was reported this week.

Harrowing stories of suffering from the famine area appeared in New Delhi newspapers.

The Hindustan Standard published a dispatch from Orissa by a correspondent who said he saw infants, reduced to skin and bones, abandoned by a roadside because their mothers no longer could breast-feed them. Other children were being offered for sale by their parents, the report said.

STARVED TO DEATH

The correspondent said he came across a grieving father who left the body of his six-year-old daughter on the banks of a river because he could not pay for her cremation. The child had starved to death.

Authorities said the situation was not so much a case of food shortage but rather the lack of money with which the peasants could buy it. A drought in the region has caused a drastic reduction in farm jobs, and many workers now can afford to eat only once every two or three days.

Help for Fire Victims Termed 'Tremendous'

Response to plea for help for a Brentwood family dispossessed by a fire that destroyed their house last week has been "tremendous" said West Saanich Indian reserve mission Father William Mudge today.

"Both the St. Vincent de Paul Society in Saanichton and my own office received a barrage of phone calls," he said.

"The Society's trucks picked up beds, tables and chairs, easy chairs, and clothing from local and Victoria donors."

"The Smith family is most grateful for the help they have received."

Mrs. Cecella Smith, a widowed reserve women, her five children, her daughter's two children and a niece were burned out of house and home Wednesday afternoon.

They lost all their furniture and clothing.

The Smiths moved into a barely furnished and poorly heated deserted house nearby on the reserve.

The concerted effort to get them back on their feet could be termed "the anatomy of a rescue."

The Department of Indian Affairs, the Red Cross and St. Vincent de Paul Societies and all the people who answered the appeal appearing in Tuesday's Times, have, according to Father Mudge outfitted their new house and their wardrobes.

Pay Bears No Relation To Duties

LONDON (AP) — A government-appointed review body on the payment of doctors proposed Wednesday that general practitioners in the national health service should have raises which would add £1,000 ($3,000) to their average annual income. It also proposed an over-all increase of about 13½ per cent in the salaries of hospital doctors and dentists, but with considerable variations between different grades.

The report called the conditions under which junior doctors in hospitals sometimes worked as "almost monastic." A first-year salary of £812 for a qualified doctor of 24 or 25 was far too low by any standard and bore no relation to the work load and responsibility he was expected to undertake, the review body said.

The system of increased payments would involve allowances for seniority or special experience, group practice, payments for night visits, aid in employing help, and compensation for goodwill of the practice when the doctor retires at 70.
